The annual meeting of the fire dis trict at Greenfield on Monday, says the Globe, was the most largely attended of any for years. The special interest centered in a proposal by F. E. The proposition was debated at length by Mr. Wells, George Hunter, Capt. G. H. Davenport, A. C. S. Stimson, C. M. Former Bank President Profits by a New Law

JAIL SENTENCE CLIPPED

Was Charged With Misappropriating $900,000--Collapse of Institution Caused Failures Involving Over $15,000,000

Greenfield, Mass., May 1.-Charles H. Cole, former president of the Globe National bank of Boston, was released from the Greenfield jail at 6 o'clock last night after serving 14 days less than six years in the institution for the misappropriation of the bank's funds. He started directly for his home in Hingham. The approval on April 27 by the president of an amendment to an act of ongress passed two years ago, increasng time allowed for good conduct, enabled Cole to obtain his release eight nonths before the expiration of his sentence under the old law.

Charles H. Cole's conviction folowed a series of financial disturbances in Boston during the latter part of December, 1899, and the first 10 days of January, 1900. The business situation was seriously unsettled by the failure on Dec. 15 of the John P. Squire & Co. (corporation) for $3,000,000; and the closing of the Broadway National bank, largely controlled by the Squires, with deposits of about $2,000,000, on the folowing morning.

An investigation by the controller of the currency terminated in an order to close the bank, and a receiver was appointed on Dec. 21. United States authorities, when they found that the institution was a wreck, ordered the arrest of the former president. He was arrested in California and brought to Boston. The warrant charged him with misappropriating

On March 6 Cole was indicted, 16 of he counts charging him with making false entries in the books of the bank, nine counts with misappropriation of various sums. Cole filed a demurrer o nine of the counts, but this was over ruled. On April 14 he retracted his plea of not guilty and, pleading guilty to three of the counts, was sentenced eight years in the Franklin county jai at Greenfield.

Since his confinement several move ments have been made to have Cole pardoned on the ground that he had not profited personally by the misuse of the bank's funds and that he had been sufficiently punished. When a petition was presented to President Roosevelt several months ago he declined to as-

Cole was one of the best known finan cial leaders in Boston. He was very popular in social circles and he retained most of his friends after his conviction. Cole lost his own fortune in the disaster which overtook his investments in mining shares and in his efforts to restore money to the bank and save it from ruin.

CALCIUM STEEL.

French Porcelain Which Has Qualities Akin to Metal. Consul General Mason of Paris in a recent report says that the so called "calcium steel" is not any form of steel or any other metal, but a ceramic product, made by baking in an oven a paste made of finely pulverized feldspar sand and lime in certain specified pro

These materials, being mixed with water and worked into a plastic paste resembling sculptor's clay and then baked, produce a porcelain, or earthenware, of great hardness and durability, which resists corrosion by acids or alteration by atmospheric influence, is a poor conductor of heat or electricity, has a specific gravity of 3.3 and is in color a yellowish white, which may be varied to any desired tint by the addition of metallic oxides.

By reason of its hardness and a certain toughness, which permits it to be bored, cut, planed or polished—qualities which generally belong to metals rather than ceramics-the substance is popul larly called, by reason of its ingredients and peculiarities, "calcium steel," although it is in no sense a metal and has no relation whatever to steel.

So far as can be ascertained it has not yet become an industrial product of any great importance, although its cheapness, ease of manufacture, toughness and exceeding resistance to acids, moisture and other deteriorating influences are thought to specially adapt it for use as material for subterranean pipes and conduits for water, gas, chemicals, etc.

San Francisco, May 1 .- Reconstruction of San Francisco has begun in earnest. As a result many destitute men have secured work. Distribution of food to the homeless has begun in the army ration plan as evolved by.Gen eral Greely and the output of supplies has been lessened.

In Sight, but It Is Uncertain

How Soon Free Supplies May

Fail--Renewal of Industrial

Activity In the Stricken City

With no immediate prospects that conditions will be so nominalized that the community will be able to feed and take care of itself for several weeks, the citizens' committee has begun to plan some way to provide against a failure of supplies. Mayor Schmitz in formed the general committee that 700 carloads of food and supplies have been distributed since April 18, and trans portation lines have information of only 108 cars now on the way.

"If," said the mayor, "this information is correct, we will soon be worse off than we were a week ago. If the information has gone abroad through the country that we are amply supplied, it is most unfortunate. It is not even known how much money we can depend upon with which to purchase supplies, for part at least of this money subscribed by individuals or companies in the east is disbursed through private agents here. While it is true that contributions of money will be very much more to the purpose than contribution: of supplies, it should be notified to the world if the one is not available the other will be most gratefully received."

Chairman Phelan of the committee on finance has as yet received no reply to his telegram to Secretary of War Taft asking what the relief committee might expect out of the fund of $2,500,000 ap propriated by congress. He has infor mation, however, that the $300,000 transmitted Saturday by Secretary Taft was given by him as president of the National Red Cross and is not a contri bution from the government.

Basing his calculations on reports received within the last 24 hours, Gen eral Greely says that the entere avail able food supply, including shipments on hand and those en route, will be sufficient under the new ration plan for the present destitute population for 21 days. The distribution of supplies in Oakland will be conducted on the same basis as in San Francisco.

General Greely had, like the other officials in San Francisco, been under the impression that the entire congressional appropriation of $2,500,000 was to be until he was informed by General Bell Civil Engineer and Suiveyor. of the fact that most of the money already had been spent. Signs of renewal of industrial ac- Telephone, Quincy 105-3. tivity are apparent in many parts of the burned area and the work of clearing away debris preparatory to rebuilding is in progress in a score of places. It is said that plans for more than 30 large buildings have been drawn and will be submitted to the authorities as soon as the building laws are promulgated. The mayor has advised the board of supervisors that he will appoint a committee consisting of engineers, architects, builders and lawyers to prepare plans for laying out streets and boule vards and reconstructing San Francisco. Street car lines are extending in all directions and the United Rail ways company has promised to give the people within a short time a better system of transportation than existed before the fire. It is estimated that 500 persons have been left destitute by the disaster here. Measures are being taken for their re-

MAY DAY STRIKES

New England Demonstrations

Are All of Local Character Boston, May 1 .- A number of minor strikes are threatened in various cities of New England today, but there is no indication that May day will bring any great general disturbance in labor circles, as has been the case in former years. The strikes which seem likely to go into effect are all of a purely local character, the building trades being most largely affected.

In Lawrence, Lynn, Fall River and Boston, workkmen of different departments of the building trades have pre sented demands, which they threaten to emphasize by quitting work, while the machinists of Lynn, the team drivers of Pawtucket, R. I., and the pavers and granite cutters of Gloucester, Mass., are also prepared to meet the refusal of their demands with a strike. Among the workers in the great cot ton mill centres of New England there

The presence of troopers caused mine workers to gather and a crowd closed in upon the state police and began throwing stones. The troopers charged the mob and scattered it, but not before several men were hurt, including a trooper. Lleutenant Smith drew his men into line and threatened to shoot if the attack was renewed. The chief burgess, who is a member of the Miners' union, addressed the crowd from a window and advised them to go home. This action had considerable effect and the detail of troopers started for the Sayre colliery, on the outskirts of Mount Carmel, where non-union men had been attacked by foreigners Saturday

Districts Good Bye to The Double Representative

The division of Norfolk county into Representative districts, as proposed by the Norfolk County Commissioners seems to meet with favor, and it will be difficult to improve upon it, all things considered.

District

The county without Cohasset has 37,572 legal voters, so that there should be about 2890 voters to a district. As divided, Brookline is favored, because it will have two representatives for 5120 voters, only 2560 to a district.

It is proposed to divide Quincy, into two districts, which can be done very easily, as Wards One, Two and Three have 3196 voters, and Wards Four, Five and Six 2813 voters.

Five of the districts, including one in the other eight fall below.

The large towns of Hyde Park and Weymouth have more voters than other districts, but they will be free from outside voters in electing their representatives.

The number of voters in each district is shown in the summary below; also the number of voters in each town in

FINANCING A FIRE LOSS

How Insurance Companies Get Money For a Big One.

METHOD OF ADJUSTING CLAIMS

Their Payment at Earliest Possible Moment Aimed At-Relation Between Quick Assets and Quick Settlements-When Securities Have to Be Liquidated.

San Francisco's great fire has directed attention to the manner in which an insurance company goes about to setthem possess very heavy bank balances, the adjustment of claims calling for the payment of $150,000,000 or more represents a financial operation of sufficient magnitude to involve rather careful financing. How are these companies get their money from and usually held by large fire underwriting corporations. As soon as a great insurance company learns that it will have to foot the bill for a huge conflagration its officials hold a hurried conference and get at the volume of their liquid assets and the extent of their combined bank balances. In the case of a large foreign underwriting corporation its home office in London, Liverpool, Manchester, Berlin or Paris is immediately communicated with and a rough estimate made of the probable aggregate demand. With most of these companies it is a matter of pride to pay the claims at the earliest possible moment. At the time of the great Chicago fire in 1871, when property valued at $190,000,000 was destroyed, and a year later, when the insurance companies had to pay an $80,000,000 loss bill for the Boston fire, many of the later where there is a chance to grow. May

The Daily Ledger knows from experience that it is a good investment to have a building adapted to its needs, where there is a chance to grow. May claims were settled within a few days after the conflagration took place.

In the same way the companies did their best two years ago to pay the losses of the Baltimore fire without unreasonable delay. In this way they gained prestige. Within one week after the Boston fire one of the largest New York companies, having dispatched a vice president to the scene to pay claims in double quick time, wrote a sufficient volume of new insurance to recoup itself for all the losses sustained. These quick settlements involve equally quick financing, and one of the features of the present movement on the part of the underwriters to effect speedy settlement of the San Francisco losses has been the negotiation with the home offices of the foreign companies for cable transfers of money with which to meet the claims.

When a loss occurs an insurance com pany first has recourse to its bank balances, and when these are insufficient to meet immediate claims the company borrows what it needs. Most of the large companies have accounts in four or five banks, so that they can easily secure accommodations in case it is required. When the bank balances are insufficient and losses are heavily in excess of $200,000 the company has to either borrow funds or sell some of the stocks or bonds that it has in its list of assets. In the case of the Baltimore fire most of the companies managed to pay out what was needed without resorting to any violent liquidations at all. Whatever securities were sold to pay the claims there involved were for the most part sacrificed by companies that were too weak to bear the loss and were forced to reinsure their risks with some stronger rival. This was done in the case of nine or ten companies that had to an extent ignored the dangers of what our insurance men call the "conflagration hazard" and accepted too many risks in the affected area.

In the case of very large companies however, which do a heavy business throughout the United States and Europe as well the perils of the "conflagration hazard" are minimized by the fact that the risks are so widely distributed as to render it almost impos sible for any one disaster to entail a sufficient loss to cripple the company. Whatever losses are sustained by foreign companies operating in San Francisco will have probably to be financed from the other side, since the comonly an insignificant amount of money invested in American stocks or bonds. For that reason these companies are not likely to sell any large portion of the stocks held in the United States. The payment of a great fire loss is a very interesting operation. Hundreds San Francisco claims are wholly liquidated, but within a month a large portion of the insurance loss will be settled for. While the insurance companies will not pay for earthquake damage, it will be difficult in many claims to tell where the earthquake damage left off and the fire damage began. For that reason the great fire companies that were arranging with their banks for large advances a few days ago based their negotiations on cently sold by auction by the California Fruit Distributers at Chambers street, New York, for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers brought $2,000.

No May First Labor Troubles

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earn estly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed. Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Culncy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad a confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

FAILURE OF REVOLUTION

Disorderly Masses Charged by Cavalry With Drawn Swords, Many Being Wounded on Both Sides--Authorities Fully In Control-Other Disturbances

Paris, May 2 .- The long-dreaded labor day failed to bring the revolution which inflammatory journals predicted, but none the less it brought scenes of extreme violence. The labor districts, which thousands of troops controlled with difficulty, and even central porions of Paris have taken on the appearance of a siege, with regiments of infantry and cavalry camped about the Arc de Triomphe, the Bourse, the Bank of France and the great railway station, and sentinels placed before banks and private establishments.

At no time did the demonstration reach the magnitude of a revolt, but was rather a leaderless tumult in which the serious labor element, struggling for a principle, were hopelessly confused with violent agitators, anarchists, revolutionists, roughs and a large number of the curious. The workmen never succeeded in forming a rocession or even in assembling more an scattered bands. Their chief ac-

A further attempt was also made to derail a train proceeding to Dieppe. A heavy rail was placed on the track near Rouen, but contact with the wheels of the locomotive caused the obstacle to leave

Reports from the provinces show that there were violent demonstrations at Marseilles, Brest, Bordeaux, St. Etienne, Lyons and Rouen. At Marseilles processions carrying red flags and creating violent disorder came in collision with the troops and a number of persons were injured. At Bordeaux processions paraded the streets, singing revolutionary songs, and the cavalry charged them, wounding many. At Lyons a crowd of manifestants attacked the street cars, breaking the windows, whereupon the dragoons charged the rioters, wounding a large number. There were lesser disturbances at many

TRIP IS CURTAILED Repainting.

President Interferes With March to the Sea

AN ESCORT FOR SHERMAN

son of Famous General Will Be Accompanied Only About Fifty Miles From Starting Point --Explanation From Duvall

Washington, May 2 .- The president last night directed the curtailment of the movement of the Twelfth cavalry as escort to Rev. Father Thomas Sherman, son of General W. T. Sherman, on a march over part of the line of General Sherman's march to the sea. Instead the trip may be made from Fort Oglethorpe as far as Resaca, which is within 50 miles of Fort Oglethorpe, when the cavalry detachment is to return to the latter place.

Orders to this effect were given last night, following the receipt of a long dispatch from Brigadier General Duvall, commanding the department of gulf, by whose authority the detachment was ordered to accompany Sherman, and a conference on the subject between President Roosevelt and General Bell, chief of staff of the army.

In response to a dispatch sent by the war department to Duvall relative to the report that a military escort had been furnished Father Sherman for a march to the sea over the route General Sherman took during the Civil war, the following telegram was received at the war department last night from

"Replying your telegram regarding the detachment of Twelfth cavalry ac companied by Rev. Father Sherman from Chattanooga to Atlanta, two officers with eight enlisted men were authorized by department commander to go over the line of operations of Gen eral Sherman's army in its movement to Atlanta and to act as escort for Father Sherman, who wished, for historical reasons, to go over the same territory. The officers were selected because of being interested in the study of former operations of the army and were directed to submit sketches of the country passed over and to prepare a memoir of their trip, to be read before the officers' school at their post.

"Every opportunity is taken advantage of to study General Sherman's Atlanta campaign and it was deemed a happy circumstance that a courtesy to General Sherman's son could be com bined with military instructions. Practice marches with large bodies are to be made from now on over the historic fields of Chickamauga and Atlanta by troops from Forts Oglethorpe and Mc Pherson, on which officers will study and discuss the operations of Genera

"The detachment in question was authorized by the department commander, and the commanding officer of Fort Oglethorpe telegraphs under date of April 30: 'Lieutenants Campbell and this morning for Atlanta. Father And Hancock Hotel

Sherman accompanied party. "The party is not directed to go over the territory of the march to the sea but will return to the post from Atlanta. Correspondence on the subjecis forwarded by mail."

The president had a conference on the subject with General Bell last night. Bell took Duvall's report to the White House and after the conference the following dispatch, which restricts the distance the escort is to go, was sent to Duvall from the White House:

"In view of the misapprehension seemingly caused by the terms em ployed in your order, the president deems it best, after the detachment of the Twelfth cavalry has gone as far as Resaca and visited the intervening field of the engagement at Dalton, the officers and men composing the detachment shall return to Fort Oglethorpe which he directs be done."

Newfoundlanders Not Worrying St. Johns, May 2 .- The colonial authorities claim they are not concerned over the Washington report that the state department is protesting to the British cabinet against the recent action of the colony in fining American fishing vessels for alleged breaches of the colonial fishery regulations on the coast line where Americans enjoy fishery rights under the treaty of 1818.

Big Schooner Sold at Auction Norfolk, May 2 .- The five-masted schooner Fannie Palmer was sold at auction at Newport News to E. L. Hoagland of Portsmouth for $41,500. Captain William Palmer of Boston, former owner of the Palmer, bid $41, 000. The sale was to satisfy a libel claim of $32,000 by Hudson Bros. which firm floated the vessel at Little island, off the Virginia coast.

Finger In Manchurian Pie St. Petersburg, May 2 .- Further intimations that Russia is playing a deep game in the Far East are given in an official circular sent to all newspapers and periodicals forbidding the publication of any news with regard to the demobilization of the army, movements of troops in Manchuria and the reorganization of the military establishment in SIberia and the Far East. Independents Win In Hungary Budapest, May 2 .- With the exception of the Roumanian district, where one man was killed in a riot, the elections have passed off quietly. The Independence party already is assured of an absolute majority.

Paint has no protection against the elements, and climatic changes work hard and fast upon it. The best paint will eventually wear down, and the surface will have to be repainted. But when Pure White Lead and Pure Linseed Oil are used the surface is left smooth and free, all ready for the painter to begin his work.

If, on the other hand, a hard, lifeless, inelastic paint (such as zinc and barytes) has been used, it cracks, peels and wears off unevenly, leaving a scaly surface, necessitating the expensive and dangerous process of burning off before satisfactory repainting can be done. To paint with cheap paint is to repaint at high cost, and too soon. Those who use

The latter then fired at him, the bullet taking effect in his shoulder.

How Russia Will Build Warships St. Petersburg, May 2.—Disregarding the determination of other nations, the naval technical committee of the admiralty has decided, on the basis of the lessons of the war, in favor of complete armor protection not only for the vitals of battleships but also for the bow and stern, having in mind the loss of battleships in the battle of the Straits of Tsushima, whose sinking was largely due to damage at unarmored points. FRISCO FIRE FROM THE BAY.

Terrifying Spectacle as Seen From an Escaping Vessel. The steamer Itauri, bound for Ham. burg, Germany, recently put in at Port Los Angeles and is the first vessel to bring by water route those who witnessed the destruction of San Francisco, says the Kansas City Star. "The Itauri left San Francisco Thursday afternoon (April 19), when the flames seemed to be at their highest," said First Mate Charles Appen in his description of the catastrophe. "As seen from the bay it was a sublime but terrible spectacle. We were anchored more than a mile out in the roadstead, but the wind as it swept over the burning city and down upon us was like the breath of a demon. At times it was impossible for us to remain on deck. The water of the bay became heated. The terrific concussions of dynamite and the firing of artillery along the water front by the soldiery in their attempts to stop the flames brought hundreds of fish to the surface. Our clearance papers were burned, but we could not retain our anchorage, and late Thursday afternoon we started toward the open sea.

"Wharfs along the water front which had not been consumed were filled with people. They beckoned to us that they needed assistance. We could see them holding up their hands in the attitude of prayer. It was the thought of self preservation for us all that kept the Itauri's course unchanged. As we passed through the Golden Gate the hills qu each side were mountains of flame. In many places the earth spots showed where the buildings had been already consumed, but these were few.

"It was dusk when we passed out of the harbor. The waves, instead of scintillating with the rays of the setting sun, burned scarlet first to the right pillow slips, marmalade and eggs; Mrs. and then to the left. At midnight we Sibly, mattress ticking; Mrs. Henry M. were well out to sea-I should say thirty miles. The flames were still visible and until almost the dawn of another day we stood on deck and watched the reflection of the flames as they played to and fro on the cloud mountains which hung as a pall over the ruined

LIGHTS SEA'S DEPTHS.

Submarine Work Revolutionized by a Diving Lamp. Submarine operations have been revolutionized by a submarine electric light invented by Francis G. Hall of Yale university. Owing chiefly to the fact that comparatively few persons have ever ventured to don diving armor and descend below the surface an air of mystery has come to enshroud each eye by the most approved method without the work of a submarine diver. In the shadow of a ship's hull or obstruction or at depths of fifty feet and over there exists an impenetrable gloom even with fairly clear water, while in the usual harbor the sun's rays never reach more than a few feet below the surface. The new light has changed all this. The yachtsman in search of recreation or the professional diver may now go down to the bottom and explore or work in perfect ease, for the rays from this lamp light up a space the size of a large room as bright as The lamp consists of a water tight metallic case inclosing a mechanism and regulator so that when submerged it will give forth from the glass chamber at its lower end a most brilliant, the guests tonight of the Quincy Board clear light, better than the best averof Trade, and a beneficial exchange of age street arc lamp. Its operation is ideas is sure to follow. Owing to the simple, and there is no intricate mechanism requiring the careful handling of an expert mechanic or electrician. It is so constructed as to withstand the hardest usage. When in use the diver may carry the lamp about by means of the circular guard handle, set it down or suspend it in a convenient manner directly by the cable, no ropes being required. Its weight under water is only a few pounds, just enough to keep it in position in a current or tideway.

The submarine cable conducting the current to the lamp leads to the surface, and thence to a combined junction and switch plate controlled by the diver's attendant. From this "plate" connection is made to a neighboring electric circuit, storage battery or small generator outfit supplying the electric power.

Miss Dearbora Surprised to See It There After Earthquake

Many Quincy friends of Miss Mary E. You may be interested to know how we fared through the earthquake. This city was badly shaken, and

Our house was not damaged, but everything was thrown from the mantels to the floor, furniture displaced and the chimney twisted. Nearly every chimney in this city was either thrown down, or turned part way about.

People were not slow in getting out to see what was going on. I was greatly surprised to see the moon still in the sky.

But Petaluma suffered little compared with other places. Santa Rosa, 10 miles north, was almost totally destroyed by the earthquake, followed by fire, and scores of lives were lost. Sebastopol, Inverness, Tomales, Bloomfield and many small towns in this vicinity were badly wrecked, and you know from the papers of the dreadful destruction of San Francisco, 36 miles

Brockton Finds Quincy Will Cooperate On the Canal

If there was ever any doubt as to the earnestness of the Brockton business men over the project to build a canal from Quincy to Fall River, that doubt was dispelled Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Quincy Board of Trade.

The meeting was held in Colonial hall, and aside from a large number of prominent Quincy people there were a number from Brockton. The latter included Judge Loyed E. Chamberlin, Edward B. Mellen, Herbert E. Guy, Col. John J. Whipple, Thomas A. Norris, Representative F. E. Packard, Senator G. H. Garfield, Alderman W. W. A. Bullivant and Allen Randall.

The speaker of the evening was Judge Chamberlin. T. L. Williams, President of the Quincy Board of Trade presided, and in pening the meeting said:

It affords me great pleasure to meet so many prominent business men as have assembled here tonight, and in the name of the Quincy Board of Trade to extend a hearty welcome to these distinguished guests from our neighboring

They have come here tonight at the nvitation of The Quincy Board of Trade to talk to us about the proposed canal, a waterway that would make of Brockton a busy seaport, and Quincy a great port of entry.

The scheme of cutting a canal along this route has been talked for a hunired years, but never has it crystalized until now; never has it had the brains and push back of it that it now has. Never have business necessities demanded it as they do today.

And never have men been so willing o back it with the needful financial aid. And it really looks now as though they would succeed in obtaining their

Costly canals have all met with great opposition. The great Suez canal with ts 98 miles of length was opposed perbanks and cement had to be brought from Europe to build walls of concrete almost its entire length. The water of the Mediterranean was higher than that of the Red sea and pessimists argued that it, would create such a strong tide that the canal would be difficult of navigation.

But when the canal was opened it was found that there was scarcely any perceptible current. It has been a success in every way, and if it were closed today it would be a serious blow to the commerce of the entire world.

The city of Manchester in England is 90 milės inland, and until a few years ago was reached from Liverpool by two small rivers and short canals through which only very light-draft scows could bring materials to and take the finished products from its many factories. But Manchester was blessed with energetic business men, who saw that a deep water canal was an absolute neessity, and in the face of great opposition the canal was constructed, although almost incredible feats of engineering skill had to be performed.

Locks had to be built and the canal tself bad to cross two rivers, over which it was carried, and draws constructed to allow shipping to pass up and down the rivers.

But all these obstacles were overcome, and Manchester has since boomed as never before.

Now, gentlemen, I do not wish to occupy any more time, as the speakers present will need every available minate in which to talk to you about the canal, and I am sure that we are all eager to listen to them.

I now take pleasure in introducing to you Hon. Lloyed E. Chamberlain, president of Brockton Board of Trade.

Judge Chamberlin spoke nearly an hour. He gave an exhaustive histury of the various canals that had been built throughout the world, and dwelt at length upon the benefits to be derived by the building of the proposed canal.

He said that men were ready to spend money in the project, but not until we have something to spend it for. If the

Nevertheless, the working districts continue in a state of effervescence, with frequent minor affrays, none, however, assuming proportions requir ing intervention by the troops. The latter remained under arms throughout yesterday at the barracks in the Place de la Republique. Occasionally a single company made a tour of the square as a suggestive warning to groups of loiterers. Towards nightfall a squadron of cavalry was drawn up facing the Labor Exchange, as it was feared the close of the afternoon meeting of the various trades would result in another demonstration. The precaution, however, proved unnecessary, and platoons of police maintained order, compelling the crowds to keep moving and making frequent arrests of loiterers.

"In fact, the labor question, as it is called, seems to have overshadowed nearly every other question, and men are evidently more desirous of having this problem solved than they are of deciding the form and functions of the government under which they live. Inseparably connected with the subject is the question of wages or the fair remuneration of labor.

"It is absurd to say that the economic life of the nation may be viewed as something independent of the code of morals. Justice, then, must reign in pared to admit an overwhelming tyranny of force and the supremacy of matter. WON'T LACK FUNDS

San Francisco Discounts Fear of Hard Times

THE CITY IS CHEERFUL

Doing Business, but It Is Along the Lines of the Mining Camp of Forty-Nine--Many Years of Rebuilding In Prospect

San Francisco, May 3 .- An investigation has demonstrated that the fear that San Francisco will suffer a period of hard times as an aftermath of the fire is unfounded. Careful estimates made by authorities competent to speak show that within the next year there will be more than $207,110,000 available for the rehabilitation of San Francisco.

It is expected that a large part of this money will come from eastern and foreign capitalists. In figuring the money which will be available the investigators did not take into consideration the sums that may be raised for the beautification and improvement of

One San Francisco newspaper, published for the time being in Oakland, said editorially yesterday that business had now been restored practically to normal conditions in the stricken city. In fact, the Merchants' Exchange is conducting its affairs on the sidewalk; the local headquarters of great railroad systems are housed in rude shacks of rough boards and rusty sheets of galvanized iron picked out of the neighboring ruins; the state supreme court is holding sessions in a Jewish synagogue; the representatives of the fire insurance companies are beginning the adjustment of losses in the open air in one of the public parks, and the mayor's official carriage is a borrowed sewing which we think is second to none in this city. machine wagon drawn by a crippled horse.

That gives a fair epitome of the normal condition of today. There is The WEEKS-HILL Pharmacy, real life in San Francisco, but it is more the life of the mining camp of '49 than of the modern metropolitan city. On all sides San Franciscans are minimizing the disaster, declaring that every sign of catastrophe will have disappeared in two years from this time. Impossible as this is, they appear to believe what they are saying.

Nowhere within the desolated expanse of the burned district, however, has business of any sort, not even that of the peanut stand, been re-established on anything like a normal basis. Yet the gigantic labor of restoration has fairly begun, and it seems certain to go on from this time without interruption. In five years' time there will be a new city stronger than the old, better in every way.

The people of every class and walk in life are working together to that end without jar or difference. Already syndicates are forming among the Mr. and Mrs. W. Rollins Abrams, bankers and captains of the state to take care of a proposed municipal bond issue which is to provide the ready money for rebuilding.

since the day of the earthquake have witnessed a transformation from chaos to regular order. The unburned region Hack, Livery and Boarding Stable has been nearly restored to its normal condition, and when housewives are permitted to return to their kitchens to cook, after the required inspection of chimneys, the streets will have their natural appearance. In the burned area each day brings its added share of improvement and the great task of cleaning up has been fairly started. Coroner Walsh said last night: will be at least 1000 additions to the death roll. I would not be surprised if the number reached 1500."

Californians Not Consulted Washington, May 3 .- That the California senators do not consider that there should at present be an effort to secure government aid in the general reconstruction of the city of San Francisco was made evident in the senate. The question came up on Mr. Newlands' resolution directing the finance Portraits Copied in Crayons committee of the senate and the ways and means committee of the house to consider the feasability of the government's guaranteeing bonds to aid in the rehabilitation of the stricken city. Newlands contended for the regularity of his suggestion and enlarged upon the desirability of making the city a more attractive centre of population than it had ever been.

Mr. Flint and Mr. Perkins deprecated the introduction of the resolution as unwise at this time, and both indicated their opinion that the California delegation should have been consulted before the presentation of the measure. The resolution was referred to the committee on finance.

Good Work of Red Cross

Washington, May 3.-The total amount of money raised by the Amerlcan Red Cross up to date for the relief of San Francisco sufferers is $1,738,000. Of this sum $490,000 has been sent in cash to San Francisco, $34,000 was spent for blankets forwarded for the relief work, and $2000 was used in buying Furniture and Piano Mover. provisions. The present balance is $1,-$02,000.

House Passes Important Bills Washington, May 3 .- The house has completed the agricultural appropriation bill and passed the military academy bill. The agricultural appropriation bill carried $7,481,440. The military accdemy bill carried $7,481,440. tary academy bill carried $1,663,115.

The aria, Bel Raggio, from Semirunwas given in a most finished manner. This showed the singer's voice to the best advantage.

Miss Whiteley, the assisting artist, received an ovation. She is the most finished violinist ever heard in Quincy. It was a musical treat to hear this young lady. Her technique is marvelous. Each time the audience demanded an encore and Miss Whiteley generously responded.

The recital was a perfect success from every point of view and Miss Foley, after singing a long program, was forced to sing once more. Mrs. Wilbur

So long as the BASIS of apportion ment upon cities in the Metropolitan water district remains as at present, Quincy cannot expect any material reduction in its assessment: therefore large expenditure to meter all services s unwise, useless, and a reckless expense for the city.

One of the most curious of the many queer mediaeval customs was that known as "the truce of God." From what we have been able to learn of it the custom appears to have originated as an outgrowth of a desire to protect the common people to some extent at least against the lawless tyranny of the feudal lords of the middle ages. A Shifting Landmark.

In the first years of navigation on western waters, says the author of 'Early Steamboat Navigation on the Missouri River," pilots were forced to use all sorts of signals and marks to decide their courses. One had a custom of running a certain crossing if he came to it at night by the aid of a dog. The animal belonged to a family living in a house at the foot of the crossing directly in the course of the bend. Whenever a boat was coming this dog ran out to the bank, always in exactly the same place, which was a line with the channel, and barked his loudest. The pilot ran toward the ound of the barking with the utmost confidence. Unhappily the dog one light took a notion to change his stand and barked a little higher up. The next morning the boat was a hopeless wreck on a sand bar, into which the ollot had run at full speed.

GARFIELD IS CRITICISED

Assertions In His Report Called "Untruthtul and Unjust" ---Sarcastic Reference to Ideas Entertained by Roosevelt

New York, May 5 .- In reply to President Roosevelt's message and the report of Commissioner Garfield, Messrs. Rogers and Archbold of the Standard Oil company said that their examination of the message and report had been a hurried one, and that they should at a later date make a full answer to their passage of a bill enlarging the powers of the interstate commerce commission, and just and equitable railway rates, we have precisely the same interest that any good citizen has. Regarding his criticism upon the management of the railways, or his strictures upon any agts of the interstate commerce commission, we have neither responsibility nor concern.

"When, however, he or Commissioner Garfield attacks the Standard Oil company, and uses its methods of doing business as an object lesson for the purpose of promoting his views, we protest. It may be frankly stated at the outset that the Standard Oil company has at all times, within the limits of fairness and with due regard for the law, sought to secure the most advantageous freight rates and routes possible. There will be no denial of this fact on our part. The question is whether we have at any point violated the law or the proprieties. "One does not care to bandy words with the President of the United States. It is not easy to differentiate between Mr. Roosevelt, the president, and Mr. Roosevelt, the individual. He has given us of his advice most generously upon every subject, from the size of our families to the mistakes of the federal judges, and some error is inevitable now and then to the most conservative man under such circumstances.

"We say flatly that any 'assertion that the Standard Oil company has been or is now knowingly engaged in practices which are unlawful, is alike untruthful and unjust."

The statement takes up in detail the various phases of Garfield's report and claims that some of the facts, if borne steadily in mind, will answer some of the criticisms which he later indulges in. In reply to the allegation that the "development of the pipe line system by the Standard Oil company was the result of special agreement with the railroad companies," the statement says that as a matter of fact the development of the pipe line system by the Standard Oil company was in the face of violent hostility on the part of the Oil enjoys a monopoly in certain parts of New England because some of the C. G. Edgar and Edwin Earle. railroads there refuse to prorate, the statement says that the man who could be deceived by such a statement must be pretty dense. If the New England roads ought to prorate, but refuse to do so, it must occur to someone, some where, that perhaps the New England roads and not the Standard Oil company are blameable.

"Mr. Garfield's claim," continues the statement, "that by the use of low interstate rates the Standard Oil company gained an unfair advantage is unfor tunate. At great expense we con structed pipe lines from the Pennsylvania and Ohio fields and from the Kansas and Indian Territory oll fields to Whiting, Ills. If our competitors did not do the same thing shall it be said that anyone is unfair who does not give them the advantage of the enterprise of ours? Are we to have no ad- speech. Doctors think she will revantage because we constructed these pipe lines? Is the amount invested and the interest on that investment to count for nothing?

"It is asserted over and over again in the report that the Standard Oil company profited by 'secret' and 'un lawful' freight rates. Yet in the same connection it is admitted in the report that all of these rates are covered by tariffs filed with the interstate commerce commission precisely as the law provides and therefore cannot be either by the British steamer Mohawk, New 'secret' or 'unlawful.'

"The statement that the 'Standard Oil company has largely by unfair and unlawful methods crushed out home competition' is fully answered by the fact that home competition has always existed, is steadily growing, and that there are now at least 125 competitive refineries in the United States.

"As to the claim that changes in rates have been made since the commissioner's efficient work began, all the Standard Oil company has to say is that any such changes have been made without its suggestion or effort.

COMPETITION CRUSHED

Pith of President's Message Regarding Standard Oil

Commissioner Garfield on the investigation of the operations of the Standard Oil company, sent to congress by President Roosevelt, was accompanied by a special message in which the president sharply criticised the methods of the company, which he declares are largely unfair and unlawful, and by which home competition is crushed.

Most of the facts set forth by Garfield, the president says, are not disputed, and show that the Standard Oil company has benefited enormously by secret rates, partly at the expense of the railroads, but its greater profit is from the public. The refusal of railroads shareholders. Meanwhile they made a to prorate also works in favor of the statement to the press, which says in "trust" and gives it an absolute monopoly in New England. Similar con-"In the president's effort to secure the ditions prevail in a large part of the west and southwest.

The president suggests as a measure of competition the placing of alconol used in the arts and manufactures on the free list. He also suggests that no oil or coal lands held by the government, on public domain or in territory owned by Indians, should be allenated. The president advocates also enlarged powers for the interstate commerce commission, by which records of railroads may be examined and action taken to prevent secret rates and discrimination. He points out also that the sugar "trust," as well as the Standard Oil company, is an offender.

The beneficial results of the investigation, it is stated, already are seen in the abandonment by many railroads of secret rates. Garfield gives in detail many instances of violation of existing laws, which, however, he believes, need strengthening.

Tuttle Takes Exceptions

Boston, May 5 .- President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine railroad, when asked if he had any comment to make on Commissioner Garfield's charges concerning that road, said: "If Commissioner Garfield is correctly reported as stating that the Boston and Maine railroad has refused to prorate on oil shipped from the west to this territory over connecting roads, all I have to say is that he is entirely mistaken."

Rate Bill Amendments Up

Washington, May 5 .- In accordance with the agreement of last Monday, the senate yesterday entered upon the consideration of amendments to the railroad rate bill under the 15-minute rule, but made little progress. The greater part of the day was devoted to Mr. Lodge's provision bringing pipe lines within the terms of the bill and it was ultimately unanimously agreed to, after so amending it as to exclude gas and water lines from its operation, thus practically confining it to oil lines.

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleansing is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities. For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and Dyspensia. Headache and Dyspepsia.

A small army of men will be employed for two years or more in the construc tion of the plant, and when it is completed it will give employment to about 15,000 men.

The location of the plant includes a portion of the present bed of the Calumet river, the course of which is to be changed so that the waterway will fit in with the company's plans for the development of the land between the lake front and the Calumet river.

In addition to the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern and the other railroads owned by the Steel corporation, the new plant will be served by four great railroad systems, the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Wabash. FOR SALE AT THE

San Francisco As It Used to Be

Gayest of Cities That Gave Itself to Romance, Love and Pleasure.

All Nations of the Earth Met In Its Confines - Where Lavish Hospitality, Gayety In Restaurants and Love of Open Air Life Abounded.

The old San Francisco is dead. The gayest, lightest hearted, most pleasure loving city of this continent and in many ways the most interesting and romantic is a horde of huddled refugees living among ruins, says the New York Sun. It has already started to rebuild, but those who have known that peculiar city by the Golden Gate and have caught its flavor of the Arabian Nights feel that it can never be the same. It is as though a pretty, frivolous woman had passed through a great tragedy. She survives, but she is sobered and indifferent. When it rises out of the ashes it must be a modern city, much like other cities and without its old flavor.

The city lay on a series of hills and the lowlands between. These hills are really the end of the coast range of mountains which lie between the interior valleys and the ocean to the south. To its rear was the ocean, but the greater part of the town fronted on two sides on San Francisco bay, a body of water always tinged with gold from the great washings of the mountain, usually overhung with a haze and of magnificent color changes. Across the bay to the north lies Mount Tamalpais, about 5,000 feet high and so close that ferries from the water front took one in less than half an hour to the lit- and stained an orange brown. tle towns of Sausalito and Belvidere, at its foot.

Peculiar Yet Delightful Climate.

The climate of California is peculiar; it is hard to give an impression of it. In the first place all the forces of nature work on laws of their own in that part of California. There is no thunder or lightning; there is no snow except a flurry once in five or six years; there are perhaps half a dozen nights in the winter when the thermometer drops low enough so that there is a little film of ice on exposed water in the morning. Neither is there any hot weather. Yet most easterners remaining in San Francisco for a few days remember that they were always chilly.

For the Gate is a big funnel, drawing in the winds and the mists which cool off the great, hot interior valleys of the San Joaquin and Sacramento. So the west wind blows steadily ten mornings are foggy. This keeps the ventures. temperature steady at about 55 degrees-a little cool for comfort of an unacclimated person, especially indoors. Californians, used to it, hardly ever think of making fires in their houses except in the few exceptional days of the winter season, and then they rely mainly upon fireplaces. This is like the custom of the Venetians and the Florerines.

But give an easterner six months of it, and he, too, learns to exist without a chill in a steady temperature a little lower than that to which he is accustomed at home. After that one goes about with perfect indifference to the temperature. Summer and winter San Francisco women wear light tailor made clothes, and men wear the same fall weight suits all the year around.

panorama. Probably no other city of the passenger as he reached dockage in a succession of hill terraces.

At one side was Telegraph hill, the that it had a 200 foot sheer cliff on its seaward frontage. Farther along lay Nob hill, crowned with the Mark of a citadel, and in later years by the great, white Fairmount. Farther along Below was the business district, whose low site caused all the trouble.

were low and of wood. In the middle period of the seventies, when a great this. part of San Francisco was building, there was some atroclous architecture perpetrated. In that time, too, every one put bow windows on his house to catch all of the morning sunlight that was coming through the fog, and those little houses, with bow windows and fancy work all down their fronts, were characteristic of the middle class residence district. Then the Italians, who tumbled over Telegraph hill, had built as they listed and with little regard for streets, and their houses hung crazily on a side hill which was little less than a precipice. For the most part the Chinese, although they occupied an abandoned business district, had remade the houses Chinese fashion, and the Mexicans and Spaniards had added to their houses those little merry, the adventurous, often the desbalconies without which life is not life perate, always the brave, deserted the

Yet the most characteristic thing after all was the coloring, for the sea fog had a trick of painting every exposed object a sea gray which had a tinge of dull green in it. This, under the leaden sky of a San Francisco morning, had a depressing effect on first sight and afterward became a delight to the eye, for the color was soft, gentle and infinitely attractive in mass.

tion. Where Vallejo street ran up Latin leaven has had its influence. Russian hill it progressed for four blocks by regular steps like a flight of stairs. With these hills, with the strangeness of the architecture and with the green gray tinge over everything, the city fell always into vistas and pictures, a setting for the romance which hung over everything, which has always hung over life in San Francisco since the padres came and gathered the Indians about Mission Dolores.

And it was a city of romance and a gateway to adventure. It opened out on the mysterious Pacific, the untamed ocean, and most of China, Japan, the south sea islands, Lower California, the west coast of Central America, Australia that came to the United States passed in through the Golden Gate. There was a sprinkling, too, of Alaska and Siberia. From his windows on Russian hill one saw always something strange and suggestive creeping through the mists of the bay. It would be a south sea island brig bringing in copra, to take out cottons and idols; a Chinese junk with fan-like sails, back from an expedition after sharks' livers; an old whaler, which seemed to drip oil, back from a year of cruising in the arctic. Even the tramp wind jammers were deep chested craft, capable of rounding the Horn or of circumnavigating the globe, and they came in streaked and picturesque from their long voyaging.

In the orange colored dawn which always comes through the mists of that bay the fishing fleet would crawl in under triangular lateen sails, for the fishermen of San Francisco bay are all Neapolitans, who have brought their costumes and their customs and sail with lateen rigs shaped like the ear of a horse when the wind fills them

Along the water front the people of these craft met. "The smelting pot of the races," Stevenson called it, and this was always the city of his soul. A Distinctive Type.

Brought up in a bountiful country, where no one really has to work very hard to live, nurtured on adventure scion of a free and merry stock, the real, native Californian is a distinctive type, as far from the easterner in psychology as the extreme southerner is from the Yankee. He is easy going, witty, hospitable, lovable, inclined to be unmoral rather than immoral in his personal habits and above all easy to meet and to know. Above all these is an art sense all through the populace, which sets it off from any other part of the country. This sense is almost Latin in its strength, and the Californian owes it to the leaven of Latin blood.

With such a people life was always gay. If they did not show it on the streets, as do the people of Paris, it was because the winds made open cafes disagreeable at all seasons of the year. The gayety went on indoors or out on the hundreds of estates that fringed the city. It was noted for its restaurants. Perhaps for people who care not how they spend their money the very best could not be had there, but for $1, 75 cents, 50 cents, 25 cents or even 15 cents the restaurants afforded the best fare on earth at the price.

The San Francisco French dinner and the San Francisco free lunch were as the Public library to Boston or the stock yards to Chicago. A number of causes contributed to this consumma tion. The country all about produced everything that a cook needs and that in abundance-the bay was an almost untapped fishing pound, the fruit farms came up to the very edge of the town, and the surrounding country produced in abundance fine meats, all cereals and all vegetables.

But the chefs who came from France plenty were the head and front of it. They passed on their art to other Frenchmen or to the clever Chinese. gest restaurants were born in Canton, China. Later the Italians, learning of this country where good food is appre-

Marvelous Meals In Little Hotels.

Meals that were marvels were served in tumbledown little hotels. Most famous of all the restaurants was the Poodle Dog. There have been no less than four restaurants of this name, beginning with a frame shanty where in the early days a prince of French cooks used to exchange recipes for gold dust. Each succeeding restaurant of the name has moved farther down-The Barbary Coast was a loud bit of town, and the recent Poodle Dog stands-or stood-on the edge of the Tenderloin in a modern five story building. Medicine.

Throw out opium, said Dr. Holmes, which the Creator himself seems to prescribe, for we often see the scarlet poppy growing in the cornfields, as if were foreseen that wherever there is hunger to be fed there must also be pain to be soothed; throw out a few specifics which our art did not discover and is hardly needed to apply; throw out wine, which is a food and the vapors which produce the miracle of anaesthesia, and I firmly believe that if the whole materia medica as now used could be sunk to the bottom of the sea it would be all the better for mankind and all the worse for the fishes.

The shortest system of medical prac tice that I know of is the oldest, but not the worst. It is older than Hippocrates, older than Chiron the Centaur. Nature taught it to the first mother when she saw her firstborn child putting some ugly pebble or lurid berry into its mouth. I know not in what language it was spoken, but I know that in English it would sound thus: "Spit it out!"

When You Write Abroad.

In writing to France or Italy, a postmaster pointed out the other day, the address should be printed, for the printed characters of French, Italian and English are alike, but of the written ones this is not true. The capital letter T, for instance, is written in France and Italy like C. The top stroke is made as with us, but the downward stroke curves to the right instead of to the left. Our C is taken for a T abroad. Our T is taken for I or J. It is important therefore to print instead of to write proper names on r 7 43 abo foreign letters. A letter addressed in r 8 43 abc writing to, for instance, a man named r 9 13 abc Treat would be thought by the French and Italian to be addressed to Ireat, and in the general delivery department of the postoffice it would be placed in r 1 13 abc the I instead of in the T compartment. r 3 00 abc Thus when Mr. Treat called for his r 4 16 abcdefghi 4 44 mail a search of compartment T would reveal nothing for him, and his letter, r 6 16 abcdefghi 6 44 hidden among the I's, would never be delivered.

Finally his exas- b Nortolk Downs, perated comrades told him that if he did not kill something besides time they would pack him off home. The next morning Bill borrowed a rifle and went off up the mountains. Two hours later the men in camp saw Bill running down again as fast as he could come, and close behind him was a bear. The men watched the chase, with loaded rifles ready. On reaching camp Bill turned and shot the bear. When the men could stop laughing one of them Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Han- said, "Bill, what on earth possessed cock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed you to run that distance with the bear by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to so close when you might have killed Bill smiled slowly. "What's the use of killing a bear in the mountains and lugging him in when you can run him in?" he asked.-Boston Herald.

Moors Consider Us Dirty.

A habit of our own which we con sider far more cleanly than eating with our fingers is looked upon by the Moors as filthy-that is, washing our hands or face in a basin and, still more, taking a bath where the water is Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, to the not running. The cleaner we become, they say, the dirtler the water we are washing with must necessarily be come, and eventually we step forth as cleansed from water which is no longer clean. A Moor to wash his hands has the water poured from a vessel over them and never by any chance dips them into the dirty water. The same way in their baths. The water is thrown over their bodies out of bright brass bowls and flows away through holes in the marble or tile floor.-Mod-

BOSTON LETTER.

Great Work by Gov. Guild on San Francisco Relief.

FIRST VETO MESSAGE RECEIVED

The week has been an extremely busy one at the executive department. Ever since the earthquake in San Francisco both Governor Guild and his assistants have been working overtime. The relief committee work has all been additional to the usual duties of the office, and both Governor Guild and Lieutenant Governor Draper have given a great deal of time and attention to the Thousands of suggestions have been received in regard to this work, some good, some bad, and some indifferent, but they have all been considered and saswers been written to those who broached them.

The governor has always put in long hours, arriving at his office early in the morning and usually working until 6 clock or later. During this relief work he has been at his office several nights as late as 11 and 12 o'clock, and the amount of work he has accomplished is

Every day he sees a very large number of people, even if able to give them but a few minutes each. He makes it a practice to see everybody who really has business with him and desires to see him personally. No governor in recent years has made it so easy for people to secure an interview.

Legislative Progress Is Slow

The legislature at the present time is not making as great progress in its transaction of business as many think it should. There are many measures upon which hearings have been given and which have not yet been reported back to the house for action. There are something like two hundred such matters sleeping in the hands of committees which ought to be reported in order that the two branches might take them up for active consideration. Several times within the past week or two the house has adjourned for lack of business when, if these measures had been on the calendar, they might have received immediate attention. It may be said in all fairness, however, that the legislature is doing as well this year as it averages to do in other years, but the sessions might be shortened if the committees showed greater readiness to report on matters at the close of hearings.

A Boston newspaper, within a few days, has suggested the name of Colonel William A. Gaston in connection with the Democratic nomination for governor this fall. The statement is made in the article referred to that the movement for the nomination of Mr. Gaston is proceeding quietly and implies that it is probable that he will be nominated. It seems hardly reasonable to suppos that this is the fact. Mr. Gaston has al ready made two attempts at the governorship as the Democratic candidate and failed each time. It is difficult to see wherein he is any stronger today than he was when he ran three years ago. If he is nominated it will be because he is willing to make substantial contributions to the campaign fund and not be cause the party leaders think him as strong at the polls as some other men who might be named.

Will Whitney Run This Fall?

It has been quite generally believed that Henry M. Whitney of Brookline would be candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Whitney ran for lieutenant governor last fall, and after election he was mentioned by several of the Democratic leaders in connection with first place on the ticket this year. He, himself, intimated that he would not again be a candidate, but it is the general impression that the Democratic leaders expect him to be nominated and believe that he will accept. In that case it is possible that former Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester will be Mr. Whitney's running mate in the second place.

If District Attorney John B. Moran of Boston carries out his plan made some time ago of being a candidate for governor himself on his own platform and with the backing of his own party the situation will be considerably complicated. Mr. Moran stated to newspaper men a number of weeks ago that this was his plan, and that he did not expect the backing of either of the two leading parties. He evidently expected to run for governor as he ran for district attorney and depend upon the voters themselves for his nomination and support. view of the executive it would in no way encourage discipline nor stimulate generous rivalry in the service of the commonwealth, but on the contrary would encourage none but the shirk and the worthless. In a word, according to the governor's idea, it would allow the appointment of men who are in utter Ignorance of local data or of fire department work and of illiterates. He beleves it would help to break down the merit system in Massachusetts and is like many other measures of this kind that have been vetoed by his predecessors. He admits that it was offered in perfect sincerity but were it practiced

t would have only evil effects. For that reason he returned it without his approval.

The waters of the gulf of California teem with other wealth than pearls. Here are fish of every description. The tuna is abundant, and the gamy Spanish mackerel is everywhere. The dolphin seems monarch of all the gulf. In the vicinity of the great island of Carmen they are encountered by the One school, comprising many hundreds, were encountered by the steamer on which the writer was a passenger a short distance from the beautiful bay of Escondido. They were a half mile distant when they observed us going in the opposite direction. Suddenly the leaders, in a clearly evinced spirit of rollicking sea dog fun, turned every one of them and gave chase to the steamer. It was perfectly evident they enjoyed the performance as much as the spectators. For a little while the noise was deafening, as if a thou-

In a case in the orphans' court of an eastern city one of the principal witnesses was asked if he had any broth-

"I had a brother," he replied, "but he died 150 years ago."

"What? A hundred and fifty years ago?" echoed the judge, with an implied rebuke for a possible jest.

"Yes. I am telling you the truth. My father was married at nineteen years of age. Within the year a son was born to him, who shortly afterward died. Becoming a widower before he was thirty, my father married again at the age of seventy-five. I was born next year. I am at present ninety-four years old. If you will make the necessary calculation by adding my age, ninety-four, to the number fifty-six, which is the difference between seventy-five and nineteen, the ages of my father at the time of his respective marriages, the result will be exactly 150. So it is just a century and a half since my brother died."

Let the Children Play.

It is too often true of the unhappy children who are forced to rise too early in their classes that they are conceited all the forenoon of life and stupid all its afternoon. The vigor and freshness which should have been stored up for the purposes of the hard struggle for existence in practical life have been washed out of them by precocious mental debauchery-by gluttony and lesson bibbing. Their faculties are worn out by the strain put upon their callow brains, and they are demoralized by worthless childish triamphs before the real work of life begins. I have no compassion for sloth, but youth has more need for intellectual rest than age, and the cheerfulness, the tenacity of purpose, the power of work, which make many a successful man what he is, must often be placed to the credit not of his hours of industry, but to that of his hours of idleness in boyhood.-Huxley.

Rogers as a Story Teller.

Charles Dickens used to describe the way in which Samuel Rogers, the poet, told dinner table stories when grown old and feeble. A manservant stood behind Rogers' chair and at appropriate intervals would thus admonish his "Tell Mr Dickens sir the st ry of the Hon. Charles Townshend and the beautiful Miss Curzon." The old poet would start in a slow chant: "The Hon. Charles Townshend became enamored of Miss Curzon. She was beeyewtiful. He be-ribed her maid to conceal him in her chee-amber and when she arrived to dress for a ball emerged from his hiding place. She looked at him fixedly, then said, 'Why don't you begin?' She took him for the 'airdresser."

Two Ways of Putting It.

Two groups of persons were seated n a railway station, according to Lippincott's Magazine. One consisted of a fashionably attired pair, the other of a pair who looked as if they were from the country. They had been there only a few minutes when a girl came in whose complexion was as nearly perfect as anything in this world ever is. While she was buying her ticket the young man remarked to the ladies with

"Isn't Miss Cransford a beauty? Her complexion is as perfect as a rose." At the same time the other man clutched his wife's arm and whispered: "Lord, Nan, hasn't that gal got a purty hide?"

Sterne and Garrick.

Sterne, who had the reputation of treating his wife very badly, was one day talking to Garrick in a sentimental way in praise of conjugal fidelity and "The husband," he declared, 'who behaves unkindly to his wife deserves to have his house burned over

"In that case," replied Garrick, "I hope your house is insured."

An Exception.

"Which is the first and most important sacrament?" asked a Sunday school teacher of a girl preparing for confirmation. "Marriage," was the prompt response. "No, baptism is the first and most important sacrament," the teacher corrected. "Not in our family," said the pupil haughtily. "We are respectable."

Precisely Located.

"Where were the kings of England crowned?" was the question on an examination paper. "On their heads," wrote a boy in the

GOOD AFTERNOON.

If Quincy had no water debt it could reduce its water rates one-half without reducing its net water receipts, as the maturing debt and interest required $65,215 in 1905 out of a total water expenditure of $120,000.

A new loan of $20,000 this year for debt instead of reducing it.

address stated that the water debt of maneuvering the Uncas was in collision Quincy on Dec. 31, 1905, was $694,000. It has been in the vicinity of $700,000 for several years, the new loans equalling the annual payments.

If the Metropolitan district also was affoat. free from water debt the rates of Quincy could be reduced another 25 per cent. They would then be only one-fourth the present rates.

It seems very desirable therefore to get out of debt as soon as possible.

If a loan of $20,000 is authorized for Joans authorized by the water acts, and Yesterday afternoon the naval tugs less than one-third of the Quincy ser- tandemed up at high tide for a try at vices will be metered. No further loans for water construction could then be made without permission of the Legislature, although emergencies may arise.

Is it desirable to go to the limit in everything? The city appropriated this vessel when she entered the capes. year all it could for current expenses The Virginia pilots say that one was under the law. It is near its debt limit offered, but refused. No other pilot for municipal debt, and has nearly exhausted its borrowing capacity under the water acts.

It is not consumption that makes water rates high, but debt and interest. Thirty year loans amounting to $100,-000 for meters means an expenditure of aground, and if that is true she went over $200,000 in thirty years for debt ashore at high water. and interest.

is the subject of a joke told in the Liverpool Post, While on a continental tour he purchased a Sevres vase for some hundreds of pounds and brought it home most carefully. Thinking that the foreman of his works might gather a hint from the design he called that gentleman in and showed him the treasure. "How do you like it?" he asked. The foreman took the vase in his hand turned it over and returned it, with the brief reply, "I don't think I can learn much from it." "Why not?" asked the manufacturer. "I don't like telling you, sir." "Come. Out with it." "Well, I designed that vase myself. It is a foreign imitation of our own work and is worth £5 at the outside."

Will Row Till Judgment Day. There is a shivery, shaky legend among the people who live along the Hudson river which is to the effect that that stream is the everlasting boating waters of a specter who is personified as Ramhout Van Dam. Away back in colonial times Ramhout and his friends were drinking until late at night. Finally this man Ramhout started for home, some distance up the river, in his boat, swearing that he would row the distance if it took "a reached home, and the superstitious Waters recently returned from a lumed to row till judgment day.

Norfolk, May 7 .- The battleship Rhode Island was floated last night after having been aground on the York Spit bar since Saturday morning. Mine Workers Are Willing to Return to Work

ON MITCHELL'S ADVICE

Minor Points at Issue Will Undoubtedly Be Satisfactorily Settled at Conference With the Coal Operators

Scranton, Pa., May 7 .- Nothing has developed to disturb the general belief that a strike of the anthracite mine workers has been averted. There seems | sional aid? to be every assurance that the subscale committee of the organization. which will go to New York today for a conference with the operators, will be assured by the latter that there will be to be pure. The standard is no discrimination shown in case the men are ordered back to work and that the term the agreement is to last will be readily agreed upon.

It is felt that the readjustment of working conditions can be made at each colliery in a very short time, providing the men use a little patience and that the foremen make an extra effort to restore peace and harmony.

The sub-scale committee is composed of President Mitchell, the three district presidents and the three district secretaries. They will return to this city from New York after the conference and will report to the convention tomorrow at a special session. It is ex pected that the convention will ratify their report and vote for a resumptio of work on May 14 under the award of the anthracite strike commission.

While President Mitchell would prefer an agreement for two years, both he and the other members of the commission, it is understood, will bow to the wishes of the operators and accept an agreement for three years if the latter desire it.

On the advice of President Mitchell, representing the sub-scale committee the miners' convention unanimously voted to adopt the first proposition of Has moved from 1625 Hancock Street to the operators, a continuation of the award of the anthracite coal strike com mission, with the modification that the term for which it is expected to con tinue shall be mutually agreed upon The operators' suggestion was that it should be at least three years. The action of the convention, together with a request for a conference today, was telegraphed by President Mitchell to of any kind. Chairman Baer of the operators' committee and an answer was received agreeing to a conference this afternoon in New York city. The only matters to be discussed at the conference are the length of time 8 Chestnut Street, cor. Maple Street. the award shall continue and the provi- Quincy, March 28. sion that there shall be no discrimination against the men who obeyed the mine workers' suspension order. It is practically certain that the operators will not accede to any suggestion for the two-year agreement, as that would throw the next conference into a presidential year, and as the miners will not want a long-term agreement, the chances are that a three-year agreement will be eventually entered upon. President Baer that the operators will not discriminate against the miners now on suspension and the local representatives of the coal companies say the same thing. It looks, therefore, as if a strike has been averted. The news that the convention had decreed against a strike was received with great joy throughout this region. To the miners themselves the news is very satisfactory. They were willing to strike if John Mitchell thought they ought to, but they are glad that he decided otherwise.

Anent the rumored possibilities of the operators continuing the suspension as a punitive lockout, in the guise of an enforced idleness on account of a glutted market, R. A. Phillipps of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company's mines said that the prospects of a good summer were bright. In his opinion there might be a slack time for a couple of weeks about June 1. but after that there would be good and prosperous times in the coal regions, with the mines working nearly full time.

Camp Becket for Boys.

Every boy wants to live in a tent dur ing the hot days of vacation. Last summer over 10,000 boys enjoyed their vacation out of doors, an experience which makes them healthy and happy, sary for strain of school life.

A HOME ON WHEELS.

Novel Vehicle to Be Used Over Steam and Trolley Roads. A new sort of home on wheels is about to come out of southern California. A description of it given by the Los Angeles Herald suggests in some respects the wide family perambulators which roving bands of gypsies have made familiar in some parts of the east, says the New York Post. The vehicle, however, is arranged for traveling over steam and trolley roads as well as highways. Its inventor, Dr. B.

a window on each end, to be opened or closed at will. The inside has an adcenter, which divides the living room from the kitchen. In the center, hinged to the partition, is a table on each side, resting on a center table. These stove and sink. The seats extending along the sides are utilized on the principle of folding lounges for beds. The corners are arranged for carrying water and oil. The front seat can be converted into a bed, with canvas placed over it. It is arranged with adjustable trucks and wheels for steam and trolley cars. It can also be drawn by norses or trailed behind automobiles." A few more such devices for making the "simple life" comfortable and easy may induce a larger number of the overworked to take to the road. A gypsy's van is well enough, but for your captious modern camper it is just as well to furnish a folding bed and a choice library of authors who have preached about out of doors.

Highest Water Tower For Fires. Transportation and Refining Departments Are Separate, but All Represent Same Interests, According to Attorney General

Columbus, O., May 8 .- In a prelimlnary report of his findings as to the methods of the Standard Oil company in Ohio, Attorney General Ellis says that, though the Standard Oil company, in obedience to a decree of the supreme court of Ohio, reorganized in 1899, cancelling the trust certificates then outstanding and putting all the property they represented in the hands of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, it has continued to violate the Valentine-Steward anti-trust act, just as before.

In that reorganization, he says, it incorporated the departments of the business separately. The Buckeye Pipe Line company, he says, does all th Standard Pipe Line transportation The Union Tank company carries all its oil by cars. The Solar Refining company does its manufacturing, while the Ohio Oil company collects the crude oil from the wells in the fields.

That these concerns represent the same interests is shown by their tax returns. It is alleged that all are made on the same day, on similar forms, and they are all represented by the same attorneys. The Standard, according to the attorney general, absolutely fixes the price of crude oil. Independent companies, he says, run their bids up and down with the Standard price. But by organizing "fake" or "pirate" companies, the Standard manages, Ellis asserts, to drive out competition without changing oil prices everywhere, which

FOR THREE YEARS

Award of Anthracite Strike Commission Is Extended

SIGNING OF AGREEMENT

Work In Mines Will Be Resumed as Soon as Practicable -- No Discrimination Against Men Active In the Strike Movement

New York, May 8 .- After carrying on negotiations for nearly three months, the sub-committees, representing the anthracite mine workers and operators of eastern Pennsylvania, have agreed to continue the award of the strike commission for another three years and the men will return to work as soon as practicable, probably next Monday. All miners who have not committed violence against persons or property will be re-employed and no one will be discriminated against because of any activity he may have taken in the strike novement.

The agreement is subject to the ratification of the tri-district convention of nine workers at Scranton, but there is not the slightest doubt that the delegates will approve the action of their representatives

This outcome of a dispute which threatened to develop into a long, bitter struggle and paralyze a great industry, s looked upon with considerable sat as the agreement entered into is their first proposition, made early in March, in reply to the mine workers' original demands. The miners have little to say regarding the agreement, except that it is the best they could get. They ment entered into is the first general agreement that has ever been signed between the operators and miners, and they look upon it as a step forward in their efforts to have regular agree owing is the text of the agreement: "Whereas, purusant to the letter of ubmission signed by the undersigned in 1902, all questions at issue between the respective companies and their own employes, whether they belong to a unon or not, was submitted to the anthradate of March 18, 1903, duly made and filed its award upon the subject matter of the submission and provided that said award should continue in force for three years from April 1, 1903, and the same period has expired. "Now, therefore, it is stipulated beween the undersigned in their own behalf, insofar as they have power to in the insurance world that will not be epresent any other parties in interest, hereof and any action which has been the conciliation board or otherwise, shall be extended and shall continue n force for three years from April 1. 1906, namely, until March 31, 1909, with like force and effect as if that had been originally prescribed as its dura tion. That work shall be resumed as non was the guest at a reception given soon as practicable and that all men who have not committed violence to person or property shall be re-emloyed in their old positions."

While the compact entered into was predicted last week, the agreement was not reached without a final struggle on the part of the miners to get somethat the proposed agreement be made for two years. In arguing for the twoyear term, he said the cost of living night increase considerably in three years and that other changes in the mining industry might come that would make the present wage scale unfair to the men. The operators replied they felt that any contingency that might arise was covered by the award of the strike commission and they concluded by asking that the award be continued

In taking up the question of discrimination against some of the men t was the intention of the mine owners to take back only such men as they chose to re-employ, but Mitchell conoperators withdrew it.

Yesterday's session was the longest of the series, lasting nearly two hours. the operators, who read it to the waiting newspaper men.

No date has been officially set for the resumption of work. It was thought that Thursday would be selected, but as some of the mines are not in good condition for an immediate resump tion, the beginning of operations may be delayed until Monday. This is the sixth week of the suspension, and represents losses in production of about 5,000,000 tons.

The extensive operations which have been carried on by the big companies and the constantly increased output are said to have had great influence with Mitchell, as well as a constantly growing conviction that the operators were ready to fight out the contest to the end.

Russian Parliament Will Be Under the Thumb of the Czar

St. Petersburg, May 8 .- Another of the kaleidoscopic changes in the political situation occurred late last night when, with utter unexpectedness, the draft of the fundamental law which was supposed to have perished with the Witte regime was officially promulgated and made the permanent basis of the Russian state, unalterable, except on the initiative of the ezar or his

Though the draft of the fundamental aw has undergone considerable editing and numerous minor changes have been made in it, in essence it remains identical with the project made public on April 24, which evoked a storm of anger and condemnation by the dominant liberal party. Published at the present instant, when the people had been led to believe that the unpopular draft had been dropped and when the dismissal of the old cabinet was accepted as an indication of the desire on the part of the government to join hands with the national parliament, the news will arouse greater indignation and threatens to undo all the work of the constitutional democratic leaders in the cause of moderation

The new fundamental law of the emire, signed May 5, contains 82 articles dealing with the nature of the imperial power, the rights and duties of citizens, the methods of legislation, the rights and limitations of the national assembly and council of the empire. and the composition and responsibilities of the council of ministers.

The changes are in the direction of further buttressing the imperial power, protecting the crown lands and properties from interference by the parliament, and giving the czar power o conclude loans independently should companies and their own employes' the parliament refuse to pass the budget.

Sacramento Valley Escaped Earthquake

The publisher of the Evening Bee at Sacramento, California, writes to the Daily Ledger as follows:

"A generally incorrect impression prevails that serious damage was done in Sacramento city by the recent earthquake, which was the indirect cause of the great San Francisco fire on April

"As a matter of fact not a single pane of glass was broken, not a brick displaced, not a machine thrown out of adjustment, and not a person injured, however slightly, in Sacramento city. The same is true of all the smaller cities and towns throughout the great Sacramento valley. There has been no interruption of any kind to the business of any of these places, save that which has been occasioned by their efforts to aid in alleviating distress.

"There are so many people throughout the United States who have friends or relatives in this city or in some of the many towns that are located in the valley and within fifty miles south, or one hundred and fifty miles north of this point, that we take pleasure in giving this information."

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fond. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a funo of at least $100,000 is urgently needed. Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, Timothy Reed, Adams St., Julincy, or the Treasurer, Richard D. Chase. Savings Bank Building, Oulney, will be very glad & confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor. The Treasurer, William F. Cummings, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, Ernest G. Gay, will be happy to answer inquiries.

THE RELIEF LISTS

Likely to Be Greatly Curtailed at San Francisco

NO FOOD FOR THE IDLE

Kitchens Established by Army Officers May Solve a Difficult Problem--Daily Legal Holidays to Continue For a While

San Francisco, May 9 .- With the increasing severity of the regulations surrounding the "bread line," General Greely has hopes of soon eliminating from the relief lists a large percentage of the people who are now receiving free food supplies. It is becoming more difficult every day for able bodied men to secure their army ration When a healthy appearing men ap pears for food he is frequently con fronted by an offer of employment, and if he refuses to engage in the proferred work he is denied relief. All women must prove beyond doubt that they are in need of assistance. Tickets good for only a day's food are furnished them and at the expiration of the privilege they must again demonstrate their destitution before ald is given them.

"The food situation seems to be working itself out," said General Greely. "If we had to continue feeding 200,000 people our visible supply would not last long. But many are going to work and will buy their meals as soon as there is a chance to get good one at a low figure. Major Febiger is establishing five kitchens where meals will be served free to destitute per sons and at the price of 15 cents each to others. I hope that this practica relief will prove the ultimate solution of the food problem. I have guaranteed the expenses of these eating places and believe they will be a success. If the free kitchens are a success all tickets will finally be for meals instead of for rations. Applications are decreasing daily and the outlook is for a continuance of this falling off in the number of destitute. Wherever it is found that men are earning wages they will be refused further free supplies or meal

Already there is a big decrease in the daily output of supplies and the officials expect that by June 1 their labors in this direction will be practically ended. It is anticipated that when the savings banks are opened for payment to small depositors there will be a further lessening of the men and women who are now forced to ask for assist-

Governor Pardee was present yesterday for the first time at the meeting of the construction committee and questioned as to his intention concerning the continuance of legal holidays. In order to avoid complications and prevent individual distress the governor ever since April 18, has been daily declaring each succeeding date a legal holiday, thus preventing the foreclosure of mortgages and postponing the payments of other obligations that might otherwise fall due. The banks of the interior were fearful that a sudden cessation of his proclamation might cause a panie and it was on their bewould give five days' notice before the Catering for Clubs and Parties, was a commission merchant in New

"The Canadian parliament voted $100,000 for the relief of San Francisco, which was declined by Presiden Roosevelt. It is still awaiting accept ance. Will you take it if offered direct? Please rush answer."

Chairman Phelan of the finance com mittee was asked to answer the message at once in the affirmative.

Reporting for the finance committee Phelan announced that the total subscriptions thus far make a grand total of $4,000,992. This did not include $500,000 now held by the Chamber of Commerce of New York city, awaiting the plan for rehabilitation of San Francisco. There is now at his command 534-539 Tremont Building, Boston at the mint $1,246,491. The sale of liquor in neighboring counties is causing the San Francisco police much trouble. Chief of Police Dinan has issued an order that all persons coming from outside points under the influence of drink be turned back on a return journey, and he has detailed 50 men to enforce his ruling.

Among the recent shipments of freight received was a quantity of corrugated sheet iron and many of the temporary structures for business purposes are being built of this material. This addition to the available supply has broadened the field of the contract tors and in many blocks of the burned district dozens of small structures will this week contain a fresh stock of merchandise.

message from the district attorney. The copper magnate, in a letter sent by him Monday night, told Moran that he had bribery in connection with the bucket shop bill recently killed. Mr. Moran accepted the offer, and for

SEVERAL ARE ARRESTED

Government's Bad Faith Regarding the Fundamental Law Has Revived Old Feeling of Distrust -- Police Stop Douma Meeting and Arouse Hostility St. Petersburg, May 9.-Although there are few surface indications of the fact, an earnest duel is in progress between the police and terrorists and revo lutionists who are thronging to the capital alert for any opportunity to strike Emperor Nicholas or other marked men among the officials gathered here for the opening of the national parliament. Precautionary measures on an extensive scale have been taken The police have been reinforced by the keenest men from interior cities. The railroads are being watched most dili gently, but a search of the baggage of three members of the lower branch of the parliament was the only public ineldent in a campaign yesterday by which several terrorists were so quie ly bagged that the general public was not aware of the arrests.

In order to safeguard the czar in his passage up the river on Thursday the time of his arrival and departure is being kept secret. The Nicholas palace bridges, through draws of which the imperial yacht must pass, will be closed to traffic from daylight of Thursday until the departure of the czar. The gen eral public will not even be admitted to a long distance view of the yacht from the palace of the admiralty or the quays lining the river front.

According to present plans the speech from the throne will give the constitu tional democrats no point for criticism in the parliament's reply. The speech will not touch on politics or suggest : ro grams. In substance, it will simply be a greeting to the czar's new collaborators in legislation.

After the service of the consecration at the Tauride palace yesterday the members of the parliament selected their seats. The constitutional democrats occupy a solid block at the left of the chamber, the Polish members are in the centre, while the peasants tool possession of the highest seats, which are at the rear of the steeply inclined of the Milton Women's club was held ampitheatre, and were immediately Monday afternoon in the parlors of the dubbed "the mountain." ADAMS CHAPTER.

One of the pleasantest meetings in the annals of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, was held on Monday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams. It was a Paul Jones afternoon, and proved most interesting to members and guests.

The program opened with a song 'The Swallows,' by Mrs. Henry W. l'irrell which received appreciative apwas Rev. William H. Morrison of the to 2. Tabb was umpire. Universalist church, Brockton. He poke of the life of John Paul Jones from his birth in Scotland until his death in Paris at the age of only thirtylive years. He did Paul Jones full justice and showed how faithful and loyal he was to the American colony, the land of his adoption and how little his services were recognized until now. Mr. Morrison spoke without notes. It was readily seen that he was much nterested in his subject, consequently his audience was also interested. It was one of the best historical lectures ever listened to by Adams Chapter. Another guest of the afternoon, Miss Marion H. Brazier, of Boston, regent f the Paul Jones Chapter, D. A. R., added further interest to the program by telling of the recent funeral services at Annapolis, which she attended. Through the efforts of one man who gave generously of his time and money in the search, the body of Paul Jones had been found buried beneath an old warehouse in Paris and brought to America, where tardy honors were done him. It was an inspiring occasion.

Mrs. Tirrell then sang, "Who is Silvia?" which was followed by the singing of America by all present. A social hour followed during which the Adams Academy scored the first run bostesses, Mrs. E. G. Pratt, Mrs.

District 'Attorney Thought to Have Secured Important Indictment Regarding It--Whole Legislature Summoned

Boston, May 10 .- District Attorney Moran will summon the entire Massachusetts legislature before the grand jury. He reached this decision yesterday and requested that the summonses be issued. It being impossible for all to be heard before the jury at one sitting he will divide the summonses into allotments. French Count Walloped

Paris, May 10 .- Editor Millevoye of The Patrie, member of the chamber of deputies, and Count Mathieu de Noailles had an exciting street encounter here, during which Millevoye broke his cane over the head of the count. The affair grew out of the recent elections wherein they both competed for a seat. Millevoye had refused to accept the count's challenge to fight a duel, on the ground that political abuse did not warrant a hostile meeting. Thereupon the count attacked Millevoye on the street.

Possible Clue to Muenter

Chicago, May 10 .- Posses of sheriffs and deputies are descending upon the town of Cloverdale, a German settlement near Wheaton, in the belief that Erich Muenter, the Harvard instructor wanted in connection with the death of his wife at Cambridge, Mass., is in hiding in that place. A man believed to be Muenter was seen on the streets of Wheaton recently, and two days ago Miss Bertha Muenter was seen in that town. It is said that they are stopping with relatives on a farm.

San Jose, Cal., May 10 .- A passenger train running 50 miles an hour was ditched near Edervale and a tramp was killed and 30 or 40 passengers, mostly Chinese, were more or less seriously injured. The accident was due to a truck under a car behind the baggage car jumping the track.

the historic ceremony of the opening of the first representative assembly of r 8 43 abo Russia have all gathered in St. Petersburg, and only Emperor Nicholas and the imperial family are awaited. They are expected to arrive today by sea from Peterhof, to which place they were removed from Tsarkoe-Selo yesterday. The czar's personal escort of picked Circassian Cossacks arrived by a special train. Other trains brought a mixed battalion composed of detachments from the guard regiments, who are to keep watch over the czar's apartments and those of the men and women of the tained in the announcement of the b Nortoik Downs, names of appointive members to the council of the czar, in which list Count Witte is conspicuously absent. No in formation is obtainable, but the omission of the former premier's name would seem to indicate either an open slight on the part of the czar or a determination on Witte's part to withdraw mination on Witte's part to withdraw altogether from public affairs. In either case there is a complete break in the relations between the monarch and the servant whose monument is the national parliament, laws for the creation of which were elaborated under his supervision. It is understood that supervision. It is understood that Witte will leave immediately for a foreign country. It is not known whether he will participate in today's ceremony According to the expectations of the onstitutional democratic leaders, the first session of parliament will accom plish nothing beyond the election of officers, which, under Russian procedure will be a long drawn out affair.

The vexed question of the propriety of taking an oath to "emperor and autorat" has been settled by the caucus of constitutional democrats, which accepted the historical argument that the title does not signity "absolute," but ereign, and hence is not incompatible with the ideas of the party regarding 11.07 and 11.37 P.M. the constitutional nature of the monarchy. The caucus also reaffirmed the decision of the congress not to take hasty action with regard to the issuance of the fundamental law, though a considerable faction of the radicals again brought up the question of forcing the issue from the start. Although the problem of the oath has been thus disposed of, a small body of recalcitrants have decided, as a mark of disrespect to the czar, not to attend the session at the winter palace, but to join their colleagues first at the Tauride palace. Other members of the assembly decline to wear evening dress, which is the correct apparel for the ceremony, but will appear in the high boots and colored smocks of the national peasant costume. That the peasant members will not be allowed to play fast and loose with the wishes of their constituents is indicated by the arrival here of 80 peasants sent by Russian societies to watch the activity of their representatives, and especially their attitude on the agrarian juestion, and to see that they do not succumb to the allurements of high political life.

The furniture on the first floor about the office will be removed so that all will have an ample opportunity to see what is going on.

The young man will enter the vault at 3 o'clock. All he will have with him will be a pocket flash light. Before entering, however, Chief of Police Burrell will place a pair of handcuffs about his wrists.

The only provisions that Howdidhe makes is that the key of the lock of the inner door shall be hung on the wall in the office where it will be handy to release him should he fail.

He will be given half an hour in which to make his escape and he feels confident he can do it in that time. His confidence is not shared by others, who say it is impossible.

When Houdini was locked in the Boston jail he did not advertise the performance in advance or invite the public. Only a few were present, and

TAFT'S COLLEGE CANE.

Memento of Yale Class Rushes Pre sented to War Secretary.

Eager to obtain some relics of his own college days in Yale nearly thirty years ago, Secretary of War William H. Taft caused search to be made and had the articles sent to his home in Washington the other day before he left for Torrington, Conn., says a New Haven special dispatch to the New York Herald.

One souvenir, the most highly prized, was the big "banger" which Mr. Taft held in one of the annual student class rushes when he was a member of the class of 1878. It is a heavy knobbed cudgel, not unlike President Roose velt's "big stick." .

The monks of the Grand St. Bernard will soon make their debut as chauffeurs, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. After a struggle lasting over a year they have received permission from the Valais and Italian authorities to run a motor car service between the hospices of Grand St. Bernard and Simplon (their properties) and Domodossola and Aosta. The chauffeurs will be chosen from the monks themselves, who will wear cowls. The cars, which are being specially constructed to climb the steep gradients, will at the beginning be employed for the transport of supplies only. Later, however, the monks intend to start a service for tourists who wish to visit their hospices in the summer season.

Following them, escorted by 12 tall grenadiers in bearskin shakos, six high dignitaries bore the emblems of the sovereignty of the house of Romanoff, the seal of the empire, the imperial standard, the sword of state, with its long, straight blade borne point up, the orb and sceptre and the glittering imperial crown in the order named.

Half a dozen paces in the rear, the czar, walking alone, advanced easily, holding himself erect and evidently steeling himself for the ceremony. He was dressed in the simple blue uniform of a colonel, with half length boots, and his only decorations were the scarlet ribbon of the Alexander Nevsky order across his breast and the diamond star of the St. Andrew order. He carried his military cap in his left hand. Behind these followed a long line of the wives and HERBERT A. HAYDEN daughters of the noblest families of Russia. The czar halted in the centre of the hall and the metropolitan Antonius advanced to meet him and held out the cross, which the czar kissed. Then bending forward the czar clasped the hand of the metropolitan, raised it to his lips and kissed it, the metropolitan returning the salutation showed that she was far from being

All eves turned on the czar, who bore himself proudly erect, joining in the Te Deum by crossing himself and making frequent responses. The empresses kept their eyes straight to the front during the long religious ceremony, glancing neither at the members of parliament on their right nor at the courtiers on their left, scarcely moving a muscle, though the heaving bosom and flushed face of the young empress

At the close of the Te Deum, when all those participating in the ceremony had taken their places, there was a slight pause and then the czar waiked slowly to the dais, ascended the throne, seated himself in the imperial chair and an aide-de-camp stepped forward and presented him with the draft of his address. The czar rose and, looking down upon the wonderful scene, delivered his message to the representative of the Russian millions. The czar spoke with a firm, steady voice which the hall, emphasizing deliberately every word. Such a hush fell on the assembly during the reading that the snap of a camera shutter was sharply

The reading of the speech from the throne was not broken by the slightest attempt at applause, but the minute the czar had finished, bowed to the members of parliament and placed his foot on the step of the dais to descend, a long cheer broke forth. A pathetic figure in the scene at the palace was that of Count Witte, of whom the press correspondent caught a glimpse before the ceremony, pacing the corridor, entirely alone. The message, in reality, was less a throne speech than a greeting, and required only three minutes for its delivery. Emperor Nicholas read slowly. The admirable and even cordial tone of the sovereign in renewing his pledges and asking the co-operation of parliament for the regeneration of the country was only negatively satisfactory. Courtiers and spectators other than members of the national parliament led the cheering, but the members were ominously silent, expressing neither

What rankled most was the failure of the czar to mention amnesty, and later, when the members assembled in the Tauride palace, away from the spell of the throne room, many of them were with difficulty restrained from precipitating matters by offering resolutions on the subject. The constitutional democratic leaders, however, who dominated everything, were anxious not to waken the reply which the lower house will prepare to the speech from the throne, in which issues with the crown will be joined, and succeeded in staving off premature action.

The proceedings of the lower house were not spectacular; in fact, they were almost tame by comparison with genuine flashes of fire which showed the real temper of the members of the house were when Mouromtzeff, who had been elected president of the lower house, invited government officials and elerks to leave the hall, and when Perunkevitch, in a few eloquent words the first thought of the parliament should be for those who had suffered in the cause of liberty, who now filled the out in hope and confidence to the people's representatives. More enthusiastic cheering than that which greeted this appeal never was heard in a political convention in the United States. Constitution and amnesty were the keynotes of President Mouromtseff's speech.

Clash of Jurisdiction Avoided by Calling Members of Legislature In "Blocks of Ten" -- Chairman Cole's Advice

Boston, May 11.-The determination of District Attorney Moran to have all of the 280 members of the great and general court of the commonwealth appear separately before the Suffolk county grand jury, in connection with an investigation of alleged bribery in the legislature, resulted, after considerable delay, in the examination of seven members of the house of representatives late yesterday.

Earlier in the day several of the 75 members of the house on whom sum monses were served reported at the courthouse. A delay in the grand jury proceedings and the interruption of leg islative sessions at one time threatened to result in a serious clash of jurisdiction between the house of representatives and the grand jury. This did not come to an issue, however, as it was later decided to call the members in blocks of 10." The first 10 were called to the courthouse in the middle of yesterday afternoon, but it was 4:15 o'clock before Representative Cushing of Boston was called to the grand jury chamber as the first witness. Following in order, Representatives Dunham of Nantucket, Burr of Boston, Dean of Taunton, Bayard of Malden. Birch of Milford and Evans of Everett were closeted with the jurors for a few moments each. It was the wish of the district attorney to prolong the session into the evening, but adjournment was taken at 5:35 o'clock.

Today is the last day of this month's session of the grand jury, and there remain 273 legislators to appear before district attorney. It is probable that have the est that money can buy. the investigation will not be completed at the present session of the grand jury.

The best advice available approves the action of the members of the house thus far. Members are advised that their duty is in this chamber at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning and during the time when the house is in session. Howdidhe A Wizard

Successful This Afternoon In Escaping From Vault

Charles E. Dornan, Quincy's Howdidhe, was successful this afternoon inmaking his escape from the vault at the furniture store of W. G. Shaw, thus furnishing conclusive proof that something stronger than handcuffs and locks are necessary to keep the young man in confinement.

To anyone who has taken the time to ook at the vault it seemed like an impossibility to escape without outside help. Yet this young man apparently had no difficulty in doing so. How did he do it? No one but himself knows. That he was successful in getting out, the large number who witnessed the performance can testify.

TREASURE CITY IS FOUND

Built by Israelites In Bondage Thousands of Years Before Christian Era--New Light on Shepherd Kings of the Bible

Boston, May 12 .- Important discoveries in the vicinity of Cairo are reported by Professor Petrie, the Egyptologist, according to a detailed communit cation received from him by Rev. William C. Winslow, the archeologist of this city. Winslow announces that Petrie has discovered the remains of the temple of Onais at Tel-el-Yahudich (the mound of the Jew), 18 miles north of Cairo, and that he has brought to light evidences of the presence of the Hyksos kings (the Shepherd kings) in the Delta.

The discovery solves an interesting puzzle on this point, and in all probability the professor has identified the treasure city of Rameses, built by the Israelites in bondage thousands of years before the time of Christ. The construction of the city is referred to in the first chapter of the Book of Exo-

The mounds at Tel-el-Yahudich were visited and described in 1825 by Linant, the French engineer and explorer. Subsequently Greville Chester, Hayter Lewis, Brugsch-Bey and others examined or excavated the site.

In 1887, for the Egypt exploration fund, Professor Naville made determined efforts to disclose the secrets of the mounds, but in vain.

Professor Petrie in his communication to Winslow says regarding the temple of Onias: "Our discovery of the actual town and temple site of Onias is beyond a doubt. It is a very of the relations between the Standard clear case of all the known requirements being satisfied as to date, place, conditions and building.

"Besides the temple site and city we have a remarkable historical subject here in clearing the Hyksos cemetery and the great fort of the Hyksos. The tombs contain scarabs of the Hyksos age, and we have got at this place scarabs of Khyan, Apepill and Skhanra, three foreign kings who were probably all Hyksos.

"There can be no doubt of the importance of this place under the Hyksos Now, on examining the great fortifications of this town, I find that this is curved and irregular in outline, unlike an Egyptian plant, and it was an immense earthwork with a sloping face and no gateway, but a very sloping causeway leading up over the earth

"Evidently the builders did not know of brick and stone work, all their fighting was done with bows and arrows. and they could not build a gateway. But a generation or two later they remodelled all their fortifications and put an immense stone wall around all their earthworks, having learned such defense from the Egyptians."

Referring to the "Hyksos Petrie says: "The above agrees exactly with what we might expect to find done by the Hyksos. We have at last touched their work in the Delta and learned that they were archers who used a great earth defense, like the Turkomans in later times.

"More than this, I have found the temple of Retebeh. That town goes back before the 12th dynasty, and has child sacrifices buried under its first fortifications. Then Rameses II built a temple of which we have half the front and other inscriptions. Rameses III rebuilt the entire walls of the town.

"One inscription makes it very probother site possible for that city." Commenting upon Petrie's report regarding the probable discovery of the buried city of Rameses, Winslow says: "It is universally admitted that Rameses II was the 'Pharoah of the Oppression,' who ordered the enslaved Israelites to build Pithon and Rameses. I submit that this king left a ruined temple at Retebeh, where also an inscription indicates the place to have been Rameses, and that the two circumstances combine to show that Petrie has found the long-lost twin city to Pi-

No Liquor Selling at San Francisco San Francisco, May 12 .- All saloon licenses in San Francisco have been ordered revoked and all saloons must remain closed for an indefinite period. The absence of crime and the presence of order since the fire is attributed to the fact that the edict against the selling of liquor has been rigidly enforced.

BOSTON LETTER.

Democrats Plan to Make Tariff Leading Issue This Fall.

BRADFORD FOR GOVERNOR.

He Announces His Candidacy and Reform Platform.

It is plainly evident that in the coming campaign in this commonwealth the tariff will be an issue to a larger extent though his friends are somewhat scepthan in a great many years. The tical. southern leaders in congress believe in a tariff as near to the free trade basis ions, but do not express them as openworking men's high wage in this coun-

For that reason Democratic congressmen in Massachusetts and those Democrats who would like to be congressmen disguise their real sentiments under phrases like tariff reform and a revenue tariff.

The last state Republican platform declared in favor of immediate revision of the tariff. In line with that declaration the Republican delegation in congress from Massachusetts has used every endeavor to have the subject of tariff revision taken up at the present session of con- than promise. gress. This effort, however, has been unavailing by reason of the fact that a time payments have been made to emconsiderable majority of the members of ployes of the office for alleged overtime the house do not deem it wise at the work. Some men have drawn in extra present time to unsettle business and compensation nearly as much for this manufacturing by changing the tariff class of alleged work as their salaries

Illogical John R. Thayer

Former Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester, while admitting that the Massachusetts delegation has done what it could, shows his partisanship and his illogical trend of mind by asserting that in the fall election the independent vote of the state will be found on the side of the Democratic candidates if they make proper nominations.

The position of Mr. Thayer is apparused every known effort to induce congress to revise the tariff at this session, the people of the state should reward these efforts by turning these members officer of the city. He is appointed by down next November. Mr. Thayer is the mayor and for that reason is supnothing if not illogical.

It is almost as fatuous as that advice offered in 1894 by Mr. Josiah Quincy the record of the office for the last 15 to the voters of the state not to elect | years. Republicans to congress, as they would have no influence in the next congress, which, he assumed, would be Democratic. As a matter of fact the next tion of John R. Thayer that Massachusetts, favoring tariff revision, should punish those Republican congressmen the courts and test its legality. who have used their best endeavors to

Business Interests Realize Situation The business interests of the country realize better than anyone else the unsettled condition of affairs during the process of tariff revision. Even when revised by those who believe in a protective tariff it is not a pleasant process, and when revision is placed in the hands of those hostile to protection the results have been exceedingly serious, industrially, financially and in a business way. The business stagnation, industrial depression and financial panie which accompanied the Cleveland administration from 1893 to 1897 are too fresh in the memories of the people that they should desire a repetition of those experiences. When the tariff is re vised it should be revised by those who have the interests of our own wage earners and of our own manufacturers at heart

So far as the Democratic party is concerned the tariff issue is a dishonest They fooled the people of this state in 1892 and they will try to do so again. At that time they made free raw materials their campaign cry, and they won on it. Did they carry out their pledges? They did not, and they knew they could not when they entered upon their campaign. They knew the south would never submit to free coal, or free iron ore, and they did not, for their congressmen insisted upon protecting these, even though they were free traders, so far as northern products are concerned. As a Democratic congress is always controlled by southern Democrats by reason of a preponderence in numbers, northern congressmen would have very little voice or part in the framing of a tariff bill in the event of a Democratic congress.

Bradford Would a Governor Be Massachusetts seems likely to have a surplus of candidates for governor this fall if the present rush continues. Of course, everybody knows that Governor Guild will be a candidate for renomination. The Democrats may nominate Henry M. Whitney or William A. Gaston. It has been announced that District Attorney John B. Moran of Boston intends to be in the field, and now comes Gamaliel Bradford, a lineal descendant of Governor Bradford of Plymouth colony, and shies his castor into the ring along with the rest.

Mr. Bradford is a man of some deliberation, much enthusiasm and with a whole basketful of ideas. He knows what he wants and hopes the voters of Massachusetts are like-minded.

In a letter to these same esteemed voters Mr. Bradford announces his candidacy, naiis his flag to an elaborate platform and places himself in the hands of the people as a candidate for an independent nomination for the governorship next fall.

The main plank, and, in fact, the entire platform, of Mr. Bradford's campaign is reform in the state government. He hopes the newspapers will devote their space freely to this issue which he has raised as they did in the fight against biennial elections in this commonwealth 10 years ago.

Mr. Bradford is a very sanguine optimist, and he hopes to be elected, al-

With his eagle eye he noticed That the times were somewhat different.

That no more the game of fighting Paid per cent on the investment, That the people were not sighing For a chance to lose their scalp locks, But that there were other chances For the brother red and noble To secure a reputation And attach a piece of wampum.

So he spent about a quarter For a pot of carmine war paint, Scalped the tailpiece of a rooster For a gaudy bunch of feathers; In a sack marked "XX Coffee" Dressed himself for the occasion, Got some moccasins and armlets From a mail house in Chicago, Swiped some beads and other trinkets From the Christmas tree left over And announced unto his brothers He was ready now for business.

Then he called to a promoter, And a wild west show arrangement Was framed up with little trouble, Though he haggled on percentage, Having learned the ways of commerce

Thus it is, dear little children, You may see him for a quarter, Mr. Lo, the roaring savage, Reconstructed and made gentle; You may safely feed him peanuts And for two bits buy his picture.

How Yanks Won In the Olympics

Willie West, In Mixed Metaphors, Tells of Uncle Sam's Crushing Defeat of the "Europers." List of Events In Which Americans Scored.

By WILLIE WEST.

The sweeping victory of the team of American athletes at the Olympic games in Athens is just now the talk of a half dozen nations. Wow, but they were a swift bunch, those Yankee lads! They took everything that wasn't nailed down in the shape of prizes, even after having three good men disabled, two on board ship and one, Martin Sheridan, during the games.

Oh, I guess Uncle Samuel can go some! He wears no hopples and can carry any old kind of a weight. Every time he went to the bat at Athens he knocked a home run and sent three men in ahead of him. This paragraph may contain a few "mixed metaphors," but any American who can't straighten them out should join the Down and

England's famous swimmers and long distance runners blew up in the stretch and faded away. Greece's twenty-five mile gallopers were nailed to the track. Britain's boastful sprint ers wabbled and broke their galt in the back stretch, did the ascension act at the three-quarter mark and hove in sight of the distance pole just as the Yanks collided with the finish wire. Europe's great jumpers sliced into the tall grass at the first hole, pulled over on to a sandy lie at No. 2 and disap peared in a water hazard at No. 3 just as our boys putted nicely into the eight-

BRIBERY INQUIRY HALTS

Grand Jury Unable to Hear All the Legislators

Boston, May 12.-The investigation by the Suffolk county grand jury of alleged bribery in the legislature will be continued at the June sitting of the grand jury. The announcement was made by District Attorney Moran at the adjournment of yesterday's session, which is the last of the mouth's sitting. It is expected that the grand jury will report today on nearly 30 routine cases which it has been considering, but it is not expected that the jury will make any report on the legislative investigation today, as only 30 of the 280 legislators whom the district attorney has planned to summon before the grand jury have as yet been before that body.

Mr. Moran is not disposed to discuss the action of the grand jury in snutting off for a month the hearing of what he considers an important question. "I have not decided to call the grand jury in special session," he said, "and I shall not do so during the month. When court opens Monday I shall be so busy that it will be impossible for me or my two assistants to go before the grand jury if a special session should be

Senator Bacon's Night Trip Across Golf Links.

NEW YELLOW HAT FOR UNCLE JOE

South Carolina's Gift to Speaker Cannon Stirs Up Rank Envy In Illinois Delegation-Joke Played on Representative Vreeland - Congressman Sends Constituent Spade to Plant Free Garden Seed.

General Bates gave a dinner the other night at the Country club, says the Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Republic. Senator Bacon of Georgia was invited. The senator went to the Chevy Chase Golf club by mistake. It was then fifteen minutes to 8 o'clock, and the dinner was set for 8 p. m. Mr. Bacon learned that the Country club could be reached most quickly by cutting across the golf course and fields on foot.

It was dark. He walked out on the golf course. As soon as he got outside the circle of lights of the clubhouse he fell over a bunker. He took another tack and fell over another bunker. Then he ran into a sand trap and for

He came to a barb wire fence, climbed it, tore one leg of his trousers and promptly fell into a water hazard that was not very deep, but that had much was wet, muddy, disheveled. He finally got off the golf course and plunged through two or three marshy fields to the club.

"Is General Bates giving a dinner here?" he asked of a club attendant.

"Yes, sir," said the attendant, looking at the muddy senator suspiciously, "but I do not think he can be disturbed." Senator Bacon fairly snorted at this. "Tell him Senator Bacon of Georgia is out here," he commanded.

General Bates came out. "Why, senator," he exclaimed, "what is the matter?"

"Matter!" shouted Bacon. "Nothing at all; nothing; of course, nothing, only I have been falling over a series of hills and into valleys out there." "Come in to dinner," said General Bates soothingly. "No, sir," said Bacon. "I cannot. I am too muddy. Please let me have a sandwich and I will go home."

Speaker Cannon appeared on the floor of the house the other day after adjournment wearing a brand new tancolored campaign hat, says the St. Louis Republic's Washington representative. It was a very becoming affair, presented to Uncle Joe by Representative Aiken of South Carolina, and the speaker was as pleased as a boy with his first pair of red boots. He demonstrated that it could be turned into many shapes and knocked about generally without showing rough usage. Several members of the Illinois delegation were on hand and insisted volunteered Billy Lorimer. "It's time you were moving." "I've heard mighty uncomplimentary things about some men over there," replied the sage of Danville in the droll way his friends most like, "and I don't know that I want to move."

"Oh," replied the speaker, "you're just mad because you haven't one." "No, I'm not mad, but I'm Madden." "That looks like a senatorial hat."

Representative Vreeland of New York had up his bill recently prohibiting the stamping of silver or gold articles with false assay marks, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer's Washington correspondent. To illustrate his speech he had a dozen or more of watches, silver spoons, forks, plated wear and articles of jewelry spread out on the top of his desk. Unknown to Mr. Vreeland, Representative McMorran of Michigan ranged on the desk behind, him three big oranges in the shape of a pawnbroker's sign.

"What'll you advance on my watch?" asked Mr. Longworth as he walked by and saw the oranges.

"This is no pawnbroker's office," Mr. Vreeland said. "Then take in your sign," Mr. Longworth advised.

As Elliott Woods, the superintendent of the capitol, was walking with Uncle Joe Cannon from the street cars to the capitol the other day Mr. Woods noticed several pairs of crows that were building their nests up in the carvings of the columns around the dome, says the New York World's Washington representative.

He pointed them out to Uncle Joe and remarked: "I think those crows are getting too familiar. I will send a man up there and drive them out."

"Oh, no; let them alone," said the speaker, gazing interestedly at the intruders, that were cawing to one another. "We must concede something to our Democratic brethren."

Representative Dickson of Illinois is a close friend of the Democratic state attorney of Fayette county, in his district. So Mr. Dickson included this official in his list when sending out the garden seed which congressmen distribute annually. He received by return mail this:

Dear Dickson-I got the garden seed and am much obliged. Would you now please send me a spade so that I may dig my garden and plant the seed?

Mr. Dickson, to complete the joke, visited a hardware store, bought a spade and expressed it to his friend.

DID NOT TALK POLITICS

Take Up Conflict on Amnesty

St. Petersburg, May 12.—The hope of the establishment of friendly relations between the czar and the national parliament has been further strengthened by the audience granted by Emperor Nicholas at Peterhof to President Mouromtseff of the lower house. Mou- men. The officers are: Commodore, J. from the audience apparently much impressed by the czar's earnest interest in the problems of the country.

Though the radical hot-heads had been praying that Mouromtseff would lay down the law to the czar and make a scene, the half-hour's conversation was skilfully guided both by the sovereign and the parliamentary chief, so that friction was avoided.

To the Constitutional Democratic members of the house, who waited his return from Peterhof at the Constitutional club, Mouromtseff spoke only briefly, laying special emphasis on the czar's courtesy and consideration, and in the parliament and society. Mouromtseff said political questions were not gone into, as he had regarded it as the regatta committee of the Brooklyn not fitting that the president of the representative chamber should present at the official audience the views of any one group or body.

The impression left by Thursday's historic event is on the whole optimistic. Even the radicals assume a rather hopeful tone. The Rech, organ of the Constitutional Democrats and now the most powerful paper in Russia, while not concealing its disappointment at the fact that the expected amnesty was not granted, on the other hand exgards his speech as an adroit refusal to grant any further concessions, leaving the new fundamental law as the platform of the government, adding: "But the policy of marking time while events are marching so rapidly really means

The deliverance of the political prisoners and those who have suffered for freedom's cause is now a passion with the masses, and it is difficult to see how the government will be able to resist.

One of the striking changes is in the appearance of The Official Messenger, which for days and weeks had been appearing each morning with column after column of ukases and nominations, as the bureaucracy feverishly sought to A thorough and complete examination of get their "goods in out of the wet." With the assembling of parliament the end has come. Not a single ukase or nomination is printed.

The central committee of the Constitutional Democrats is working out a reply to the speech from the throne. The principal points will be amnesty and equality of political and civil rights. But a faction is insisting on a demand for the abolition of the council of the empire. An attempt will be made to come to an agreement with the peasants, who are drawing up an independent reply. Their chief demands are amnesty. the reorganization of the labor laws. the reorganization of the army, the disbanding of the Cossacks, the separation of church and state, a general extension of the schools and equal rights for all nationalities.

Clubs Adopting New Rules. The Ogeemah Sold --- The Lipton Cup Race.

The adopting of rules and regulations s the order of the hour among yachtsmen. The latest body to adopt the revised racing rules drawn up by the Atlantic coast conference is the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts. European advices state that the rule of measurement proposed at the London conference has been unreservedly acepted by Italy and Germany and that France has adopted the formula for yachts that are larger than ten meters rating (32.8 feet) and for ones that are smaller the same formula with several changes.

Articles of association by the White Lake Yacht club, located at White Lake, Mich., have just been filed. Most of the members are Chicago yachtsromtseff returned to St. Petersburg ter S. "Sons of sea cooks may be numerous," said Thomas Fleming Day recently in speaking of the Bermuda race that is to be shortly sailed under the auspices of the Brooklyn Yacht club, "but real sea cooks are not, or at least amateurs, and the cooks on this voyage must not fry their flapjacks for Any ablebodied amateur cook qualified to restrain the restive coffeepot and the slippery egg in the active thorough knowledge of the sentiment frying on board of a forty foot boat for a jump of 600 miles or so across the gulf stream can get a job by writing Yacht club.'

The boat no doubt will race in Class R, and it is believed by many well informed yachtsmen that there is not a boat of her measurement afloat that can beat her in any kind of weather other than a drifting match.

The new schooner yacht Dervish, which is the property of Commodore Henry A. Morse of the Corinthian Yacht club of Marblehead, Mass., and which was launched recently at Lawley's yards, Boston, was designed by C. H. Crane of New York. It is one of the three schooners built for eastern owners under the new rule. Her dimensions are 88 feet over all, 55 feet on the water line, 16 feet beam and 11 feet draft.

Edward Sanger of the Milwaukee Yacht club states that he will enter his new yacht, the Mendota, in the Lipton cup races of the Columbia Yacht club of Chicago that are to be sailed in August on Lake Michigan. William Hale Thompson, president of the Illinois Athletic club, is wondering if he is to own practically all of the New Illinois, the twenty-one foot yacht that is to enter the Lipton cup races this season. It was originally intended that the boat should be built by a syndicate of which Thompson was to be the leading member. Thompson ordered the yacht built with this understanding by an Oshkosh firm, but from the time he signed the papers he has not heard from the other members. W. H. Dupre is, however, in on the proposition, and in all probability the two will own the boat. Under the flag of have pursued the rebel chief Marengo what club the yacht will sail is still a mystery. Besides the Illinois Athletic of Chicago, Thompson is a member of the Columbia and Chicago Yacht clubs. Dupre also belongs to the Chicago Yacht club. Thompson says that the boat will fly the colors of the club that the majority of the syndicate belongs to if he can find out who they are. Arthur Pettit of Chicago is now in the Boston, where he will try out the new twenty-one foot cabin class boat that is being built to race in the Lipton se-Orleans, to fill the vacancy created by ries by a syndicate representing the Chicago Country club.

Knowing this, it has been my practice to order that the men should have as much liberty as consistent with their duties, and on Sunday, wherever the opportunity offers, large parties from all the ships have been permitted to go on shore and engage in their field sports.

"The petitioners against having games on Sunday can surely have no objection to our men going on shore, provided they do not engage in sports. It seems to me that it would be far more objectionable to them to have 2000 or 3000 men roaming their streets with nothing to do than it would be if the men were collected at Evans' field engaged in or witnessing sports.

"At the same time I have to earnestly request that the department will urge upon the selectmen to withdraw their names from the petition and to permit our men to have their sports on Sunday afternoon when we visit the town. If they will do so I will see that the games are carried on in the same orderly manner that has characterized them there and elsewhere. I hope that the fleet can visit Provincetown a number of times this summer, if it does not interfere with the wishes of the department. because the vicinity of Cape Cod bay is most excellent for tactical and other drills. But if this restriction is put on a few hours when the men can engage in sports on shore, I can only recommend to the department an itinerary that will take us to some other point where the authorities are more tolerant of the harmless and innocent recreation of their naval defenders."

One day another proper young woman came to call on Hannah. She wasn't quite as proper as Miss Wray, for she had once permitted a young man to walk home from church with her, but she was trying her best to be forgiven by society for that sin.

When she departed she left a circular on the floor, and Hannah picked it up and gave it a careless look. A moment later she was turning pale and gasping for breath. Two minutes later she was upstairs in her room and blushing as she read. It was a circular from a matrimonial bureau.

Notwithstanding her properness, Hannah had heard of such things, but only to be horrified. She was horrified now. She was also interested. She was horrified that her caller should be in receipt of such literature and interested to know if men and women did really get married through such agencies. For five minutes she refused to read further than the heading. Then she looked all around her room, gave a shudder and proceeded to devour every word. She even read the circular twice over. It was a call to all those in love RICKSECKER" on it, you may be certain you names of three persons, with whom they might correspond. On the books of the agency, so it was stated, were We should be pleased to show you our line, the names of heiresses and wealthy widows pining for husbands, as well as widowers with millons and young men needing wives to help them take care of inheritances. The reader was assured that there were governors, senators and railroad presidents making use of the agency. Hannah Wray found her heart beating faster as she read, and when she glanced at the glass she found that she was blushing. Her first thought was to rush after her friend and restore the circular and cut her acquaintance forevermore. Her second was to keep the circular and read it over again. Of course she acted on second thought. She did more than that. She allowed her mind to dwell on it and romance to creep over her unromantic soul, and after two or three days she could read it without blushing. That should be the end, however. Never, never would she permit herself to send away 50 cents and receive the names. She stuck to this resolution for three days, and then she sent off the money. It was the first letter she had ever written to any one except a relative. It was the first time in two years she had visited the village postoffice. The day the letter was mailed Dan Wray's wife said to him as he was milking the cow in the barn: "Say, Dan, something is wrong with Hannah.'

"What do you mean?" he asked. "She's got something on her mind. Two or three times today I've caught her looking in the glass and acting girly. I'm not quite sure of it, but I have a feeling that when she went downtown it was to post a letter. What do you think it is?"

"I know she had mumps, measles and the chicken pox the same time I did," replied Dan after thinking things over, "and she can't be coming down with any of those.'

"Of course not. Didn't I say I caught her acting girly?" "And what's that?"

"Why, twisting herself and simpering and trying to blush." "Well, what's that the sign of?"

The surrounding show is a capital one, well up to the usual Keith standard. Included in the list will be Callahan and Mack in their delightful Irish comedy sketch "The Old Neighborhood," the Quartet Basque, a mix ed organization of talented vocalists; Camilia trio of skilful bar performers; Brockman, Mack and Belmont, in their mirth-provoking sketch, 'The Count on Mother's Account"; Leona Thurber, and her "Blackbirds," in an eccentric singing and dancing specialty; Klein and Klein, comedy jugglers, and Lillian Maynard, English be made in the Kintograph.

Roosevelt Accused of Violating an Agreement

That President Broke Faith With Democratic Allies

Washington, May 14 .- Senator Tillman, who on Saturday made a statement in the senate covering the details of his and Senator Bailey's negotiations, through ex-Senator Chandler, with President Roosevelt regarding the rate bill, last night made public a portion of a written statement made to him by Chandler of his various conferences with the president on this sub-

The president had been openly ac cused of having deliberately violated an agreement that he had made with Republicans and Democrats for the Senator Tillman. It was made deliberately, carefully and in such a manner that it carried conviction. A little later in the session Mr. Lodge attempted to break the force of the charge by quoting a telephonic message from the president in which he made denial of one of the minor counts of the indict

Senator Bailey said in the senate in the course of an attack on Roosevelt: "Mr. President, I love a brave man, I love a fighter, and the President of the United States is both on occasions, but he can give up with as much alacrity as any man who ever went into battle. either civil or political. He fights furiously when it is a physical contest, I grant you, because that is a question of courage as well as endurance, but he seems to have no endurance in these political contests here."

The senator closed, saying: "But let us have no more talk in the senate and talk in the country about this iron man. He is clay and very common clay at

The portion of the statement by Chandler and given out by Tillman i largely a repetition of the first part of his statement in the senate Saturday It covers, however, that portion where Tillman had quoted Chandler as saying that the president had stated that he had come to a complete disagreement with the senatorial lawyers, who were trying to defeat or injure the bill, naming Knox, Spooner and Foraker, regard ing which statement Senator Lodge subsequently said he was authorized to say from the White House that it was an unqualified falsehood. On this subject Chandler, referring to the presi dent, said in his written statement:

"He said that he had been much troubled by the advocacy of an unlimited court review by some of the lawyers of the senate, naming Senators Knox, Spooner and Foraker as trying to injure or defeat the bill by ingenious constitutional arguments, but that he had come to a complete disagreement with them. He made this point em-

Chandler's written statement fur-

"After the president had made his statement, I replied that I had reason to believe that most of the Democrats in the senate would sustain his limitation of the court's powers, but that I was sure that Mr. Bailey and Mr. Tillman would insist upon coupling with the limitation some restriction upon the power of the courts to issue injunctions against the orders of the commission. Before I had finished my statement on this point the president interrupted me, saying that I need not explain further, because he was warmly in favor of such restriction. That evening I saw Mr. Tillman and told him what had occurred."

Senator Tillman's statement in the senate Saturday is the principal topic of discussion in official circles. The senator has had a number of callers at his apartments, with whom he talked freely about the matter, among whom were Senator Bailey and ex-Senator Chandler. Chandler has been urged by some of his friends to make public a statement over his own signature regarding the denial by Lodge of the accuracy of the president's remarks in reference to Spooner, Knox and Foraker. He declined, however, to be further brought into the controversy at this time, saying he would let the matter for the present rest on the statement made public by Tillman. It was with Chandler's consent that the portion of his written statement to Tillman of his conference with the presi dent was made public.

Attorney General Moody, whose participation in the rate bill conferences was referred to by Tillman, is in New York. He is expected back in Washington today.

Senator Lodge called at the White House last evening and took dinner with the president. Subsequently Sec retaries Root and Taft arrived at the White House and joined the president

In Course of Preparation by Russian Parliament

AMNESTY IS DEMANDED

Lower House Calls Council of Empire a Wall of Separation Between Czar and People and Wants It Abolished -- An Iron Hand Behind Modest Address

St. Petersburg, May 15 .- Former Premier Witte again took a prominent part yesterday in the conferences of members of the council of the empire, successfully insisting that the adoption of a reply to the speech from the throne should be postponed until a regular meeting of the council at which repre sentatives of the press shall be present, in order that the country may be informed as to the arguments advanced on either side.

Nevertheless, the projected reply to the speech from the throne has already been drafted. Though delicately expressed, the reply virtually contains a demand for the amnesty of political prisoners who are not guilty of murder or robbery. In other respects the reply seems to be especially designed to disarm the suspicion that it is to be the The Copeland club are making great role of the upper house to block legisla expressing the deepest loyalty to the czar, the reply of the council of the em-A football game is scheduled for Sat- pire contains these three principal

> I-An unequivocal endorsement of a iberal regime.

III-Amnesty, the suggestion being o worded as not to wound the sensi bility of the czar, calling attention to the fact that all remarkable occasions in Russian history have been marked y an act of grace, and urging the strong claim to clemency of those who triving for liberty, transgressed lawful limits without being guilty of crime

After struggling the whole day until ate last evening over a draft of the reply to the speech from the throne, the nembers of the commission of the lower house postponed the final work of phrasing the document until today. The struggle has centered mainly o the agrarian plank, to which the peasant members found that the recom mendations of the Constitutional Demo crats, though calling for a large meas ure of forced expropriation, were not sweeping enough. The peasants wished the abandonment of most of the limita tions and qualifications of the right of expropriation. Besides the points of universal am nesty and abolishment of the death penalty laid down in the instructions o the lower house, the document adroitly ntroduced the subject of abolishmen of the council of the empire and minis terial responsibility. Taking as its text Emperor Nicholas' pledge in hi speech from the throne to maintain inriolate the institutions which he ha granted, the address expresses the hope that this signifies that the country is on the road to a strictly constitutional system. This being true, the parliamen wishes to call attention to the fact that Real Estate, Insurance, Mortgages the council of the empire is a wall o separation between the emperor and the people. Then, advocating a responsible ministry selected from the dominant party in parliament, the address points out as a great advantage of that system the cessation of attacks on the monarch.

The iron hand behind the respectful wording of the address peeps out in the paragraph regarding amnesty, which contains these significant words: "There are some demands which cannot be refused and this is one."

The workmen are remembered by reference in the address to a need of melioration in the condition of labor while for the Poles and other nationalities the address speaks for the rights of each nationality to its own language customs and local self-administration.

The explosion of the bomb literally tore Con stantinoff to pieces and severely wound ed seven other persons. The assassitried to escape and, firing his revolver wounded a soldier. Statement From Rooseveit In Reply to Tillman

NOT DICTATING ACTION

Denies Insisting Upon Certain Amendments In Bill as a Con- Single Lessons, Gents, 50 cts.; Ladies, 25 cts. dition of His Approval, and Says Allison's Purposes and His Own Are "Identical"

Washington, May 15 .- The sensational rate bill incident in the senate Saturday, during which Mr. Tillman, on the authority of former Senato Chandler, made statements regarding the president's course in connection with pending railroad rate legislation some of which statements were denied ELMER W. BAKER, by Mr. Lodge, on behalf of the presi dent, had its sequel last evening, whe an official statement was issued at th White House giving an account of th subject on the part of the president an Attorney General Moody. The state ment comprised two letters, one from the president to Senator Allison and the other from Moody to the president both dated yesterday. The presiden says:

"In no case, either in the case of Mr Chandler or anyone else, was there th slightest opportunity for any hones misconception of my attitude or any be lief that I pledged myself specifical to one and only one amendment or se of amendments or that I would not b satisfied with any amendment which preserved the essential features of the Hepburn bill as it came from the house

The president says that as to many the amendments, including the called Long, Overman, Bacon as Spooner amendments, he had said b should be entirely satisfied to have them in the bill and suggested modifie tions as to other amendments, but the "as to none of the amendments did ever say either to Mr. Chandler or to anyone else that I should insist upor having them in the bill as a condition of my approval," and that, on the con trary, he (the president) was careful to state that he was not trying to dictate any particular program of action.

The president says the statement made to Chandler were the same in substance as those made to Allison and other senators of both parties. He said he was asked to see Chandler as the representative of Tillman in charge of the bill, and that the conferences Moody had with Tillman and Bailey were such as had been held with many other sena tors to determine the phraseology and discuss the effect of amendments proposed by them.

The president states that he becam convinced that it was impossible for senators "with advantage" to use him as an intermediary, and suggested to all to whom he spoke that they commu nicate with Allison, whose purpose and the president's were "identical." The president says that his own opinion is that the Allison amendment in ne way changed the court review as pro vided in the original Hepburn bill, and eral Moody and Secretaries Root and

The attorney general's letter gives an account, at the president's request of the conferences which Moody had by the president's direction with Tillman and Bailey regarding the court re view feature. He says he advised the president that he should not at any stage become finally committed beyond recall to any form of language in any part of the bill, and the president affirmed the wisdom of that course. He reviews the discussion of interlocutory injunctions and concludes that ther was nothing in the "conversations" be tween the senators and himself which bound the president to any particular

Senator Tillman talked freely last night with a number of his callers abou the statement issued by Presiden Roosevelt. He expressed his preference, however, not to be quoted, pointing out that whatever he wished to say on the subject of the statement he would say on the floor of the senate Tillman wanted the fact to go into the newspapers that he did not in any way initiate the negotiations with the presi dent regarding the Democratic support for the railroad rate bill and that he did not ask Chandler to go to the White

Mr. Chandler refused to discuss the statement from the White House. He indicated that he did not expect to issue a statement at this time bearing on the subject. Regarding his visits to the White House, Chandler said that previous to his invitation to call to see the president on March 31, following which he conferred with the president regarding the pending rate bill, he had not been at the White House for about a month, and that previous to that invita-tion he had no immediate intention of T. F. McAnarney, Attorney. 3t 8-13-22. month, and that previous to that invitagoing there. He said that he did not go to the White House as an emissary of Tillman, but that he went there in response to the president's invitation.

Cutting Down Landowners' Vote London, May 15 .- The house of commons has passed the second reading of the plural voters bill by a vote of 403 to 96. Hitherto the practice in Great Britain has been for a voter to exerc's the franchise wherever he was qualified by land-owning to do so. The pending bill limits each voter to one vote in one constituency. The measure, if it becomes a law, will mainly affect the landowners' vote.

HOW the POSTAL BILL MOVED! WAS CARRIED

[Original.] One morning Sir Roderick Boyle,

M. P., a baronet living in London, went -1839, the second year after the good Queen Victoria ascended the throne of England-the postoffice was a very different bureau from what it is today. The mail was all carried on coaches and the charges on letters were in pro portion to the distance they were trans mitted, ranging from 16 to 40 cents for a letter weighing an ounce, and were collected when the letter was delivered. Since the value of a shilling was proportionately much greater then than now the cost of postage, especially on a letter sent from one extremity of the kingdom to another, was, to the of any kind.

Sir Roderick stepped up to the delivery window and, finding a young woman, a maidservant, there, waited The clerk had handed her a letter, and she was looking at the superscription Presently she sighed and turned to leave. The clerk called her back,

"This is the third time this week you've been here to ask for letters, and hough I've had one for you every time "What's the matter, lassie?" asked Sir Roderick. "Can't you pay for you "I haven't the money, sir."

"Whom is it from?" "My young man, sir."

"What is the postage?" asked the baronet of the clerk. "A shilling fourpence," replied the Sir Roderick took the amount from his wallet and laid it before the clerk Glaneng at the grl to see how pleased he would be to read the letter from her lover he noticed a peculiar xpression on her face, while she shool er head, as much as to say, "Don't do But it was too late. The cork and taken the money, and the lette was in the baronet's hand. He gave i to the girl, and the two walked out of the postoffice together. When they reached the street Sir Roderick took out an eyeglass and read the supercription on the letter.

The name was "Beth T. B. R. Perk." Sir Roderick was puzzled. He had never seen so many initials in the name of one in her class. "You are Beth Perk, I suppose," he said.

"Yes, sir; on that letter. Sometimes I'm Bess, Elizabeth, Betsy or one o' the other names as belongs to Eliza The good man looked at her wonder ingly. "And you seem to have a good many other names, judging from the "The letters, sir. Them differs. Sometimes there's three, like this one, sometimes two, and once there was five, but that was only once and was Sir Roderick took the glass out of his eye and surveyed the girl from head to foot. What could she mean? He was too well bred to ask even one so far be neath him to explain a matter in which he could not possibly be expected to have an interest, so he simply looked at her.

"Well, here's your letter," he said, handing it to her. "Please, sir, I don't want it."

"Don't want it."

"Nothing in it? Then why"- He

"I tried to stop you payin' for it, sir. It's this way, sir. My young man's valet to a laird in the north o' Scotland, sir. The postage on a letter from him is one and four, sir, so we has a way o' writin' on the back o' the letter as we both knows what it means. Inside there's nothin' but a sheet o' paper, with nothin' on it. I goes to the postoffice and calls for the letter and knows what it says by the writin' on the outside. Then I hands it back to the clerk and pays nothin'. I won't mind tellin' you what this one says if you won't look at me. Beth means sweetheart. T. means time. B. R. means one month-that is, it's one month before we're to be married." Sir Roderick, who was a statesman, stood looking down upon the girl thinking. The postal laws enabled him as one of the nation's rich men and legis lators to send a plano through the

The next day, when the postal bill came up in the house of commons, its friends were in despair since it was sure to be killed by Sir Roderick Boyle, who had denounced it as a visionary scheme that would swamp the postoffice department. When shortly before the vote was cast the great statesman arose and made a speech in advocacy of the bill there was great astonishment. The measure passed, but no one knew that the turning point in its struggle for existence was a cipher between two lovers, neither of whom knew any more than to read and to MARY C. BURNET.

GREAT POWDER BLASTS

When the shocks of the explosion came 250 inmates of the almshouse rushed from the building, frightened by the shaking of the structure, the falling of shattered glass and the rattle of umbling chimneys.

An incalcula le number of window panes, great late glass windows, crockery, glassware, bric-a-brac and other fragile things have been ruined. Hardly household in the whole city escaped some damage. Near the powder magazine huge trees were uprooted.

It is now the opinion of experts that veather conditions caused the explo sions. The great heat following the dampness of several previous days made the atmospheric conditions within the magazines such that combustion i considered the explanation. The Provincetown Baseball Muddle

GODFREY'S TANKARD.

A Seventeenth Century Relic of the Plague In London.

A curious historical relic of London is the large tankard of solid silver presented by Charles II, to Sir Edmund Berry Godfrey for his valuable services during the plague and the fire of London, for which he received the honor of knighthood in 1666. The tankard, which is of plain silver, has a hinged cover and weighs nearly thirty-six ounces. Its front is engraved with the royal arms and the crest of the recipi ent, together with inscriptions in Latin and engravings of scenes connected with the fire, which are still in excellent preservation. The engraving of the pesthouse men carrying corpses to crowded blocks of houses surmounted by flames are very quaint and curious Sir Edmund, who was born in 1621 at Sellinge, in Kent, was a timber mer chant, possessing wharfs at Dowgate city and at Charing Cross. He prosper ed, became justice of the peace for Westminster and member of parliament for Winchilsea. In history, as no reader of Macaulay and Green will need to be told, his name is most famous in connection with his mysterious (S. C.) State. murder, which was popularly attributed to the zeal with which he had devoted himself to unraveling the alleged popish plot. His body was found in a litch near Primrose hill, face downward and penetrated by his own sword, under circumstances which precluded the idea of suicide or robbery.

The excitement caused by this still mysterious event is indicated by the fact that when the funeral procession left the city, with great pomp and crat. pageant, for the burial ground of St. Martin's-in-the-Felds, it was preceded by 70 clergy and followed by upward of 1,000 persons of distinction

THE JAW AND THE TEETH.

What May Happen if We Continue Using Soft Foods.

The teeth are really appendages of the skin, and not of the skeleton, as people generally believe. The jaw is formed in accordance with the necessity for providing a hold for the teeththat is, if there were no teeth to come the jaw would grow differently, and would not have its present shape. The jaw is not an independent part, as it would like to be; it has to form itself to accommodate tenants with which, strictly speaking, it has no ties of kin-

The use of soft foods decreases the size of the teeth, and they will ultimately disappear, unless we make more use of them.

As there does not seem to be any kelihood of a change in our habits, we must expect to lose them in course of time. Then the jaw will assume probably another shape. Further, the gums might disappear, for there can be no use for them after the disappearance of the teeth.

The loss of the teeth makes the lips fall in, and brings us near to the Punch form of face! We find it impossible to pronounce sounds, such as t, d, sh, ch The change of face, so to say, will certainly lead to a modification of the tongue, and this in turn to the inability to pronounce other sounds.

The ultimate cause of atonic dyspepsia is constitutional depression. It may be due to overwork, and especially to prolonged worry. Sometimes the yspepsia is the first manifestation of ubercular poisoning. Again, there seems to be an inherent failure of the digestive organs. Once established. dyspepsia is, in turn, the cause of loss of strength, of mental inertia and visceral weakness. Some degree of simple anaemia is almost inevitable. The exciting cause may be an illness of any kind, the excessive use of tea, coffee or other beverages, the lack of proper food, some error in habits of eating. Often it is not discoverable.

Consolatory. A correspondent of an English paper tells how some one visited a wild beast show and saw a countryman come in bearing unmistakable signs of having had a glass too much. A tiger scratched the back of the hand with which the man grasped a bar of the cage. The laceration was severe, and the pain was great. The sufferer danced about and twirled his shillalah, crying: "Let him out! Let him out till I have me will av him!" A companion tried to soothe the irate dancer, with this neat impromptu: "Never mind, Pat. Sure, he only wanted to scrape acquaintance wid ye."

He Knew.

The first witness called in a petty lawsuit in Cincinnati was an Irishman of whose competence as a witness opposing counsel entertained doubt. At their instance there was put to him before being sworn the usual interrogatory, "Do you know the nature of an oath?"

A broad grin spread over the face of the Irishman as he replied: "Indade, your honor, I may say that it is second nature with me."-Harper's

Mrs. Follett then sang four bildren's songs-"My Shadow" by Hadley," "A Necklace of Pearls" by Nevin, "Craddle Song" by Kate Vannah, and "The Sweetest Girl" by Edith Noyes Porter; which were followed by a report from Mrs. Walter S. Pinkbam, ecretary of the kindergarten comnittee, stating what had already been done by that committee and others to raise the $1,000 necessary to run a free kindergarten in Wollaston one year. After this report, Mr. Follett sang two song-"I know a Lovely garden" by D'hardelot and "Come to me Mavourneen" by Lynes. Mrs. Jewell introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Laura Fisher, director of the Boston Kindergarten system, who gave a most instructive and delightful address. She said in part as follows: Some people think that any kind of ducation will do for little children This is a great mistake; little children need just as much thought put into their education as older ones do. The kindergarten helps little children in many ways. For instance, it develops mutual helpfulness, their versatility dexterity, thoughtfulness for each other; it makes them more alert, more bedient, more sympathetic. In the kindergarten children are aught to observe the color and forms of things and to use their eyes, ears and tongues. They are also taught to use various materials for building, and to build with a purpose according to certain principles of construction. Then, too, the kindergarten through its spirit of co-operation develops the sympathies of the child. The child has a great capacity for sympathy. This is shown by his faith in everyone around turn his sympathy in the right direction. The kindergarten puts him into sympathy with nature by making him an intelligent observer of nature and by giving him something in nature to take care of-flowers to tend either in gardens or window boxes, or animals to feed. This responsibility laid on the child develops the good husbandman. He feels the joy of helping some one who is dependent on him.

The kindergarten puts the child into sympathy also with human life by teaching him to be helpful to other human beings and unselfish and fair in his play. The little child should have all his work made play, for in play he naturally expresses himself. Many Marvelous tricks, A La Houdini, children playing together develop more freely and naturally than one child lone or even two or three children to gether. It is noticeable that parents who fear that their child will be con taminated by others always think that it is somebody's else child who will do the contaminating.

A child alone at home is like a bird in a gilded cage; he is fed and petted, but he cannot fly, he is deprived of the joy of freedom. The child as well as garten gives him this right by placing him among his equals. Among his equals he leads his own natural life instead of a life imposed upon him by older people. Among his equals he can try his strength and he learns to look at hings as they are for children are always perfectly sincere with other

There is furthermore a certain responsibility for his conduct thrown on the child, for if he is unfair in the games Has moved from 1625 Hancock Street he is soon thrown out, if he is selfish he is not liked. Children learn much more readily from their equals than from their elders. In the kindergarten the child is taught to see kindly aspects of nature, and to observe what men are doing, as for instance, the carpenter at work on a new house or the farmer sowing and reaping. In the kindergarten also the highest moral ideals are held up to the child in the stories told, in songs, in play, in pictures and in conversation.

Mr. Herbert H. Albee asked a question which the solicitors had been asked several times, viz: Why is it that children who have gone to private kindergartens have gained so little benefit? Will this free kindergarten be better ? In answer, Mrs. Jewell said that a

It would also have a larger number of Weymouth children and more money and therefore better facilities. Mr. W. S. Pinkham said that if a free kindergarten of the kind that had been described at the meeting that Milton evening could be successfully carried Canton on in Wollaston it would in the end become a necessity and would force the city to put a kindergarten in every publie school,

Dr. Record asked if a free kindergarten had ever before been carried on in the way now proposed. Mrs. Jewell said that Mrs. Quincy Shaw had Norwood run a free kindergarten on her own Walpole private means in Boston. Miss Fanny Johnson said that free kindergartens had been run on subscriptions very successfully for several years in New York; and some one else in the audience said the Dover same thing had been done in Fall River. | Westwood Therefore all that is necessary is to Miss Johnson thought that this might Medfield account for the great interest which the whole city of Fall River took in kindergartens.

The defeat of the paper trust and its subsequent dissolution shows what can be done under existing laws when the legal machinery of the United in print in violation of the tenets of States is put to work with a determination to win its case. How Jersey Farmer Found a Way to Cut Company's Wires.

The contest between the New York and New Jersey Telephone company and the Hepburn brothers for right of way across the farms of the latter near Brookdale, N. J., recently became picturesque, says a special dispatch from Bloomfield, N. J., to the New York Times. The company had managed to get its poles up, and for three or four days the brothers had been finding a way of cutting the wires.

In a twinkling he had climbed up a pole, and the nipped wires came falling down about the ears of the guards. CRAPSEY GUILTY

ONE MEMBER DISSENTS

Has Thirty Days Before Sentence ot Suspension From Exercising Functions of Minister Is Fully Pronounced to Retract

Rochester, May 16 .- The verdict of the court of ecclesiastics of the Episcopal church sitting on the case of the Rev. Dr. Algernon S. Crapsey is for suspension until he satisfies the ecclesiastical authorities of the diocese that his belief and teaching conform to the doctrine of the Apostles' creed and the Nicene creed as the church has received them.

Dr. Crapsey was accused of heresy and of utterances from the pulpit and the church faith.

Four members of the court signed the verdict of guilty, and the other member, Dr. Dunham, upholds Dr. Crapsey

The decision in part follows: "We make and find the following conclusions with respect to the said and herein denominated 'doctrines denied,' being a part of specification 1, charge 1.

"It being intended by said language, 2. The doctrine that our Lord Jesus Christ was conceived by the Holy Ghost. 3. The doctrine of the virgin birth of our Lord Jesus Christ. 4. The doctrine of the resurrection of our blessed Lord and Saviour. 5. The doctrine of the blessed trinity." After defining the extent of Dr. Crapsey's guilt on each specification the report concludes as fol-

The other feature was the appearance of a Conservative peasant group among the supporters of the government.

TILLMAN'S TURN

Never Expressed Wish to Conter With Chief Executive In Regard to Rate Bill--Repeats His Charge of Bad Faith

Washington, May 16 .- Senator Tillman took the floor in the senate yesterday afternoon to make a statement in behalf of ex-Senator Chandler, which has been momentarily expected since Senator Lodge's conveyance last Saturday to the senate of the president's emphatic denial of the statements attrib uted to Chandler by Tillman.

Mr. Tillman read the portion of Chandler's memoranda of his conference with the president which has heretofore been given to the public, prefac ing it with a brief statement of his own saying that on Saturday the senate had been startled and mortified to hear the utterances of an ex-member denounced on behalf of the president as a "deliber ate and unqualified falsehood." As he had been responsible for introducing the subject which had caused the attack on Chandler he felt under obligations to place him right on the record. To that end he read the ex-senator's statement The reading of that statement was

"I now declare most emphatically that to no human being have I ever given authority or expressed a wish to have any conference with Theodore Roosevelt in regard to the bill now un der consideration. On the contrary, l have expressed the opinion in more than one published interview that he had nothing to do with it and that it was the business of the senate and while I did, at his request, enter into negotia tion with the attorney general, it is well known to every senator on this floor what my attitude and feelings have been, and it is most remarkable, while the president sent for Democrat after Democrat to confer with him about this measure, that he should undertake under the circumstances to assert that I

Not a Fire Insurance Company In This Country Su .. Solvency as Yet -- State supervisica at Life Insurance 1 a fr: - as a Rule

Washington, May 16 .- "There is not a fire insurance company in this country that knows whether it will be solvent or not when it pays its San Francisco losses." This statement, coming from Miles M. Dawson, actuary for the Armstrong committee of New York, Tickets good for 5 lessons. somewhat startled the house committee on the judiciary. Mr. Dawson was discussing the question of a model in surance regulation act for the District of Columbia. His argument previously had been confined to life insurance. but he made this slight digression t point out what he deemed faulty pro visions in the Ames bill, regarding fire companies.

The result of the Chicago fire was, he said, to put most all of the American companies out of business, while not one of the British companies failed, not withstanding they paid every loss they had in that conflagration. Since that time the British companies had been constantly increasing their business. This was not because the English companies had any more money, nor were any better insurance men, said Dawson, but because the laws of this coun try required American companies t hold a reserve fund amounting to 50 percent of their capital. The reserve of the British companies was but 30 percent. This allowed these companie a larger capital to meet such a loss as was occasioned in Chicago. The lesson should have been learned then that it was not a large legal reserve that made a company solvent. American com panies which could not get into their 50 percent reserves went into the hand of receivers. British companies which could use their capital down to a 30 per cent reserve lived through the demand

Mr. Dawson suggested that the bill should provide for a 50 percent reserve. with a further provision that two-fifths of this 50 percent might be used to meet conflagration losses.

On the subject of life insurance Dawson gave the committee the benefit of his experience with the Armstrong committee. He drew the first draft of the Armstrong insurance legislation which has just been enacted by the New York state legislature. This legislation, he said, was not intended in any sense as "model" law, but was restrict ed, in accordance with the conclusion of the Armstrong committee, to cor recting evils which were shown to exist by the testimony taken during the in-consulting actuary, he said, he had Established 1887. observed that federal supervision of the right kind would be very desirable State supervision, with the exception FRANK F. CRANE, of Massachusetts and possibly New York, had proved a monumental failure In New York, he said, scandals had arisen three times, all of which were of great magniture.

Mr. Dawson concluded his observa tions with the suggestion that the committee would do well to obtain authority from the house to continue its in quiry during the summer months, not for the purpose of investigating insurance companies, but to investigate in surance laws. There would be many developments, he said, during the summer which would be of valuable assistance to the committee in drafting a model bill. The workings of the Armstrong laws in New York and the action taken by the Wisconsin state commis sion, which he commended, were mentioned in this connection. In answer to a query as to who he would suggest to aid the committee, he said first Charles E. Hughes and second Senator Armstrong.

Mr. Dawson urged the committee to carefully consider the question of including in the bill a limitation to be placed on expenditures of companies for obtaining new business. He thorwith a publicity feature, he said, would safeguard the interests of the willow. safeguard the interests of the policy holders as far as it was possible to do so.

Generous Anonymous Gifts New York, May 16 .- Two anonymous gifts, making a total of $325,000, to the Union Theological seminary, were announced at the annual luncheon of the alumni of the seminary. It is understood that this money is to go to the building fund of the seminary and that it will be used in covering part of the expense of the erection of a new building for the institution on Morningside Heights.

Transcaucasian War Scare

Tiflis, May 16 .- There is considerable excitement in Transcaucasia, owing to the possibility of a war with Turkey in the summer. Turkey seems to be mobilizing troops near the frontier, explaining that they are simply engaged in maneuvers. Nevertheless the viceroy of Transcaucasia appears to be preparing for possible eventualities. Vesuvius' Activity Increasing Naples, May 16 .- Director Matteucci of the royal observatory telegraphs that the volcanic acitvity of Mount Vesuvius is increasing and that the main crater is discharging a great quantity Disagreement on Wage Scale Cleveland, May 16 .- The conference between marine firemen and repre sentatives of the Lake Carriers' association has ended abruptly, the firemen leaving the conference and refusing to accept the proposed wage scale. As the longshoremen, tug-men, oilers, Adams Building, grain-scoopers and water-tenders are affiliated, it is believed the break in the negotiations will carry out all of those elements.

Bears May Have Drowned Children Moncton, N. B., May 16 .- The 4 year-old son and 5-year-old daughter of John Creamer have been lost in the woods since Sunday evening. The forest has been searched and streams dragged, but there has been no trace of the little ones. The probability that they have been carried off by bears is suggested.

Dr. C. T. Sherman considered the work of the religious department the most important. We cannot estimate the good done. Classes for Bible study with an enrollment of 96, shop meetings have been held, and also men's meetings on Sunday. Cost had been ess than $200.

Col. Wright received an enthusiastic greeting. He said he had made a special study of the industrial training by Young Men's Christian Association; and had been attracted by the work accomplished. Declares That Slander Proceeds From White House and Incidentally Reflects Sharply on President--Tillman Has Something to Say of the Muck Rake

Washington, May 17.-The recent efforts of the president and the Demoeratic senatorial leaders to reach an agreement on the railroad rate bill received further notice in the senate from Senators Bailey and Tillman. The matter was referred to by the Texas senator in the course of a personal explanation called out by an article in the Chicago Tribune charging Bailey with failure to find common ground, and by Tillman in a speech in support of Bailey, and in presenting a further statement from former Senator Chandler.

Mr. Bailey declared with dramatic emphasis that the person who furnished the correspondent with the material for his story was "an unqualified, deliberate and malicious liar, whoever he may be, and however high the office he may hold." Bailey did not specifically charge that the story was inspired by the president, but it is probable that no public man has ever come so close to calling a President of the United States liar as the Texan did in his statement. Senator Tillman emphatically denied hat he had ever "suspected" Bailey and had read a statement from Mr. Chandler which was practically the same as that heretofore given out by the South Carolinian. At first only a part of the Chicago Tribune article-that relating directly to the Texas senatorwas read.

Mr. Bailey said that he had taken no part in the discussion of the question f veracity between the president and Chandler. He had not even anything to say about the charge of bad faith nade by the senator from South Caroina because he knew nothing about either. He had not conferred either with the president or with Chandler He understood that the correspondent who wrote the article was one who was close to the White House and who spoke with some authority regarding occurrences there. He did not know his, however, and therefore did not harge it to be true.

"But, Mr. President," said the Texn, while the senate and the galleries istened breathlessly, "I denounce these statements concerning me as unqualified, deliberate and malicious lies, I denounce the correspondent who wrote that article as an unqualified. leliberate and malicious llar, and I de ounce as an unqualified, deliberate and nalicious liar the man who furnished ne information to that correspondent, hoever he may be and however high he office he may hold."

Mr. Tillman immediately rose and asked consent to speak as a matter of name in that article," said he, "impels me to say something. I am sorry the senator from Texas did not have the whole of it read."

Senator Bailey said he did not feel ustified in having anything read but that portion which related directly to him, whereupon Tillman asked that the dispatch be read in its entirely. This was done, and after the reading concluded Tillman again took the floor and

"The man who wrote the dispatch was evidently a muck rake. It is not for me to say into whose house the handle of that rake goes, or whose hands hold t. In a hasty examination of that disoatch I have counted eight positive alsehoods about myself and my position. I have never had the slightest doubt of the absolute good faith of the senator from Texas. The claquers and hirelings of the Republican machine are sending out such stories as this to muddy the water and cloud the situation and are indicative of the desperate straits in which some people find themselves."

When Tillman concluded, Bailey again took the floor and said that his attention had been called to another article, printed in the New York Tribune. He said it was of the same character as that printed by the Chicago Tribune and that evidently they had been timed to bring them both to Washington at the same time. Pointing to the press gallery, he said:

"I intend to put in the record upon the statement of more than one reputable newspaper correspondent in that gallery, and as a rule they are as honorable as senators on this floor. On their authority I state that the two chief cuckoos of this administration are the correspondents of the New York Tribune and the Chicago Tribune

"And therefore it seems to me conclusive that this slander proceeds from the White House. I hope for the honor of my country that it does not proceed from the president himself.

MURDER SUSPECT

Man Held In Maine For the Killing of Mabel Page

WAS AT VICTIM'S HOUSE

He Called There For a Glass of Water on Day of Murder, According to Story Furnished Authorities by a Woman

Bingham, Me., May 17 .- Jerry Hayes, sald to be otherwise known as J. Moulton, a laborer, was arrested near this town on a warrant charging him with the murder of Mabel Page at Weston, Mass., March 31, 1904, and with being a fugitive from justice. Charles L. Tucker is awaiting electrocution next month for the Page murder. The warrant was issued in Skowhegan last Mon day by Judge Bacheller of the munici pal court upon the application of a reporter employed by a Boston evening

The arrest is based upon alleged remarks made by Hayes to Mrs. Margaret F. Brown of Bingham, at whose home Hayes was formerly a boarder more than two months ago. According to Mrs. Brown, Hayes remarked one day that Tucker had "got the chair," and that it was "a good thing for me that he has." Mrs. Brown said that when she asked the man what he menat he replied that he was at the Page house on the day of the murder, just before the crime was discovered, that he was recovering from a spree and was on the way across the country to obtain work when he stopped at the Page house for a glass of water.

The story came to the ears of Daniel Stuart, a lawyer of this town, and others two months ago. Stuart says he gave it little attention at first, but later he decided to inform Tucker's lawyers, Vahey, Innes & Mansfield of Boston, of the matter. Not knowing the address of the attorneys, Stuart wrote to a Boston newspaper and afterwards was in communication with Tucker's attorneys. Mrs. Brown, it develops, communicated with Mrs. Albert L Tucker, the mother of the condemned

Last Friday night a Boston reporter arrived here. Saturday he went to Skowhegan. On Monday Lawyer Stuart received a letter from the Boston attorneys stating that they had begun an investigation. The Boston reporter on Sunday and a warrant was drawn up, based on the alleged remarks made by Hayes to Mrs. Brown. On Monday the lawyers and reporter laid the evithe lawyers and reporter laid the evidence before Judge Bacheller, and he signed the warrant.

In the meantime Deputy Sheriff Pierce of this place saw Hayes at Austin Junction, about half a mile from Bingham, and arrested the man. When taken into custody Hayes said: "I have taken into custody Hayes said: "I have He was taken to the local lockup and will be removed to Skowhegan for arwill be removed to Skowhegan for ar-

Boston, May 17.—Deputy Chief Neal of the state police, when asked for an opinion on the developments in Maine, said he refused to regard the arrest at Bingham seriously. Tucker's lawyers and a Boston newspaper have been for weeks circulating petitions in favor of the commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment. These petitions will be presented to Governor Guild within a few days.

Verdict for the Defendant Sustained

Many thought that the Sheppard Bryant case had been decided some time go, but the plaintiffs took it to the Supreme court, and now the full bench ustains the verdict for the defendant. The court does not treat the question of falsity or truth in the statement of the mayor, decision it is immaterial.

This was the case where J. F. Sheppard & Sons, coal dealers, brought a suit for $50,000 for alleged slander against Charles M. Bryant, then Mayor of Quincy, because of statements made before a committee of the Legislature which was investigating the high prices

Soldiers Foil Attempt of Would-Be Looters at San Francisco

Six men from company G were detailed to guard the treasury, three men being located on either side of the place. At 11:30 o'clock at night the men stationed on the Commercial street side of the sub-treasury say they noticed a man attempting to reach the entrance to the building. He was ordered to halt, but instead started to run, whereupon a guard fired at him. The bullet did not take effect and two of the guards gave chase, leaving one companion behind. Almost immediately the soldiers on the Clay street side began firing and the one guard on Commercial street says he saw four men run to the windows of the upper story of the treasury building.

Guard Hammon was on Commercial street and he says he immediately opened fire and the forms in the window replied with shots from their revolvers. Fully 30 shots were exchanged in the fray, some of the bullets striking the wall of the building on the north side of Commercial street. The men were later seen to come down the stairs, but were not again heard of.

Attracted by the noise of the battle Detective Sergeant Taylor headed a detail of police and began a search for the vould-be looters. He was aided by the National Guard. The soldiers and po ce carried lanterns and stopped ever erson whom they met in the district but all were able to give a satisfactory account of themselves.

MOTIVES NOT IMPUGNED

> Says President Showed Memoranda to a Senator and a Representative--Again Attacks a Chicago Correspondent

Washington, May 18 .- Senator Bailey took the floor yesterday in the senate to make a further explanation of his connection with the efforts to secure an inderstanding between the president and the Democratic senators on the railroad rate bill, basing his statement on an article in the Chicago Tribune and the New York Tribune, charging im with bad faith in that connection and giving ex-Senator Chandler as auhority for that statement.

He had read a series of letters and emoranda, beginning with a request rom himself to Chandler for a copy of iny statement that he might have nade that justified this statement. This was followed by the reading of a letter rom Chandler declaring he had not given the president any assurance as to Bailey's hostility to the rate bill. Then ollowed the memorandum to Secre ary Loeb and that was accompanied y an extract from Chandler's diary.

Proceeding with his remarks, Bailey said that the New York Tribune of Thursday had put the matter some what differently from Wednesday's presentation, "thus modifying the lie." He quoted Thursday's article in which it was stated that copies of Chandler's etter to the president had been in circulation among Democratic senators. To this statement Bailey gave special attention, saying that he had made inquiry sufficient to assure him that not one of the Democratic senators had seen the document, much less circulated Tenement of 6 rooms and one of 9 rooms on Madison "I did not yesterday know that any senator on the Republican side had seen it, but I am enabled to say now that on yesterday the president showed it to one of them and also to a member of the house, and if this statement is denied, I an call names.'

He then declared that if Chandler and never spoken another word, there vas not a syllable in his memorandun oncerning himself to justify the state nent that he (Chandler) had impugned ils (Bailey's) good faith. He called at ention to the fact that upon the presilent's authority Chandler's veracity had been challenged in the senate by Lodge and asked: "In view of that fact loes it lie in the mouth of these people to assail me with a statement like that is an old saying and in most cases true. We can mend your furniture, take up, repair, lay-carpets, mattings, rugs, etc., make over mattresses, repair fly screens; in fact, we are equipped to do all kinds of renovating on housekeeping goods that at this time of the year good housewives want done in a hurry from a man whom they have denounced as a false witness?" Continuing, he

"The president did not consider this memorandum an impeachment of my good faith. The proof of that is that with the memorandum before him, within three days, he asked me to confer with his attorney general on this vital question.

"It is inconceivable that the president, with a suspicion of new integrity in his mind, would permit his attorney general to transmit to me an amendment intended to be incorporated in this great measure. I have no words to express my opinion of those who would treat with those whom they suspect of treachery, and only traitors would do Senator Bailey then read briefly from the reply of the Chicago Tribune's correspondent to his speech of denunciation made on Wednesday and, continuing, said: "My statement does not seem to have disturbed the correspondent of that paper, because he says he was overlooked in my attack on the president. Perhaps he regards it as beng overlooked to be called an unqual ed. malicious llar. He says he has not the Chandler memoranda before him, but he attempts to quote from it. Now, where did he see it? I did not show it to him. Ex-Senator Chandler did not show it to him. It is addressed to Mr. Loeb, the president's secretary. I will leave it to the country and to the senate to say who furnished him his information about it. "Mr. President, I know what are the fortunes of war. Those who are placed foremost in battle must bear its brunt and I am willing to accept mine. means killing, and I am willing to stand ny chance if it is to be a civilized war. He said that no man ever before had imputed to him a lack of candor, no man had ever charged him with double dealings and could not do so now and escape his denunciation. "Across the brow of such a man," he said, he would put "the brand of liar, so that all men may know him and shun him.'

TRIP TO A CORONATION

Chicagoans Will Attend Regal Ceremony In Norway.

GAY FESTIVITIES AT TRONDHJEM.

Well Known Norwegian-Americans Will Bear a Hymn of Greeting to the New King and Queen-Resolutions, Elegantly Engrossed, to Be

Six Chicagoans will visit the ancient cathedral of Trondhjem, in Norway, June 22 to see crowned King Haakon VII., the first king of independent Norway for several centuries, says the Chicago News. Five of them will be members of a deputation selected to represent the Norwegian National league of Chicago. The sixth will be Frederick H. Gade, the Norwegian consul in Chicago, who has received his leave of absence permitting him to attend the ceremonies in his official capacity. They bear to the king and queen a hymn of greeting from Norway's "children who are separated from the mother's breast by the great western sea." An effort will be made to have it sung in the cathedral during the coronation festivities.

The Chicago party will carry an elegantly engrossed and bound copy of resolutions expressing the joy of Norwegians in America over the dissolu tion of the union with Sweden and their hearty congratulations for the king, the queen, the crown prince and the entire people.

Aside from Mr. Gade the members of the deputation are Paul O. Stensland, chairman; Dr. Niles T. Quales, vice chairman; Dr. Anders Doe, secretary; Olaf E. Ray and Adolph Opsted. It will be the duty of the chairman to present the resolutions to Premier Mickelsen.

Definite plans for the trip to the mother country and the programme while there have not yet been made The main body of the deputation will leave Chicago on May 22 and sail from New York on the Hellig Olav on May 24, arriving on June 4 in Christiania. Mr. Stensland will not sail from New York until June 2, and the consul will leave Chicago on June 7.

The six men will meet in Christiania and proceed together to Trondhjem, pausing on the way to pay their respects to Bjornstjerne Bjornson, the poet and dramatist, at his country seat, Aulestad, in Gudbrandsdalen, They will also visit Gerhart Gade, Consul Gade's father, at Frogner, his estate near Christiania.

The Chicagoans will present Bjornson with a large silk American flag lettered in gold. During the festivities following the coronation Mr. Stensland will give a banquet to the members of the Norwegian ministry and the municipal officials in the Grand hotel. gramme is not arranged.

Norwegian-Americans are proud of the hymn which they are preparing to fight this desire, most of them, sucgive to the king. It was composed by for the occasion and is stately in measure. The words have not yet been selected. A contest is being held, and of Grafton and Knight Manufacturing ed States have contributed verse to go appointed to select the poem that will give the setting. The members are Consul Gade, chairman; Dr. Thomas Warloe, John Benson, Emil Biorn, Dr. Anders Doe. Professor Julius Olsen of the University of Wisconsin, Abraham Abrahamsen, president of the Norwegian National league of Chicago, and Nicolay Grevstad, editor of Scandina-When this is finally arranged designs for a cover, title page and heavy marginal decorations will be prepared by Emil Biorn, the artist, assisted by Henry Tolzien and Ben Blessun. The whole will then be engraved on steel and a print made on vellum. It will be bound in leather and provided with a handsome leather case. In this shape it will be presented at court.

Members of the deputation say words cannot describe the enthusiasm in the minds of Norwegian people all over the globe at the revival of the old Norwegian glory after a number of centuries.

For three centuries after 872, when Harold Haarfarger was made king, the Norse rulers were crowned in the open air or in rude temples. Then the great cathedral was built. Several times it was set on fire, but never totally destroyed, and the major part of it as it stands today has withstood the ravages of 800 years. The newest part, as restored from time to time, is 200 years old. During the important periods of Norway's history Trondhjem was the seat of the government. While many of the kings of Scandinavia during the old union were crowned there, some of them were not. It is now the plan to revive all the old glory of the place with a burst of the banquet hall of Olaf the Great, described in the sagas. Variety in the gorgeous costuming of the court will be ers next the thrones of Europe who will represent their governments at the coronation.

Music will play a prominent part in Norway's composers are working on the coronation cantata. Recent advices from the Norwegian capital say that the aged Lammers, the greatest sing a solo in that production.

VIRGINS' GARLANDS.

Memorials In an English Church to Girls True to First Love.

There are seven "virgins' garlands" still in existence in Minsterley church, Salop, the first of them bearing the date 1554 and the last 1751.

They consist of silk ribbons and paper, ball shaped, and are covered with rosettes, the inside center of the cane or wire frame supporting a pair and are sacred to the memory of girls who while betrothed in their youth lost their intended husbands by death, yet remained true to their first loves. Each maiden designed her own garland, and at her death this simple emblem was borne before her by the village lasses, the white gloves being afterward added. After the obsequies these garlands were suspended in the village church on a rod bearing at its extremity a heart in the shape of an escutcheon, upon which the initials and date were inscribed. These were originally fixed above the maiden's new. Some of the earliest and forgotten garlands were composed of real flowscribed were substituted.

BLUE BADGE OF HONOR.

President Rossevelt's Tribute to the Man In Uniform

A notable tribute to the American soldier was paid by President Roose velt in a letter to Secretary Taft in dorsing the action of a court martia which reduced Lieutenant Roy I. At the latter's request or direction the sergeant moved to another part of the house. The court martial

The president says in his letter, which s dated Feb. 5, 1906:

"In my judgment Lieutenant Taylor committed one of the most serious faults which any officer can commit I am glad that he was reduced twelve files. It is a pleasure to record the fact that his offense was altogether exceptional in the body to which he belongs. I know of no other officer who has ever been guilty of similar miscon "There is no body of men in this country of similar size which merits so well of the country as the body of of ficers and enlisted men in the army and navy of the United States. Not only should the country as a whole jealously guard the interests of these men and regard their honor as being identified to a peculiar degree and in a peculiar sense with its own, but the members of the body should them selves feel the same jealous eagerness to uphold the honor and standing of all connected with it. Above all, this should be the object of the officers as regards the enlisted men. "The more civilized a nation is, the more honestly desirous it is of securing peace, the greater should be the care with which it fosters and encour ages the preservation of the military virtues among its citizens, and in no way can this be better achieved than by resolute effort to secure proper recarmy and navy. The uniform of the enlisted man is a badge of honor. It entitles him to peculiar consideration. It shows that in the great majority of cases he has learned those habits of self command, of self restraint, of obedience and of fearlessness in the face of danger which put him above most of his fellows who have not possesse similar privileges. To strive to discriminate against him in any way is literally an infamy, for it is in reality one of the most serious offenses which can be committed against the stability

Considerable interest centered in the cantata, "King Rene's Daughter," by the Choral society, especially among club members who have kept in touch with the rehearsals and work of the class the past winter. Besides the chorus of forty voices the special soloists were: Miss Edna Goullaud, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. Frank S. Moore, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Miss Alice G. Coe and Mrs. N. G. Nickerson.

The overture on the piano by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Sampson was brilliant, and gave pleasant anticipation of what was to follow.

The rehearsals and the cantata were ander the direction of Mrs. Jennie B. Worster of Weymouth, a club member who has most generously given her services to the choral class. HEARST, THE PARADOX

Character Sketch of a Forceful Type In American Public Life

Multimillionaire at Forty-three, Who Must Be Reckoned With-Owner and Creator of Nine Periodicals, Which Are His World. Over Six Feet Tall, of Athletic Build, Patriotic and Benevolent, He Is an Advocate of Sterling Americanism

HAT will Hearst do? That is Los Angeles Examiner. The mere list question with the politicians. him, however they may denounce him, he is a factor in the equation that cannot be ignored. Abuse will not eliminate him, old political methods will not overcome him. He is an entity, a force, Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the and whether he is looked upon as a promise or a portent he must be reckwhich he is not charted. Though he may be a mystery, he is not a myth.

In the study of a man, as in the study of a science, the important element is the fact. Theories, preconceived notions, assertions, prejudices, affect nothing except the one who holds or makes them. Calling names establishes noth ing but the vituperative capacity of him who invents the names. The question still remains, What are the facts? Clear out the verbal rubbish and get at the truth of the thing.

Lauded and Abused

Not what his friends say or what his is his will that rules, his mind that enemies say, but what the record says. He has been called every uncomplimentary name in the dictionary and nearly a quarter of a century he has several that are not in the dictionary.

becoming more and more a looks formidable; the immense circulation of the papers makes it more for-Whatever they may think of midable. They go literally to millions. Nor does the Hearst influence stop even there. Many more big papers publish his syndicated matter. Now, it is all very well to cry "yellow journalism" at these papers. They are yellow, but the cry does little or no good. They are here, and they show an intention of staying. They are being patterned all over the earth. For better or worse, they have started a new style of journalism. People want them, want them bad, possibly want them because they are bad. To stand off and call these papers names has about as much effect as to cry "Shoo!"

Lives In His Papers.

The next apparent thing is that these papers are of Hearst, by Hearst and for Hearst. He makes them and they in turn make him. The old idea that his employees do his thinking has passed out. He does his own thinking, writes his own editorials, dictates his own What are the facts as to Hearst? policies, makes up his own forms. It shapes, his spirit that permeates. He is yellow journalism incarnate. For been building it. His whole life has pers whose business he has injured or from special interests that he has opposed, but not all. Respectable, cultured and good people have been shocked by his journalism and political methods. On the other hand, he has been lauded, fulsomely lauded, mostly in his own papers, it is true, but not alone there. Much of the praise has come from working people and from those who hold humanitarian ideas. Is it possible to brush aside this maze of contradictions and find the actual Hearst? The great public is disinterested and desires to form a just estimate. Any man is entitled to a square deal, to fair treatment and to no more than that. Eliminate self interest, pass up the special pleaders, cut out prejudice, and we are in a position to deal with realities. Let us get rid of the idea that the man wears either halo or horns. What is he in himself? What does he stand for?

The fact that is most apparent, that sticks out farthest into public consciousness, is that he has wealth. His father was a California bonanza king and as a consequence became United States senator. The son is a multimillionaire, but that does not explain Hearst. Hundreds of men have as much money who have scarcely been heard of, or only heard of because of their dollars. This man is rich, but he is something more.

The next most apparent thing about Hearst is that he has a string of publications stretching across the continent. That in itself is a big thing, but the character of the publications makes it a bigger thing. They are not the sort of papers that can be ignored. They scream of their existence too volubly and persistently. They vociferate from the housetop. There is no getting away from them. There are nine of these periodicals that Hearst entirely owns and controls. eight daily papers and one monthly magazine-the Boston American, the New York American, the New York Orders left at Nickerson's Candy Kitchen, in Evening Journal, Das Morgen Journal, Music Hall Block; or at residence, 10 Foster the Cosmopolitan Magazine, the Chicago Examiner, the Chicago American, in liberal quantities, but many other the San Francisco Examiner and the been wrapped up in it. It expresses him, his aspirations, his purposes, his being. He lives in his papers. They are his creation. They are his world His name is not at the heads of their columns and sprinkled all through their pages for nothing. It belongs there. They are his, not only because he owns them, but because he evolved them. Make no mistake about that. If any one says that somebody else makes Hearst's papers, set that man down as not knowing what he is talking about. From the time that Hearst took hold of the San Francisco Examiner to this day, employees have come and gone, but the policy and character these journals have continued. Every employee on them might step down and out and still they would be unchanged. Hearst is their architect and master. The fact is now generally admitted. One other thing: They will never smite the hand that made them. They will never prove disloyal to their king. They will always boom W. R .pardon me-William Randolph Hearst. through every department, sound them on the news pages, in the editorials, tenants, and they do the rest. on the woman's page, on the sporting is no ingratitude in these papers. the supereminence of Hearst,

Forever singing, as they shine The hand that made us is divine Oh, shade of Addison, forgive that sacrilege; but the temptation was too

Advocate of Americanism.

Another thing is apparent: Hearst believes in certain principles. He has been charged with being a hypocrite, but in all candor there is little evidence to support the charge. To be a hypocrite one must be insincere, but there is no shadow of turning in Hearst in the advocacy of the things he stands True, he inveighs against the race track in his editorial columns, while publishing racing news and tips papers pursue a similar policy and do it on the theory that the public wants these things, and a paper must print the news. If the charge of hypocrisy ean be made against a paper for publishing the doings of the turf and the prize ring, when its editorial policy is opposed to these things, then a large portion of the press is involved. Better go light in that direction. There are too many toes that might be trampled. The other Hearst policies are well known. He hammers the trusts and the predatory rich not only in his papers, but in the courts; he believes in municipal ownership of light, water and transportation; he believes in national ownership of railroads and telegraphs; he advocates the rights of labor with the big "L;" he is against the bosses and grafters; he stands for temperance; he is an advocate of Americanism; he is an ardent supporter of the public schools; he is an advocate of old fashioned Democracy and of new fashioned Democracy also; he upholds not only the rights of the individual, but believes in bringing out the inherent powers of the individual, going almost to the ground of what is called the new thought, and, over and above everything else, he believes in Hearst. Now, everybody advocates most of these things and many advocate all of them, even including the last. They may not scream their convictions in as large type as that employed in the Hearst papers; they may not red ink their political creed, but they stand for it just as firmly even if more quietly. Some people think they can support principles without using a fire alarm, a bass drum and a journalistic tin pan.

Another thing that Mr. Hearst has demonstrated is that he can speak. His mayoralty campaign showed that. True, he is no orator as Brutus-or Bryan-is, but he can make himself understood. In the beginning of his fight he read his remarks, but toward the end he did not, and his last speeches were his best.

A Winner of Votes.

Still one other thing he has made clear-he is a vote getter. In his two races for congress he ran away from everything. As for the mayoralty, nine out of ten New Yorkers believe he was elected. Anyway he came so near to it that the other fellow was out of breath and purple in the face. To make that sort of a record with no political organization behind him is quite a feat.

These things at best, however, are only the adjuncts, the outward evidences, of Hearst. What is he in him-self? As to his private life, many yellow things have been whispered. Some of them have been said out loud. Since his marriage, though, this sort of talk has died down. At present he appears a model husband and father, takes great delight in his home and is especially proud of his little son, George Randolph Hearst. As for the pastwell, there are other and more pleasant subjects to talk about. Why not cut that out?

In person Mr. Hearst is above six feet in height, of athletic build, clean looking, well dressed and gentlemanly. In fact, he is the very antithesis of his papers-smiling, serene, quiet and even shy. His face has a certain mild cast that is as far from red ink and scare heads as one can imagine. Of his bashfulness there is not the slightest question. Every one who ever met him has remarked it. Sometimes it even gives him a certain vapid smile that led to his being called a "Willie boy." To HERBERT A. HAYDEN trangers he hardly ever ventures an opinion, or, if he does, gives it in a sort of tentative, please-excuse-me manner, as though he were offering apology for doing anything so rash. Yet this shrinking daisy of a man is the one who persistently shouts of his virtues through eight newspapers and used them and his money to boom himself for president of the United States. Some people have called him "Hearst the enigma," but to me it seems a better appellation would be "Hearst the paradox."

Yet the impression of mildness is not all that is conveyed by the Hearst fea-October 1st, 1890, and recorded with said Nortures. Cuban Liberals Call Upon People to Disobey New Laws

Havana, May 19 .- On the eve of Independence day, May 20, which also will be the occasion of President Palma's inauguration, the Liberal party has issued a manifesto charging that alf the members of congress who did not hold over were elected by coercion, fraud and force, after the Liberal party, which comprised a majority of the citizens of Cuba, had been compelled to abandon the campaign, and that the president and vice president, who will be inaugurated tomorrow were not elected by the votes of the

The manifesto declares that, therefore, all laws or decrees promulgated after that date will not be binding upon honest citizens who know their rights. If they obey it will be from prudence only, which will constitute an act of humiliation. The manifesto further says that patriotism and pride justify refusal to obey.

The document also states that the Liberal party will not dissolve, but will make a campaign for the restoration of constitutional rights, and that, not deterred by obstacles and without fear of persecution, the party will collect forces and overcome all which interferes with the march of the republic to conditions of strict compliance with the constitution.

Information received at Marinette is that the village of Shaffer, in Dickinson county, was wiped out. No word has been received as to the loss of life there, if any has occurred. Shaffer is a lumber town owned by the Cleveland Cliff company. The village consisted of a big mill and a couple of hotels, with warehouses and headquarters for the lumber camps.

The village of Saunders, in Iron county, a lumber town, directly north of Florence, has also been swept by the flames. Here, as at Shaffer, many may have met death. The town consists of a few residences, four saloons, a couple of hotels and a big sawmill.

The reports of loss of life by the forest fires are vague and may prove ungrounded. Persistent efforts were made by the Detroit newspapers to get into telegraphic communication with Escanaba, but without success, the telegraph lines having evidently been badly crippled by the fires. The Detroit News, however, received several brief dispatches from Menominee and Marquette, via Milwaukee and Chicago. According to the dispatches, the fires have been burning northward along the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, which runs due north from Menominee. The village of Talbot, 28 miles north of Menominee, it is thought, will be totally destroyed. Quinnesec, a village from Menominee, is burning. Minnie took the hat off and gave it to Mary, who suddenly noticed two very big pin holes in the crown. If in three Sundays it was going to show signs of wear Minnie ought to be more careful. It belonged to her as much as to Minnie, and Minnie was very careless, and the way Minnie wore her hair no hat could be expected to stay on unless it was fairly skewered. Really she must speak to Minnie, but of course not before Mr. Verguson. So she brushed the hat tenberly, covered it with tissue paper and

The next Sunday Mary remained at home, and Minnie wore the hat. Mr. Ferguson came home with her. Late in the afternoon Ormond came to ask if Mary were indisposed. He had not seen her at church.

No; Mary was quite well, but women one thing while being entirely the other. He remained to tea. During the afternoon mention was made of Memorial day, which would be the following week. Said Ferguson to Minin the little sitting room. "You will wear that pretty hat with the roses on, I hope. It is the prettiest hat I ever saw, and you become it." Mary put her hand to her throat, suddenly choked by the awful thought. To whom would fall the partnership hat for the day? And as soon as the two girls were alone Mary said to Min nie, whose face shone with her happi

"What are we going to do?"
"About the hat? Why, it is my turn next Sunday, so instead of Sunday I'll wear it then," replied Minnie coolly. "Minnie," gasped Mary, "let me wear it and I'll give you my new gloves."

"No, not for twenty pairs," replied Minnie decidedly.

Mrs. Pierce was called. Mary was desperate. Somehow this partnership began to assume unexpected proportions, and she even thought that perhaps it was against the law-such a deception. What if she were to be dragged into court and Ormond obliged to hear the awful truth! The hat had lost its luster, yet he thought it pretty, and she knew it was becoming. Minnie might wear it.

But Mrs. Pierce believed in the ultimate justice of heads and tails, and Mary won. But when she saw Minnie turn white and sway as if about to faint she said:

"Minnie, I won't wear it. You may." But Minnie was genero must wear it. Then neither mentioned it until the eventful day. Twice Minnie tried it on, surreptitiously, with a new arrangement of her hair, sighed and put away again. Mary said nothing, but felt much like crying all these days. She could not give up her chance of happiness which might depend upon the allurement of this hat, and yet the settled despair of Minnie's set face hurt. Minnie had renounced it and was suffering the pain attendant

Cliff dwellings in Manitou.

Quincy made four of their eight hits be placed is situated back of the Hiawatha gardens. It is owned by James James and is one of the most picturesque spots in the vicinity of Manitou.

The plan of the promoters is to secure cliff dwellings from southwestern Utah, near the state line, and bring them to Manitou and rebuild them in the canyon which they are prepared to buy. These relics will not be imitations. They will not be reproductions, but the rude and prehistoric buildings themselves. The towers, block houses, pottery relics, ladders, places of worship and everything that remains of a cliff dwellers' village will be brought to Manitou. They will be transported on freight cars stone by stone. Each stone will be numbered, and a corresponding diagram will be kept which will enable the builders to erect the structures just as they now stand in the Utah canyon. They will not be restored. It is the idea of the promoters to have ruins, actual ruins, in Manitou.

These cliff dwellings are outside of the Indian reservation on private property and are not under the control of the United States government. For this reason no difficulty will be experienced in securing the ruins.

The canyon in which the ruins are to be placed bears a close resemblance to the one in Utah in which the ruins 0-1 are located. The rock is of the same most identical and the entire canyon is perfectly adapted for the purpose.

Mr. Stead proposes that England shall devote to the entertainment fund annually 1 per cent of the total outlays for the naval and military armaments, averaging about £60,000 ($300,-

NEW JOURNALISTIC ERA

C. W. Knapp Says It Will Come In Ten Years.

PREDICTS MORE CAREFULNESS.

Publisher of St. Louis Paper Believes Future Newspapers Will Be Accurate In Presenting Facts and More Precise In Language-Expects Further General Use of Half News and Half Editorial Articles.

Remarking upon the discussions of newspaper making in the New York Herald apropos of the recrudescence of Albert Pulitzer, who intends to start a newspaper on new lines next fall, dismissing imitation sensations with a paragraph, Charles W. Knapp, publisher of the St. Louis Republic, who was recently interviewed at Bretton Hall by a New York Herald reporter, indicated that he expected journalism would undergo several changes in the next ten years, one of which would be a more general use of half news, half editorial articles, such as the magazines have found successful.

He said relative to Mr. Pulitzer: "He finds two indictments-that the New York papers are all dull, and, to the blind man who has them read to him, all alike.

"Criticism of newspapers is always easy. No newspaper manager or editor is without ability to pick flaws in American journalism. It is full of flaws. These are due, I should say, to the demands of the readers. They do not represent necessarily what the editors want."

"How do you determine that readers demand this and that?"

"By experimentation. If you don't meet a favorable response to certain efforts you have made to please readers you drop those efforts and exert yourself along different lines.

"Nobody doubts that the typical newspaper of ten years from now will be radically different from what it is today. In every large city newspapers have been leading the reader, to a greater or less extent, a sort of yellow debauch. From this there is quite clearly apparent a revolt on the part

"You think people are finding the sensational press a bore?"

"I will not undertake to forecast the coming journalism in this country except to express my confident belief that two changes are coming: First, that the newspaper of the future will be accurate in the presentation of facts and more precise in the language employed to set forth the facts; second, that neither the Sunday nor the week day newspaper will grow any smaller. If they change at all, they will contain more pages instead of fewer.

"There is greater need today for a better written newspaper than hitherto, because the constituency upon which a newspaper must rely for support includes nowadays a relatively larger number of persons who are critical and who are judges of literary style. They are affronted by the slovenly English, by the lack of form, in which American newspapers too often give them the occurrences of the day. A better literary style will retard in some measure the natural tendency toward larger instead of smaller newspapers. "Public attention increasingly centers upon the accuracy of newspapers by reason of the extreme indifference to accuracy in the so called 'yellows.' There was an example recently-the dispatch denying the truth of the report printed widely that the recent earthquake had produced a transformation in Yellowstone park. I suppose some reporter thought that would make a 'good story,' so wrote it out of

"Perhaps he was asked to write it by the editor or publisher?" "Oh, I know the pressure that is brought upon the writers. I've had to do with both ends. It's hard to come in and say 'there's nothing in it.' But there will be more carefulness by and by-more carefulness as to matter and as to manner. It will be required that the fact shall be as it is, and that it shall be told tersely, clearly, in a way to satisfy an intelligent reader.

"What do you think of the complaint that 'the great editors have all gone?' ' "Never again, probably, will the editorial come to the power it possessed forty years ago. The editors of that period I am sure could not have been news values, recognition of what is of importance, of what will shake the thoughts and ideas of the people—these are what go to establish public. are what go to establish public sentiment nowadays more than written editorials. One of the evidences can be pointed out in the popular development of the magazines. They have taken up news work which carries instruction of the sort that used to be conveyed by the editorial. The 'muck raker,' which the president recently criticised, is merely combining the editorial with the news article. "I do not want to be understood as saying that the field of the editorial has been closed up completely. It still assists, and will continue to assist, the work done in the news columns, and it is frequently still effective in awakening public attention to the necessity for action where a mere news presentation might fail. "In the future development of newspapers there will undoubtedly be a striking increase in what is called 'personal journalism'-that is, the sort rep-These will have force because of the writer's public reputation. Newspapers of the better class will thereby year by year successfully invade the magazine field."

DEBATED FOR 70 DAYS

Allison Amendment Amended at the Last Moment by Striking the Words "In Its Judgment" From the Compromise

Washington, May 19.—After 70 days of almost continuous deliberation the senate yesterday, at 4:55 p. m., passed the railroad rate bill by the practically unanimous vote of 71 to 3. The three negative votes were cast by Senator Foraker (Rep.) and Senators Morgan and Pettus (Dem). There was a somewhat larger attendance of senators than usual, but the attendance in the galleries was by no means abnormal and there was no manifestation of any kind when the result was announced. There was, however, an almost general sigh of relief among senators.

The bill has received more attention from the senate and from the country at large than any measure that has been before congress since the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act in 1893. It was reported to the senate on Feb. 26 and was made the unfinished business on March 12. From March 12 to May 4 the bill was under general discussion without limitation on the duration of speeches, 58 of which were delivered. Many of these were prepared with great care and two of them consumed more than a day's time in delivery. Senator Lafollette spoke for three days and Senator Daniel for two days. Senators Bailey, Foraker, Lodge, Rayner, Dolliver and others each spoke for one entire day.

For 12 days the bill has been under consideration under a rule limiting speeches to 15 minutes each. The debate has at all times been earnest and animated but for the most part devoid of personality as between senators, the past few days, however, having called out some caustic criticisms of the president and of some newspaper correspondents by Senator Bailey.

In addition to passing the bill the proceedings yesterday consisted in concluding the consideration of the amendments as such and the delivery of a number of speeches on the bill. The only amendment adopted was the one offered on Thursday by Senator Teller eliminating the words "in its judgment" from the power given to the interstate commerce commission to fix

In the closing hours of the debate the senate again floundered in the waters of constitutional arguments. The apparently harmless words, "in its judgment," which appear in the Allison amendment, precipitated a discussion in the senate Thursday afternoon, and as a result of the objections raised to lowed the general to the hospital. There these words, on the ground that they endangered the constitutionality of the entire bill, many senators determined to vote for Teller's amendment striking them from the bill. Further, authority is given the commission to enforce its orders and they are to go into effect within 30 days and continue in force for two years, unless suspended, modified or set aside by the commission or by a court of competent jurisdiction. WADE HAMPTON'S HORSE.

The Story of Beauregard, Who Died at Gettysburg.

General Wade Hampton, who succeeded Stuart in command of the Confederate cavalry of the Army of Northern Virginia, had so many horses wounded and killed under him that it was hard to keep account of them.

More than any other officer in the service of the south, he had large reserves of horseflesh to draw from and of the very best blood in the country. His father was not only a very large breeder of thoroughbreds, but imported numerous noted horses from England, the home of the modern thoroughbred. The Silent Grant. Brigadier General Fred Dent Grant long ago the general was tendered a banquet, and the toastmaster introduced him as "the son of the father, in likeness, characteristics, stature and several other ways."

General Grant says he talked along for a few minutes, and everybody yawned and seemed to be heartily sick of the speech. When he sat down the toastmaster cleared up the smoke, so the general says, by the following neat little speech:

"You see, gentlemen, General Grant is very much like his father. He can't talk a little bit."-Washington Post.

A lieutenant was promenading in full uniform one day and approached a volunteer sentry, who challenged him with: "Halt. Who goes there?" The lieutenant, with contempt in every line of his face, expressed his ire with an indignant "Ass!" The sentry's reply came apt and quick, "Advance, Ass,

Some Individual Cities

The town of Adams shows a very material increase in 1905 over 1900 in the value of the product of her manufactures. Five years ago it was $3,894,071, while in 1905 it was $5,492,001. Arlington also shows great expansion. The product of her manufactures in 1900 was $256,411, and in 1905 it was $493,208. The city of Chelsea also shows a very sharp increase. In 1900 the product of her manufactures aggregated $9,518,700, while in 1905 it was $13.879.159. Chicopee jumps from $5. 388,930 in 1900 to $7,715,653 in 1905. Clinton shows an increase in the product of her manufactures of something like $415,000 in 1905 over 1900. The figures for Everett in 1900 were $4.437. 180, while in 1905 they were $6,135,650. Fitchburg shows an increase of over $380,000.

Gloucester increased the value of her products over $600,000, while Haverhill, a shoe city, increased about $1,047, 000. Hyde Park increased from $4, 383,959 in 1900 to $6,739,307 in 1905. Another town which showed a tremendous increase in the products of her manufactures is Leominster, which leaped from $5,396,528 in 1900 to $7,-501,720 in 1905. Malden jumped from 02,462 in 1900 to $11,235,63 Marlboro does almost as well. In 1900 give an account of himself. the value of her products amounted to $4,498,385 and in 1905 to $7,468,849.

Milford has also shown a growth from $2,552,150 to $3,390,504. Natick figures in 1900 were $2,722,225 and in 1905 they were $3,453,094. Peabody's Increase is from $6,943,736 in 1900 to $10,236,669 in 1905. Newton gained almost half a million, while Pittsfield increased the value of her output nearly

Plymouth more than doubled her output in five years. In 1900 the value of her products was $5,530,015 and in 1905 t was $11,115,713. Quincy leaped from $3,011,950 to $8,982,446. Salem increased the same time increased $2,100,436. Wakefield increased from $2,647,130 to $4,807,728. Westfield increased from $4,440,797 to $5,818,130; and Waltham increased from $5.889.792 to $7,149,697. Woburn increased $652,000.

These figures do not indicate any shrinkage in the industries of Massachusetts, notwithstanding the plaintive wails of Democratic orators who are trying to boost themselves into office. On the contrary, they show a splendid growth. Some of our Democratic statesmen who have been lamenting over the fact that the industries of Massachusetts do not have everything they need as raw materials on the free list and everything they sell on the dutiable list can now take a back seat or confess themselves to be flagrant deceivers.

These latest statistics show clearly. when taken in conjunction with the figures published two weeks ago, that the shoe industry in this state is in a very healthy condition. Some additional figures on the subject of boots and shoes for the state at large, which drive this fact home emphatically, are given be-

There is invested in the shoe business today nearly $12,000,000 more than in 1900; nearly a million dollars more fs being paid for salaries, and about 4000 more wage earners are employed, earning about $5,415,000 more than five years ago. The total product of Massa- his general order upon taking comchusetts shoe factories is $27,176,183 greater than in 1900.

It may also be said that the capital invested in foundry and machine shops in the state in 1905 was $11,600,- 1900, while the value of the product of these foundries and machine shops in 1905 was $2,614,550 greater than in 1900.

Millions In Leather Factories

There is nearly $12,000,000 more invested in factories for the manufacture of leather than five years ago; there are 2000 more wage earners employed, and $1,176,629 more paid in wages than in 1900. The value of the product of these factories has increased $7,285,285 in the last five years.

In the line of woolen goods the inerease in capital invested is nearly $10. 000,000, and the increase in wages paid is $2,171,438, while the increase in the value of the products is $3,765,536.

In worsted goods there is an increase in capital invested of nearly $14,000. 000, and an increase in the amount of wages paid of $1,262,779, while the value of the product is greater by nearly There is no question but that Massa- $12,000,000.

If there is any state in the Unior which shows a greater growth along industrial and manufacturing lines the census reports do not disclose it.

The Twelve o'Clock Bill

The 12 o'clock tangle has now been straightened out. The original bill, which passed both branches of the legislature and went to the governor, was recalled by the senate in order that it might be amended to meet some objectempt was made to reconsider the enacttion to that procedure having been made. Unanimous consent was necessary in order to have the bill considered

As it was not possible to secure this. Governor Guild sent in a message recommending the passage of a bill confined to the city of Boston, permitting the sale of liquor in not more than 29 hotels from 11 o'clock p. m. until midon liquor law reported a measure to the house, which was acceptable to the legitimate hotels and not objectionable to the temperance element of the state. Later the referendum was added to the

Under this measure liquor can be served to guests at hotels in the dining rooms up to midnight. Not more than 29 hotels in the city of Boston can be granted this class of license, and, as amended in the house, the act does not take effect until accepted by a majority of the voters of the city at the municipal election next December.

It was the evident intention of the Democrats in case the original bill was signed by the governor to make as much political capital out of it as possible with the temperance people of the commonwealth. The governor has nipped this scheme in the bud.

In 1898 the bylaws were amended so as largely to increase the payments to be made by all members, and to require the payments monthly. Under the conditions obtaining at the time certain changes recommended by the actuaries were adopted by an amendment of the bylaws by an almost unanimous vote of the members of the supreme council. Older members objected and this proceeding was brought with a view to determine the legal and binding effect of the bylaws upon the members. The court says:

Guarding Jockeys.

Why Detectives Are Now Employed to Watch Eastern Horse Pilots.

Officials of the Jockey club, the ruling eastern turf organization, now employ detectives to watch the jockeys so as to prevent interference with them or attempts at bribery by designing persons, such as gamblers and touts. This new move has aroused a great deal of comment, and good results from it are looked for by the Jockey club stewards.

This move is the direct outcome of many scandalous stories of last season which connected the names of prominent owners with those of jockeys. The horsemanship displayed by a few of the leading jockeys at times was so crude and far below the real ability of the boy that the stewards

DETECTIVE IN JOCKEYS' DRESSING ROOM. were not satisfied with the explanathat there was an ulterior motive behind many defeats of the best horses.

No man is now permitted to converse with the boys on any subject when once the rider is inside the grounds of the race courses. The boys under engagement to ride must report at 1:30 p. m. every horse that they have got to mount on during the afternoon. If they are to ride in the six races they will not be permitted to leave the jockey room or the inclosure of the scales at any period except to go into the paddock to mount their horses. This rule is imperative and so stringent that no relative, not even a father or mother, will be permitted to talk to a rider. Many of the jockeys have as managers their fathers or brothers. It is the duty of their relatives to make the engagements for the boys, but once the arrangements are completed neither fathers nor brothers will be allowed to talk with them.

If any owner is in quest of a jockey and he has not already secured him prior to the race he may, by looking over a list of names which are conspicuously posted near the scales, make a selection of a desirable rider. If he should select one and that boy has no mount in the particular race he may on application to the clerk of the scales tell his quest and engage

HAYES IS DISCHARGED

No One Appeared Against Page

Murder "Suspect" Skowhegan, Me., May 19 .- Jerry Hayes, the laborer who was arrested at Bingham on Wednesday in connection with the murder of Mabel Page at Weston, Mass., March 31, 1904, was discharged from custody last night by Judge Bacheller of the Skowhegan municipal court. No one appeared against the prisoner.

Hayes was arrested on complaint of a reporter of a Boston evening newspaper who had heard of a statement alleged to have been made by Hayes two months ago to the effect that he had called at a house in Weston on the day of the murder. After his arrest Hayes denied that he knew the Pages or the location of their residence.

The Massachusetts authorities at no time regarded the arrest seriously. The Boston attorneys representing Charles L. Tucker, convicted of the Page murder, notified Sheriff Smith of this (Somerset) county that they had not authorized the arrest of Hayes. After release, Hayes returned to his work in

MOON'S PHASES.

Knocking OutaRival

Frank Edgecombe and I were chums in college and fellow athletes. We fought on the same football team and together in the costume we had worn on the gridiron, I holding the pigskin in the hollow of my arm. Edgecombe married a rich woman and built a splendid country place. He invited me to visit him there in the warm season, and in the party, among others, was Miss Emma Keith, whom I desired to win, and Winfield Larraway, who looked upon Miss Kelth with the same languishing eyes. Larraway and I each knew of the other's intentions and hated each other accordingly. There are women who would like nothing better than to put two men at swords' points on their account, but Miss Keith was not one of that kind. I and my rival both knew that any word spoken against the other by either of us would render the speak er contemptible in her sight. We outwardly treated each other with studied politeness.

There was a cottage on Edgecombe's premises that he had fitted up for lounging. It was a luxurious summer house furnished with costly rugs, divans and other such appropriate furniture. One morning I strolled down there and, going into a room adorned with Edgecombe's college trophies and supplied with magazines, settled myself in an easy chair to read. On the wall hung the photograph of Edgeombe and myself in football costume.

Hearing a footstep and a rustle of skirts, not wishing to be interrupted in my reading I moved into an anteroom just as a lady entered the one I had left. The door between the two rooms was open, and I saw Miss Keith go to the photograph, look at it long and steadily, give a pleasurable sigh and turn to the table on which rested the periodicals.

Encouraged by what I had seen I went in and joined her. We chatted, and I ventured to lead the way to giving her an inkling as to my feelings when I heard a man's quick footstep. There was no impropriety in our being there together, but I saw an anxious glance pass over Miss Keith's face and on the impulse stepped into an anteroom, intending to pass out by a side door. But I found there was no side door. Before I could decide what to do Larraway entered and told Miss Keith that he was going to the city for the day and would be happy to execute any commission she might have. During his brief stay they chatted about my physical proportions, also giving my mental and moral endowments unstinted praise. I knew perfectly well that he had seen both me and Miss Keith enter the summer house and that he had praised me for a purpose. When I rejoined Miss Keith she was somewhat flustered, and I could see that she had the trophies, and Larraway expressed the most unbounded admiration for

in such high praise," I replied and changed the subject. Larraway had scored one on me, and if I could not turn the tide I feared I should lose the prize. A few days later I was knocking the balls about on the tennis court when he came out on to the piazza. Miss Keith was sitting in dishabille at a window, the shutters of which were closed, for the day was very hot, thinking that she was invisible from the court. I invited Larraway, who had not seen her, to play tennis, and, putting him in a position where he could not refuse without seeming to be disobliging, he reluc tantly consented.

Now I had taken prizes at match games of tennis and was then a champion. The first ball I served I landed on the tip of Larraway's nose.

There is something painful in being thus hit at any time, but to be struck by a man one hates is too much for any man's equanimity. All the venom that had been long accumulating in was poured on my devoted head. This is not a proper place to give his lanmoving behind the window blinds and knew that Miss Keith had departed to the academy is just out. It contains a Thorpe Babcock, Yale '07 rowed in escape the unseemly vituperations that calendar, list of trustees, teachers and the winning boat on Lake Whitney last | were loaded upon me. I calmly apologized to Larraway, even offering him my handkerchief to stop the red flood that poured from his nose. He turned on his heel and went to the house, while I remained on the court, and since I did not care to be seen dancing myself I gave vent to my feelings by dancing the ball on my racket.

When next I met Miss Keith I ventured a remark praising my rival for his rare patience, his kindly disposition, and was passing on to his other adorable traits when she put her hands to her ears. I asked in affected surprise if I had offended her, but I knew she was trying to shut out the remembrance of Larraway's language.

I won Emma Keith and the day after the wedding I told her that I had landed that ball on Larraway's nose for the express purpose of putting him out of the field. She maintained silence for some time and I was curious to know what her comment would be. It was this:

"You ought to have been ashamed of yourself. If I had known it sooner I wouldn't have married you."

A Few Questions

> Water Meters Add to the Tax Bills?

A few questions.

How can the interest on the Metroolitan water debt of $39,044,214 be re fuced by curtailment in the use of

What is the annual interest charge on Sunday $39,044,214 at three per cent, and three and one-half per cent?

Did you know that for the next thirty ears the annual assessment upon cities and towns in the district FOR INTER-EST will be over $1,300,000; that the sinking fund will annually require over $500,000 more, leaving less than $350, 000 for the 19 municipalites to raise annually for the maintenance?

Why should Quincy be so anxious about the Metropolitan water supply? Did you know that Quincy now uses ess than three per cent of the total onsumption? Should not Boston, which uses over

per cent of the water, economize

Did you know that Boston uses 143 allons per capita where Quincy uses but 109 gallons, and the average for the district is 129 per capita? Is there any danger of a water famine in the district? Did you know that the completion of the Wachusett reservoir at an early date would increase the storage capacity from 15,858,000,000 gallons to 63,000, Why enrich the meter trust, and pay nterest to bondholders?

Why should the city pay more for meters (interest, maturing debt, inspection and maintenance) than it is assessments? Would it not be better to reduce water rates than to increase the burden of he water takers by adding $1 or $2 annually for meter rental? Did you know that the chances are excellent for a reduction of water rates ability of the work, and the different in Quincy without meters?

Since Quincy purchased the plant of the Quincy Water Company, the city association during the past year. has found it necessary to assess the axpayers annually a portion of the cost of the system, but at an early date the water receipts will pay all water expenses and create a surplus.

Why not leave well enough alone? a surplus as increase in water receipts. In 1905 the water debt of the city was reduced $11,500 which should decrease the interest charge over $400 this year. This year it is possible to make a larger reduction in water debt if a new loan is not created for meters.

An appropriation of $20,000 for meters will increase the water debt, and the interest charge, and contribute to increase the tax ra'e. At the same With Furnishings and Stable adjoining, also time water takers will have to pay meter rentals in addition to present water rates.

The expenditures of the Metropolitan water board in 1905 for construction were $655,958, the first time in eleven years that they were less than a million. The increase in Metropolitan assessments of late is due not to the water consumption but to the fact that $10,-1000,000 were expended in 1902, which increased the annual interest charge $300,000. Seven millions were also expended in 1902, which is sold loss, our loss, our less than goes with the above property, situated on the front of Weymouth River on high bluff, overlooking Quincy Bay. The storage capacity of the reservoirs of Cochituate and Sudbury watersbeds is now 15,858,000,000 gallons; the new Wachusett Reservoir has a capacity of more than 63,000,000,000, making a total eventual capacity of nearly 80,000,000, Tuesday, May 22, 1906, 000. The capacity of the present dis-

Several Games on Local Diamonds On Saturday

The Fore River team defeated the Everetts on Saturday at Quincy Point by the score of 5 to 0. They might easily have made it 10 to 0, for Everett was not in the same class, and usually went out in one-two-three order. Paterson struck out ten.

Fore River was first at the bat, and three singles with two errors resulted in three runs. In the second, two passes followed by a single, a double by Donaher, and another single added two runs. With the score 5 to 0 Fore River did not try, and after that made only two safe hits, both coming in the sixth. No runs resulted. The summary :

A large audience assembled in High dramatic by the class of 1906. A farce day. and a comedy were very satisfactorily presented, and there were piano selections between the acts by Miss Rina Bizzozero which were also enjoyed. In the farce, "Per Telephone" the Love played a prominent part in this omedy. The first act was in Carother's studio, where the painter was assisted by his sister. Dick and the Frenchman were in love with Rose and it was not easy to shake the Frenchman, whose make-up caused applause.

Meanwhile Tommy became enamored with Patty, and Sylvia became jealous of her. Mrs. De Yosburg-Smith was neighbors, and were envied by those responsible for much of the trouble who had to seek the curb for rest, bethat came to the young people because she wanted Tommy to pretend he was a chairs on cool piazzas. married man, and got his sister to agree to officiate at the studio as his wife. Edith helped materially in keeping true love in its proper channel. The third act was a rehearsal for a 1 play in the library at her home, when 0 Rose accepted Dick as her protector, and Tommy finally paired off with O Patty.

The mumps at one time threatened the success of the dramatic, but only for a while. A good sum was realized by the class, and the audience received full value for their money.

The Qualities Young Men Admire

A large congregation assembled Sunday evening at the Point church to the first of a series of services under the charge of the young ladies. The platform was decorated with pinks, narcissus, and lilacs. The floral committee has as members, Miss Haden, Miss Phillips, Miss Thomas, and Mrs. James Corprew.

The subject for this evening was 'Qualities in young women, young men admire."

The pastor in opening said that in response to letters sent out to the young health, courage, modesty, purity, sympathy, cheerfulness, respect for aged people and christian character. Not one was looking for money and only three mentioned dress, and then it was for neatness and not display,

To be a helper does not necessarily And about 4,200 feet of Land imply subordination. Young men and women are endowed with about the same moral nature. They have the same spiritual needs and the same advantages in school. Yet there is a spiritual difference when they become men and women. This is due largely to the fact that young men are more exposed to temptation and evil inflnences than young women.

Temptations and allurements beset young men, no matter what life they ead. Is it any wonder then that they sometimes fall from grace and need a helpmate.

Our young men do not want physical aborers for wives, but they want wives capable of a necessary amount of physical labor in the homes. They need helpmates in the social life. It rests today with the woman to restore the standard of Jesus.

Women will be helpmates when they demand in men the same standard of social purity that today men demand in

AN ODD BIRD.

The Kiwi of New Zealand Has Some Remarkable Peculiarities.

That queer bird, the kiwi, is a native of New Zealand. Its remarkable pe cultarities are, first, the apparent ab sence of wings, as the plumage so covers the small, rudimentary, sticklike appendage of a wing that none whatever is apparent. The situation of the nostrils at the bill's extremity eral reception. is a second peculiar feature. While hunting for earthworms it probes the soft ground, making a continual snuffing sound. Thus the scent is evidently the occasion. of great help in finding food and the reason for the position of the nostrils quite apparent.

A third peculiarity is the very disproportionate size of the egg in comparison to the bird, it being a little less than one-fourth the bird's own weight. One kiwi's egg found weighed fourteen and one-half ounces, while the bird weighed just under four pounds (sixty-four ounces) and was about the size of an ordinary hen.

The plumage of the kiwl is a dull brown streaked with light gray, and the body resembles a miniature hay shock, rather badly backed off at the rear part, as nature has not provided the kiwi with such decoration as a tail. The absence of wings is compensated for by its swiftness of foot, and the large, clumsy looking legs, which are Lake road near Girard. The accident sometimes used as weapons, are placed far back on the oddly shaped body .-St. Nicholas.

That Was All,

A young girl who is always trying some new thing was present once when the doctor set a neighbor's broken arm. She was sure that she knew exactly how it was done and rather anxious to put her new knowledge into practice.' Some time later a hen out in the chicken yard broke its leg. The girl directly announced that she meant to set it "and make it as good as new." Accordingly it was put into a plaster cast and left for the proper length of time to knit. When the day came to take off the cast the girl ran out to the henhouse in great eagerness to see the result. Presently there was a scream that brought every member of the family to her side. The chicken was jumping miserably over the ground sidewise instead of directly forward. You know a hen's leg has a crook. Well, she had crooked it the wrong way, that was all.

They are gray and blue that lay there showed how desperate had been the struggle. And those three men on crutches were all that lived out of a whole company. No persuasion could induce them to ride, so they plodded on behind the blackened and grimy strings floating in the wind, all that time, war and bullets had left of their battleflag. Finally the procession reached the cemetery and divided into parties. The flowers were distributed, and each one placed a wreath, a bunch of blossoms or a pot of bright geraniums at one or nore graves, while at every soldier's grave two little flags were stuck in the ground. There were many of these graves all in a line, one beside the other. None had any sign or name to signify who lay sleeping beneath the green grass. They were "the unknown

Young girls and young men and even children appeared to feel some kind of sentiment of momentary solemnity befitting the occasion, which, however, soon wore off. Even the older men and women, some of whom had sons lying under the sod, grew more cheerful, and, their duty done, they sauntered off to chat with others. The three veterans, together with the bearer of the old battleflag, went to a bench near the long line of unknown dead. They could see from there a marble monument gleaming against the blue sky and standing on an eminence. This was swathed in large flags, while flowers were hung upon it wherever they would hold.

"Do you see that monument?" asked the pessimist veteran, chewing a blade of withered grass as he designated the monument beyond.

"Not being blind, I do," replied the optimist, lighting his pipe, with a glance about to be sure that he would offend no one.

"Yes, we see," said the third man, "and what of it?" "And you see those soldiers' graves down there, one alongside of the other, the fellows below all lying in a row like so many matches in a box, no one grander or bigger than the others and all of them killed in battle?" "Of course," said the optimist cheer-

"Yes; we see," said the third man re flectively.

"And their own fathers and mothers don't know who they are," resumed the pessimist.

"I suppose so," replied the optimist, "but we all have to die some time, and what matters where we lie?" "And theirs was a glorious death, Real Estate Sales.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM.

Some Facts Which Give an Idea of Its Immensity.

In all the heavens, with the exception of passing meteors or meteorites, not one body occupies a position closer to earth than the moon, which is some 240,000 miles away-very far, of course, side by side with any earthly distances, but a mere fraction side by side with other astronomical distances. Next to the moon our nearest occasional neighbor is Venus, and then Mars. Both Venus and Mars, however, are often farther away from us than the sun, which remains always at somewhere about the same distance, rough-This dividing space between sun and earth is of great importance in think-

Next to the sun in point of nearness come the more distant planets-Jupiter, which is about five times as far from the sun as our earth is; Saturn, nearly twice as far as Jupiter; Uranus, nearly twice as far as Saturn, and Neptune, nearly three times as far as Saturn. All these planets belong to our sun, all are members of his family, all are part of the solar system. The size of the solar system as a whole, consisting thus of the sun and his planets, including our earth, may be fairly well graspthese, that our earth is roughly about 92,000,000 miles away from the sun and that Neptune, the outermost planet of the solar system, is nearly thirty our earth is .- Chambers' Journal.

EARTHQUAKE NEWSPAPERING

San Francisco Calamity.

PLUCKY HUSTLING OF AN EDITOR

How He Worked Hard Trying to Get Out an Extra-The Chronicle Earthquake Kept on Quaking, but People Remarkable.

A letter from Ernest S. Simpson, city editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, to a friend in New York tells one part of an episode which should be historical in American journalism-the unsuccessful fight of the newspaper men to get out extras on the first morning of the earthquake disaster in San Francisco and the successful effort to keep the papers running without a break, Young to Oakland. We had a dickens says the New York Sun. It says in of a time getting there, making a deal

"An hour ago in a candy store I met one of the saloon keeping D.'s. He was dusty and haggard, but cheerful. He hasn't a saloon left out of his large and profitable flock.

"'Gimme a pineapple ice cream so da,' said the once haughty D. of the and Bliss A. Price was fined $20 each, for Tenderloin to a boy who was even dirtier than he-or myself.

"'It's a h- of a leveler, ain't it?' he said to me. 'Nearly starved for four days while I was rustling grub and cooking it for a family of six to twelve. Then a Chink that worked for me showed up. He wanted to get out of town to see his brother somewhere. ""Brother be d-d!" says I. "You cook!" says I, "and I grabs his hat and skins the coat off of him and hides 'em so he can't slope, and we're eating the real chow again."' Not a word about the calamity which must have beggared him.

"If you whimper now you do it in a whisper. You'd be proud of what's left of your dear old San Francisco, Cal. She's crippled, thirsty, hungry and broke. She has a few whole churches, only half of her schoolhouses, not one French restaurant, not a theater. She is full of people without homes, jobs or clothes. She is the worst bunged up town that ever was. But the spirit of her is something to bring tears of pride to any American's eyes that was not crushed by the quake nor scorched by the fire. She is as game as Bat Nelson, Britt, McGovern, Hanlon and all the rest of the lightweight division put together. You can't beat a town that does not know when she is licked.

"It is one of the things that I am proud of that the newspaper gang had so few 'run outs.' I dog trotted to the office, arriving there about 6 a. m. The managing editor was there, my brother and a few others. Men from all departments came in steadily, and I began hustling for an extra. The old building was not seriously hurt, and has arrived and another is coming one elevator was in commission, and with twenty linotypes and necessary we got a few typos upstairs. (The typesetting room was on the top floor.) iner will resume at Spear and Folsom, I established the city desk in the business office and soon had a bunch of the Spreckels tower, which was uncopy going up, while my brother was hurt by the quake, but had e holding the men upstairs. At 8:15 o'clock we got another jolt-about No. 4. I guess-and no more upstairs for times as far distant from the sun as printers or stereotypers. The fire was coming at us from the east and south strong. We went upstairs to see what we could do with the machinery. Then we found that we were without water or power, and it was agreed to try to case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by and somewhere Thursday morning. As an emergency last chance, an Examiner bunch was sent over to the Oakland Tribune to get out a Chronicle-Call-Examiner, lots being drawn by boys that it is time for them to be at Michelson, McNaught and me in the home. "My people were packed and provisioned and ready to move. I stayed with them until noon and then sent French to make a deal with the Oakland Herald, and put Clarke, my second assistant, in charge locally. I butted into the committee of fifty, was made a member of the press committee, got a special policeman's star, commandeered automobiles until I had a driver-picked up staff and reporters and got to Oakland about 10 p. m. I took my bunch to the Oakland Herald. There I found French and my brother Lynne. We managed by 5 a. m. to pull out 7,000 copies of a combined Call and Chronicle, differing in title and editorial. There was no more paper left after the Herald had run off its own extra at 1:30 a. m. These 7,000 I had to count, stack and tie myself | At Daily Ledger Office that was trying to grab them, papers as well as police them from the gang being as good as wheat in that crisis. I helped load them on a one horse, rickety express wagon and sat on them for a four mile crawl through the dawn to the estuary, where I had a man holding a jayhawk launch with promises of money and threats of shooting. We piked in through the wreckage of the wharfs at 7 a. m., found that good automobile waiting and tore through what was left of the town, giving away papers from Noe Valley to the Presidio. The people were crazy for them. Out in the park, crowded with refugees, a big chap got on our front board and refused to get Tried to Work Its Own Plant While off, If we had stopped anywhere w would have been stripped of our pa-Was Stopped by Fire-Spirit of the pers. Young, the proprietor of the Chronicle -this was Friday. He had saved his house after an all night struggle. He had got his people out to San Rafael. He had plenty of food, no water, plenty of automobiles and no gasoline I got out and grabbed a can of oil, with an order for more, and took Mr. De with the Herald, arranging for white paper supply and getting back to San Francisco. We walked from the ferry to 1910 California-Mr. De Young, Whitcomb, Fred Bennett and I-carrying eggs, bread, butter and meat that we had bought at a restaurant near Emeryville. We all dined together at the De Young house. It was the first Then I took my share of the grub-a ten pound chunk of raw beef-hiked over to the general committee's night meeting on Fillmore street and at midnight plugged it home, being stopped by a militiaman with a gun every few blocks. I had had three hours of sleep in eighty-four and had walked so much that when, the next day, I pulled my clothes off my socks were stuck to my feet with blood. "Since Saturday, April 21, we have been bucking the both-sides-of-the-bay game. It has been tough, but every hour has noted an improvement in conditio At first it was a man's job just to get to the ferry, and nothing short of an automobile could make an time. Now there are some cars, and in addition to our crippled automobile we have a motorcycle service carrying copy. Our papers are loaded on a Key route special, hauled to the pier carried across to San Francisco in launches, brought out here in automo biles and passed along to carriers and newsboys. We make it, barring acci dents, by 4:30 a. m., simultaneously with the Examiner. The Bulletin, using the Herald press, gets here about 7 p. m. The Argonaut has gone to San Jose, the remains of the News Letter are in Alameda, and the Wasp is whittling its sting out Fruitvale way.

It was voted under article 35 that nterest be charged on all taxes unpaid after Dec. 1, 1906, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. The motion to accept the report of to order and Mr. Abercrombie, chairman of the investigating committee, took the floor. He said that in behalf of the committee he regretted to say that more time was necessary to render their report.

That the committee wanted to do what was absolutely right, and render a true report. That the extension of time was not asked to get an extra appropriation, but a clear, concise report n detail.

Mr. May objected to an adjournment, for he thought that by delay of appropriation the electric light department would be crippled. That there were several houses ready to be connected for electric light, and connections could not be made for there was no money I to buy the wire. Mr. May wanted to know what the committee was appointed for and what they had found out. He said experts from New York or Boston were getting $10 an hour and you can't expect to get something for nothing. All you will get is a long piece of paper for the $500 appropriat-

This includes all the main routes in Brockton where the company was not previously authorized to do a freight and express business, and also gives authority for freight and express service between Brockton and the towns of Abington, Rockland and Whitman. GOOD AFTERNOON.

The appropriation of $10,000 instead of $20,000 for installing waters meters in the city, will give an opportunity to experiment, and if a metered system proves popular it can be extended. Undoubtedly there are 500 of the 5,100 services where meters should be applied. The Commissioner of Public Works tells the Ledger that he knows of water takers who allow their lawn hose to run all day and all night. Such services should be metered promptly; also all manufactories, boarding houses, club houses, greenhouses, hotels, laundries, shops, restaurants, stables, car barns, bakeries and new connections. _

A general system of metered services for houses is another thing, and of doubtful expediency, particularly if the installation of meters entails an annual cost in excess of the amount saved. The Metropolitan assessments have increased of late because the commission has in eleven years expended $39,044,-214.23 for construction. The system is practically complete now, the amount of loans authorized being $40,000,000. Next year the maximum assessments should be reached and no material reduction can be expected until the bonds mature in 1935 to 1945.

The number of water services in Quincy have increased rapidly in late years and also the receipts, and both would continue to increase without the installation of meters. In 1900 Quincy had 4,307 services and water receipts of $61,975.01. In 1905 it had 5,307 services and water receipts of $94,839. 05. A similar percentage of increase from 1905 to 1910 would place the receipts above the water expense which in 1905 was $112,047.50.

The annual report of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board for Jan. 1, 1906, issued from the press last week, has much of interest. Relative to consumption there is on page 123 a table giving the consumption by cities both 1904 and 1905, and the daily average per capita. Contrary to expectation the decrease per capita does not come in the metered cities but is wholly in Stoneham, Chelsea, Everett and Somerville. Milton and Swampscott had the same consumption per capita. In 12 of the 18 cities there was an increase per capita, and the largest increase was in Watertown, which is a metered town. In the district as a whole, one gallon asked to come to Pennsylvania to more per capita was used daily than in coach the high jumpers and gave the law practice did not yield a sufficient

Preparations For Preventing Too Strenuous Times

GATHERING OF MARINES

They Will Be Within Easy Call to Assist Zone Police Force, Which Is Really a Miniature Army Ready For Service

Washington, May 22.-More than 600 marines will confront Liberal leaders on the Isthmus of Panama in case they attempt to promote riots and revolution at the time of the election in Panama on June 20. Although the canal zone Bender, Schreck and Powers. is under the secretary of war, there is no indication that the war department will have any troops near the isthmus at the time of the approaching election and Secretary Taft must rely upon the marine corps to protect the canal zone. Only 200 marines are on the isthmus at present. More than 400 marines are on the cruiser Columbia, which is on its way to Guantanamo and will be within easy call in case the politics become stormy in Panama. This large detachment is in command of Major Lejeune. The Marblehead, which is now sailing southward down the Mexican coast and is only a few days from the isthmus, carries only a small detachment of marines and cannot add much strength to any land expedition which may be necessary to quiet the political situation which is so threatening.

The zone police force has been strengthened materially and is so well equipped that it is in reality a miniature army and is ready for service at any time. Under the leadership of the well trained marines it is believed the police force will be able to quell any disturbances which may arise. Troops can be hastened to any scene of trouble in the canal zone without delay on the railroad. This insures the protection of all American interests. Secretary Root and Secretary Taft have also made it clear that they will take a hand in disturbances outside of the zone and if the Liberals begin any movement against the present government of Panama it will be with full knowledge that the United States ex-

Successfully Filled Position of American Vice Consul at Batoum--Lived Many Years In Russia and Was Influential

Washington, May 22 .- Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador to Russia, in a cablegram from St. Petersburg received at the state department, confirmed the news of the assassination of William H. Stuart, American vice consul at Batoum, Russia.

Stuart was born in England and appointed from Russia. He was a partner n the firm of F. A. Mattievitch & Co. at Batoum. He has frequently acted as assistant to the American consul at Odessa and from time to time had been left in charge of the consulate. Since May 4, 1904, Stuart had been vice consul, his service having been secured because of his local prestige and the difficulty of obtaining a competent American. His salary was paid in fees, Mrs. D. A. Batoum, May 22 .- William H. During the revolutionary troubles of Furnishings at the very lowest prices. last fall his life was many times threatened by longshoremen, and at Christmas a deputation visited his office and practically compelled him to give them $1500 under the guise of a holiday ratuity for dock workers.

Mr. Stuart, having dined at the house of a friend, was returning to his country place at Manziadjani, five miles from Batoum, when he was fired on twice from a clump of trees half a mile from his home, one bullet piercing his leg and another his breast. Mr. Sterne, the British vice consul at Novo Ros isk, who was a guest at Stuart's house, hearing the shooting, hurried out with the servants and found Stuart lying on the ground, bleeding from his wounds. He was still conscious, but said he would not be able to recognize his assassie ewing to the darkness. Stuar Tas conveyed to military barracks in the vicinity, where he died two hours later. The body was sent to the consulate at Batoum.

Aside from the troubles during the revolutionary disturbances last fall Stuart had had no friction with the native population. He was so generally respected that he was on several occa sions called upon to act as intermediary during the racial war between the Tartars and the Armenians, saving the lives of several of the latter.

Mr. Stuart, who was 49 years of ago had spent the greater part of his life in Russia, the last 12 years in Batoum Besides his official connections he had extensive business relations through out the entire Caucasus. He spoke several native dialects and was considered an authority on land. The police have no trace of the murderers.

AN ACTOR'S MASCOT.

Vaughn Glaser Adopts Mouse Found Dying In His Dressing Room.

The audiences at the Colonial theater, in Cleveland, O., a few days ago would not suspect that Vaughn Glaser, the actor, is carrying about beneath his stern exterior a little secret that has put joy into his life and that makes him hurry, after each exit, from the wings to his dressing room, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. But so it is. He has a secret.

An incubator has found lodgment in the stock star's dressing room. Not chicken incubator, either. It is varmed by electricity, tended only by he actor, and the little occupant is fed regularly on the only delicacies it can

It was on a recent Sunday night when the incubator was installed. During the benefit performance Glaser heard a tiny, plaintive squeak that came from somewhere beneath the yards and yards of filmy laces and velvets that hang around the room. Glaser was a king then. He knelt on his kingly hose and searched the floor with a king's eye. Near the corner of a trunk he found the origin of the squeak. Too tiny and too timid to flee, little mouse, scarcely an inch in length, permitted the actor to lift it into the glare of the lights.

An actor needs a mascot. No self respecting actor can successfully do without one. Here was Glaser utterly mascotless, and this mouse was found on his dressing room floor. It was an act of a kind Providence that thus came to his rescue. Fearful that the mouse might be lost or that in its weakened condition it might succumb to the excitement of the moment, the actor forgot cues. lines, play and all else in a scurry for a prison for the new found pet. A shoe box was made to do duty, and an electric light bulb was placed inside in lieu of a steam radiator. A hurry call was sent out for a "Dutch lunch." minus the beer, and crumbs and cheese were scattered on the bottom of the box. A towel was folded for a bed.

Since his discovery the little rodent has grown to almost double his original size, and he and the actor have become the warmest friends. He will not leave the box unless to go to Glaser's hand, where he takes all his meals The little fellow has been made a permanent member of the stock company. and if his training progresses satisfac torily a part will be written into one of the forthcoming productions for him, at least rumor so hath it.

Center of White Civilization In Fifty

Years, Says Bishop Hartzell. Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell, who is stationed in Africa, predicts a brilliant future for that continent, according to a Chicago dispatch. Speaking at the recent alumni reunion during the commencement exercises of the Garrett Biblical institute in the First Methodist church, Evanston, he said:

"Fifty years will see Africa the great center of white civilization. It. was with a purpose in view that it has been shut up from the outside world, and in this respect it may be compared to Japan. It now has begun to be opened, but it would have been better that its doors should have remained closed forever to the whites if it is to receive only the harmful influences of the other continents.

"At present Mohammedanism is making more converts in the dark continent than Christianity, and it is there that the last battle will be fought between the cross and the crescent."

Smaller Egg Cups Wanted In Egypt. There is a dearth of egg cups at Al exandria commensurate with the diminutive proportions of the Egyptian hen's egg, so says the latest consular report from there. In the ordinary British egg cup the Egyptian breakfast egg looks lonely and unsupported, and it is a matter of considerable skill to effect the necessary decapitation while it is in this woefully wabbly condition, says the London Mail; hence there is a cry from Egypt for egg cups meet for the national egg.

Iron Canes London's Latest Fad. Solid iron walking sticks, painted to resemble ebony and crooked at the upper end, are the latest fashion in London, especially along Piccadilly and Oxford street, says a London dispatch. Several medical reviews claim that the weight of the new cane is bound to develop the muscles of the hand if properly carried and that as a weapon of defense the new stick leaves nothing to be desired. The cane costs a little over a dollar.

BEST JUDGMENT

House Conferees Will Exercise to the supreme court of the United It on Rate Bill

FAR-REACHING MEASURE

Close Restrictions on Carriers and Heavy Penalties For Violations--Forteits For Failure to Obey Orders--Constant Access Must Be Had to Records

Washington, May 22 .- The railroad rate bill was considered for three hours last night by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce and the decision reached to recommend disagreement to all of the senate amendments and to send the measure to conference. The committee will not ask that instructions of any character | fault. be given to the house conferees.

The amendment which gave the house committee the greatest concern was that making pipe lines common carriers, which the committee thought inconsistent with the amendment prohibiting common carriers from produc action was not had on any of the amendments, and therefore the house conferees likely will be left free to exercise their best judgment.

An analysis of the bill as it passed both branches of congress shows that it will have a more far-reaching effect than any law of recent years.

The most important provision of the act confers on the interstate commerce commission the authority, on complaint, to examine into any charge or practice of a carrier alleged to be unjust, and when such allegation is sustained to prescribe what shall be a just and reasonable maximum rate or charge, regulation or practice.

The act defines as common carriers owners of pipe lines engaged in the transportation of oil or other commod ity, except water and natural or artificial gas; also sleeping cars and express companies, and all forms of private cars, terminals, switches and spur

The issuance of passes or free transportation in any form to all persons, except employes of carriers and their families and certain exempted classes, is forbidden, and a penalty of not less than $100 nor more than $2000 is pro vided, not only for the person issuing such free transportation, but also for the person applying for or accepting it.

Common carriers are prohibited, on and after May 1, 1908, from transporting across any state or territorial line any article or commodity other than timber and the manufactured products thereof, manufactured, mined or pro duced under its authority. They are required to construct and operate upor reasonable terms sidetracks and switch lines and to furnish cars for the movement of traffic without discrimination and furnish equally good accommodations to all persons paying the same

Carriers must print and post in conspicuous places all tariffs and charges, and such charges cannot be changed days' notice to the publi and to the interstate commerce com mission, except where the commission waives such notice. They are required in time of war or threatened war, on demand of the president, to give preference and precedence to the transportation of troops and munitions of war. Every person, company or corporation, whether carrier or shipper, is prohibited from offering, granting, giving, soliciting, accepting or receiving any rebate, preference or discrimination. Heavy penalties, and in some instances imprisonment, are prescribed A military court has been considering for violation of the provisions of the act, individuals and corporations alike to be held guilty of misdemeanor for any violation willfully committed, and the corporations and individuals are held responsible for the acts of any agent. Failure to publish tariffs entails a fine or not less than $1000 and not more than $20,000.

Granting or accepting of rebates or kindred discriminations entails a fine of not less than $1000 and not more than $20,000, and the individual gulity of such act is liable to imprisonment for not more than two years in addition to the fine, in the discretion of the court.

Any shipper who willfully accepts a rebate or discrimination must, in addition to the above penalties, pay to the United States three times the value of such rebate or discrimination, and the attorney general is required to bring civil suit to recover this penalty when ever he believes such violation of law has occurred. The authority of the interstate commerce commission to fix maximum rates refers not only to single, but joint rates, and applies where one of the parties to the joint rate is a water line.

For failure to obey an order of the commission the carrier forfeits to the United States $5000 for each offense, and each day of a continuing violation is deemed a separate offense.

Where the interstate commerce commission orders a refund to a shipper and the carrier fails so to refund, the shipper may institute civil suit to recover; the finding of the commission constitutes prima facie evidence of the facts, and the petitioner is not liable for the costs in the court or at any subsequent stage of the proceedings, and if the petitioner finally prevails a reasonable attorney fee is allowed him. The interstate commerce commission or any person injured by a failure of a | High water-11:30 a. m.; 11:45 p. m. carrier to comply with an order of the commission, other than the payment of dicated for New England.

money, may apply to the circuit court, and if the case is established the court shall issue a writ of injunction, manda tory or otherwise, to restrain such carrier from further disobedience, and from such action appeal shall lie direct States, where the case shall have priority of hearing and determination.

The act provides that in suits brought against the interstate commerce comnission the venue to enjoin, set aside, annul or suspend any order or re quirement of the commission shall be n the circuit court of the district where he carrier has its principal operating office, and jurisdiction is vested in such courts. The provisions of the expedit ng act of Feb. 11, 1903, are made to apoly to such suits, including hearings on application for preliminary injunctions. which may be granted only on hearing after-five days' notice to the commis sion. Appeals from any interlocutory order or decree are to be made only to the supreme court of the United States. These constitute the provisions of the so-called Allison amendment.

The commission is authorized to require the most comprehensive statisties from all common carriers regarding their business under a penalty on the carriers of $100 for every day in de-

The commission is authorized to pre scribe the form of all accounts kept by carriers, shall constantly have access to all records, accounts and memoranda kept by them, refusal to grant such access entailing a penalty of $500 for each offense or for each day such refusal is maintained. False entries made by any person keeping the books of a carrier are made punishable by a fine of from $1000 to $5000 or imprisonment for from one to three years, or

Carriers are also required to issue bills of lading for all shipments accepted and shall be liable to damage for the loss or injury of any property for which a bill of lading is given, and no contract, receipt, rule or regulation shall exempt the carrier from liability

Authority conferred on the commis sion to prescribe practices, etc., includes not only switching charges and similar services, but icing charges and any other practice which may be ren dered as a part of interstate transpor tation.

NEW WHISTLE.

Councilman Stone offered an order for $275 for the purchase and installation of an automatic attachment and whistle to be attached to the Quincy Point power station. Referred to Committee on Finance.

WATER METERS.

Upon motion of Councilman Gilson, the order appropriating $20,000 for water meters was taken from the table. Councilman Nichols said be understood that the passage of the order would be to comply with the objections of the Mayor to the meter ordinance. Under this condition he stood ready to ote for both.

There was something inconsistent in the Water department. We find by the budget that the debt, interest and maintenance is to be paid from the receipts. This means that they are paid by the water takers. Under these conditions it was not equitable or fair, as the city uses lots of water and it should come under current expenses.

Who pays for the water used in the public buildings? According to this statement the water takers pay it. The water receipts should include pay for all water used. He believed all departments should estimate for the water used by them, which would be for the benefit of the water takers.

Chairman Polk of the Finance Committee moved to amend by making the amount $10,000. He felt that amount was sufficient for the present. He would like to know how the money was to be expended. The only way is to wait and see. Next year we will be in better condition to know. It will take some time to put in $10,000 worth of meters. It was all the city ought to expend this year as the city was near the limit that could be expended for water extensions.

Councilman Gilson-In view of the fact that this matter has been pending for months and that the amount had been reduced from $50,000 to $25,000 F. H. Bishop of Wollaston, is in Phil- then to $20,000 and now to $10,000, he was willing to accept the amendment and make a start.

Amendment adopted the order was then passed to be ordained by a unaniious vote on roll call.

The veto of the Mayor was then taken from the table and the meter ordinance passed unanimously notwithstand ing the veto.

THE fields of Gettysburg are green Where once the red blood ran: The oak leaves throw a dancing

Where perished horse and man; The saplings whisper on the hill Where rolled a fiery tide, And song birds splash the laughing rill Where armies fought and died.

And granite cannons frown Where dusty regiments once wheeled And shot and shell rained down, But o'er the sentry's martial face Now sits the cooing dove, Breaking the silence of the place With murmuring notes of love.

That through a mystery above His mercies ne'er shall cease: And out of war come peace. -Margherita Arlina Hamm in New York

Pulled for Early Morning Fire in the Johnson Building

It seems almost as though the fates were trying to destroy the Johnson Bros. block on Hancock street by fire, but the alertness of the fire department will not permit it to be done. There have been three fires in the block within the past few months and in two instances at least the fire started in the

The third fire was this morning, an alarm from Box 26 being pulled by Officer Crooker at 6.07. This brought the apparatus from the Central, Wollaston and Quincy Point stations.

When the department arrived the moke was coming through the roof. The department went at the fire in a systematic way and no more water than was necessary was used. The damage therefore will not be heavy.

The fire started near the toilet room on the first floor evidently in a barrel of rubbish. It is thought that some

was a loud explosion in the dental office of Dr. Marstin. After the fire it was the doctor's reception room. The plastering on the ceiling had been torn off and scattered all over the room. There was no damage done however in his operating room. It is thought that the explosion was due to hot air confined in the room above.

Two lines of hose were laid from the hydrant near Fellows' clothing store. This blocked the street car tracks and passengers were obliged to change cars. The department were quick in responding and half an hour after the alarm the fire was out and the recall sounded. The loss will be only a few hundred dollars and is fully covered by insur-

GOOD AFTERNOON.

It was with some surprise that the Councilmen longest in service should have stated in the City Council this week that the water takers are paying all the water expenses and that the city was getting all its water free. The facts are that the Metropolitan water assessment has always been paid by direct taxation, and that it is largely in excess of all water used by the city, both by the fire department, the street department, the sewer department, for the street sprinkling, and for public buildings, etc.

Included in the tax levy of 1905 was the Metropolitan water assessment of $35,832.50; in 1904 the sum of $34,- at 3 o'clock to begin the work. I never 084.24; in 1903 the sum of $30,237.42 got to sleep until after 12 o'clock at for Metropolitan assessment, and also the maturing water debt of $34,500.00, a total of $64,737.42 that year. Previous to 1904 the maturing water debt and Metropolitan assessment were said. She said it was 'nothing' and always included in the levy.

It was estimated by the superintendent of the water department a few months ago that the city was using about $15,000 worth of water annually. While no bills are rendered for this, it is nevertheless a fact that the taxpayers of the city are paying more than $15,-000 for this water.

Should the city be called upon to pay water bills to the amount of $15,000, that sum would have to be included in the amount which can be raised for current city expenses under the $12 per $1,000 limit, and it would be necessary to reduce appropriations of other departments to that extent, which would be difficult.

The time is near at hand when the water rates can be reduced, because the her way to their house for this purpose, water receipts are now within $18,000.-00 of the water expenditures, which include four items-maintenance, interest, maturing debt and Metropolitan assess-the water receipts have increased faster than the Metroplitan assessments which Gaetano. She did not remember which have been such a bugbear of late. In one she struck first. She left both of 1895 there was no Metropolitan assessment for water and the water receipts were $45,480.67 for the year, which was $22,364.33 less than the expenditures. In 1905 the receipts had jumped to $94,839.05, and were only $17,208.45 ant District Attorney Ely, the witness Metropolitan assessment.

At the same time it costs Quincy less for water maintenance; the sum of $14 .-500.00 being required in 1895 for pumping station, care of reservoir, mains, office expenses, etc., while in 1905 but $11,000.00 was appropriated for maintenance. New loans for water extensions have been liberal, but the water debt of the city has been reduced $31,000.00 in ten years, being $725,000.00 on Jan. 1, 1896, and $694,000.00 on Jan. 1,

Gardening In America.

Gardening in America has reached what one might call the "awkward age." Neither a man nor a country goes a-gardening in early youth. "Men come to build stately sooner than to garden finely," as Bacon once said, and as every garden writing body has repeated until Sir Francis in Elysium must regret he ever made the remark, which none the less is true. Gardening is essentially a middle aged enjoyment, and America being, as nations go, still young, her garden craft has the faults of youth. It has its incongruities, inharmonies, and it often mistakes size and expenditure for excellence.-Cen-

In the Same Boat. The Duke of Leeds before succeeding to his title was active in politics. Once when canvassing he came upon an English shoemaker, whose vote he solicited. "Sorry," said the shoemaker, "but I'm not going to vote for any bloomin' aristocrat. I can't afford it. I've got four children to bring up." "That's nothing," replied the duke, "I've got five, and they are all girls." The shoemaker came up and touched him on the arm. "All right, old chap," he said. "You shall have my vote. It

The statute, Judge McPherson says, forbids lowering the rates except on three days' notice, and forbids raising them except on 10 days' notice. "It is lear," he continued, "that carriers by railways and water inland, when act ng under a common agreement, are covered by the statutes, as well as comnerce by any method with an adjacent foreign country. And as to interstate commerce, it is included. Because these are specifically enumerated, it is contended that all others are excluded. Conceding the force of this elementary and recognized rule of construction, there, in my opinion, is the error of the entire argument of defendant's counsel. Congress did not enumerate ocean commerce, because it would have been frivolous to do so." Judge McPherson says full force can be given to the statute only by enforcing it on shipments to New York and then transferring the merchandise to ssels when, of course, it passes from the jurisdiction. "It seems to me," he says in conclusion, "that when this is done it can be under an established rate, proclaimed by a published and posted tariff rate."

The Deserter

[Copyright, 1906, by Homer Sprague.] It was while General Lee was making his preparations for the invasion of Pennsylvania. In charge of a picket post numbering seven or eight men was Sergeant Joe Wise, who was called the best natured man in Company G and who had proved his bravery on three or four battlefields. The sergeant was thirty-five years old and unmarried, but back at home in Michigan a red cheeked farmer's daughter had said that she would be his wife when he

On this night, as the sergeant sat by the fire with his men out on post, one of the company came along and handed him a letter received at regimental headquarters two hours previously. It was opened to be read at the flickering flames of the fire. It was from a stay at home man, one of those malicious minded gossips who delighted in telling all he knew and much more of affairs back home. According to his epistle many things had occurred in the little village in the last month, and one of them was the engagement of Joe's sweetheart to a merchant who had furnished a substitute for the war. He put it strong to the sergeant that he had been made a fool of.

Half an hour later Joe was missed. An hour later word went back to the company that he must have been surprised and captured by Confederate

The deserter flanked his command and rushed on to Washington. There he obtained a suit of civilian's clothes, and as a private citizen he set his face toward his home. Ten miles away he left the train for the woods, and, after hours of gliding and skulking, he finally drew near the home of his betrothed. Father, mother and daughter were sixting on the veranda and with them the sneak who had written the letter. Concealed behind the lilac bushes growing close to the veranda, the sergeant heard every word of the conversation for an hour The writer of the letter had lied to him His feelings had been aroused to the pitch where he had sacrificed his honor and his good name without just rea-

The deserter groaned in agony as he realized the situation, and the people had withdrawn into the house to go to bed before he crawled away. That night he walked fifteen miles, dodging and skulking and afraid of everything that moved by the roadside. In the morning he was headed for Pennsylvania. The papers told him which way Lee was moving. He found confusion in Philadelphia. There was no provost guard to pick him up and ask questions: no citizen to suspect him of being a deserter. He found a place where he could exchange his suit for a uniform and was off for the front an hour from either side, and it was the sergeant's fortune to be gobbled up by Confederate cavalry. He was sent to the rear as a prisoner. He was held until the thunder of the three days' battle was hushed and Lee was falling slowly back on Falling Waters, and then he and hundreds more were headed for the Potomac. The rest is to be found in the history of his company

"As Lee fell back, his retreat incumbered with wounded men, prisoners and a long baggage train, Custer pressed one division of it closely over the mountain roads. There were constant attacks and the Confederates fought bravely to save what they had won. At a point about ten miles from the river, where we made an unusually fierce attack and where the resistance was proving too much for us, a sudden diversion gave us the victory. A Federal sergeant belonging to a Michigan regiment and who was a prisoner in Confederate hands rallied about 400 of his fellow captives, rushed their guards and, with arms thus obtained, made a flank movement and scattered the force opposed to us and came charging through to us. The sergeant brought in the flag of a Confederate regiment that he had captured, and there is no doubt of his promotion for his brave conduct.'

A month later Sergeant Wise was Lieutenant Wise. The order read on dress parade spoke to the regiment of his being captured while on duty at a picket post, of escape and recapture, and recorded his act of capturing the flag and turning on his captors as one of the bravest things in war. The sergeant had not lied or boasted. He had left others to figure out as they wanted to, and they had made the most of it. A year and a half later he was a captain and on his way home to marry the girl who was waiting for

He did not march to her house, nor yet to his, from the depot. He took a contrary direction until he brought up before the house of the man who had held his honor in his hands. Then things happened. A year later the justice of the peace would have called it felonious assault, and jail might have been the consequence, but Lee had surrendered, the war was over, and the home coming veterans owned the country. The wife has never known.

No human being except the sergeant's chum has ever known. It was a race between honor and disgrace, and M. QUAD. honor won.

KNIFE OF SLAYER

May Lead to Fresh Legal Battle Over Page Murder

STATEMENT OF HARRIS

Considered Absurd by Doctor Who Examined Body of Victim, Which Man Who Changed His Mind Had Never Seen

Boston, May 23 .- The recent utterances of Medical Examiner Harris, regarding his change of mind as to the kind of knife used by the murderer of Mabel Page, will probably lead to another legal battle before Judges Sheldon and Sherman and also before Governor Guild. It is the general belief that the clothing worn by the victim at the time she was killed, together with photographs of the slashed garments will play an important part in the final

There were three physicians who saw and examined the body of Miss Page and not one of them offers the slightest endorsement to the statement of Har ris. Former Medical Examiner Mead of Watertown and Dr. Wood of Waltham, two of the three who examined the body, refuse to make any statemen relative to the matter, except to declare that their opinions remain as advanced upon the witness stand. Dr. Frost of Weston, the first physician to reach the Page house after the murder, comes out, however, in direct contradiction to the startling statement of Harris. He says in part:

"Medical Examiner Harris never even looked upon the body of Mabel Page, and for him to come out at this time or, in fact, any other time with such a statement as he has made re garding the kind of knife which was used in the murder of the woman is nothing more or less than tommyrot. The position which Dr. Harris takes is nothing short of absurd, for the very point which he attempts to make about point which he attempts to make about the knife being a double-edged one was conclusively disproved without question at the trial by the testimony of the various medical experts, but particularly by the late Professor Wood.

"All the work that Dr. Harris did on the case was conducted by means of measurements and descriptions taken from the report of the autopsy, and, at the best, such descriptions as could be given, even by the three doctors who were present, would be entirely inadequate for a real working basis.

"I consider it a serious fallacy for Dr. Harris or anyone else to reason on the strength of such descriptions as could be given, and his statement as to the double-edged knife being used is unquestionably proved dead wrong by two very strong points which were brought out in the testimony. "These are the condition of the corsets, which Professor Wood's testimony called particular attention to; and the called particular attention to; and the condition of the ensiform cartilage in comparison with the sixth and seventh ribs, which, as a matter of fact, are not of bone substance, but rather of cartilage, the same as the ensiform cartilage, shows beyond any reason that the knife was a one-edged affair. "No one can go back of the knowledge of those who saw and touched the body of Mabel Page, and it certainly is not right to attempt to go back of such knowledge when one knows of the conditions only by description. "It is to be regretted that a man will do such a thing as Dr. Harris has done, yet I have no doubt in my own mind that he is sincere in what he says and does. He stands up and says that he can prove it, and I believe I have the same right to stand up and say he cannot prove it. He has been conducting private autopsies on bodies which have been dead a reasonable length of time, but at that he is making his experi-ments on the descriptions furnished,

"With the exception of the form of the body, there is not one condition of a corpse which Dr. Harris could get hold of that would be in any way like that of the body of a well developed, healthy woman like Mabel Page, and it is my belief that should a person be allowed to experiment on the body of a live woman a hundred times they could never make exactly the same thrust that the murderer of Mabel Page did."

Constable P. J. McAuliffe, the most Intimate friend for many years of Mabel Page's father, declares that the latter insisted up to his last days on earth that his daughter was killed by Tucker, in his (Page's) oft-expressed opinion. Harold Page is also quoted as having insisted that Tucker is guilty

A result of the poll of the Tucker jury, on the question of whether the new evidence would change their votes, if Tucker's fate were again submitted to them, was taken to decide one way or another the widespread understanding that some members of the jury now thought there was doubt as to Tucker's guilt. "Guilty" is their unanimous verdict, in spite of recent developments.

DECEIVING THE VOTERS "Machine" In Congress Is Denounced by a Texan Washington, May 23 .- The so-called Republican "machine" was the subject of a scathing denunciation in the house at the hands of Mr. Randall (Tex.), who said that the leaders of the house who constitute and run the "machine" had done absolutely nothing except to make hypocritical pretense as to some things and to unbulshingly advocate the "stand-pat" doctrine in other things.

"The completeness with which the Republican party has deserted the people's interests is apparent in its treatment of every vital question before congress," said Randall. He was of the opinion that the concentration of wealth was a greater menace to free government than all the armed hosts or its enemies.

He said the attitude of the Republican party toward the territories is another proof that it is unworthy to rule. "The sisterhood of states," said Randall, "should make common cause in rebuking the cruel and outrageous crime committed by the Republican party. Impelled by fear, the machine may yet admit one state, but the people will understand the motive and should not tay the hand of retribution.

"The machine leaders have been and are deceiving the great mass of voters who put them in power. The rank and file of the Republican party wants justice, and if only they would examine the record of their representatives the avenging hand of an outraged constituency would strike down these stand-pat statesmen and have a new deal as well as a square one."

BOSTON LETTER.

Twelve o'Clock Bill a Law When Accepted by Boston.

KELIHER WILL RUN AGAIN.

Ninth District Congressman to Be Opposed by Mayor.

The agony over the 12 o'clock bill is at an end. The measure, which was based on the recommendation of Governor Guild, permitting the issuing of licenses to 29 hotels in Boston to sell liquor to their guests from 11 p. m. until to be accurate and pungent. The acmidnight, has now passed both branches curacy of his aim and the truth of his of the legislature and received the ex- statements seem to be corroborated by

There has been a tremendous battle since the plan was originated for the passage of this bill. There was a strong demand for this legislation from the merchants and business men of Boston. It was felt by many that the existing law made Boston a provincial city, injured it in the eyes of the country, and worked against it in a business way

The first measure introduced provided for the licensing by the excise board of an unlimited number of hotels in Boston to sell from 11 p. m. until midnight. It also applied to all other cities in the state having a population of 45,-000 or upwards. The referendum was attached to this measure and, consequently, it did not become a law with reference to any city until accepted by its voters. The cost of this license to hotels holding a hotel license was $500 in addition to the regular fee.

Original Bill Unsatisfactory This measure was bitterly fought by the temperance people but finally Braintree, sged 55 years, daughter of the passed both branches of the legislature and went to the governor. It did not might receive this license was not limter discussing the measure with some of the legislators, the senate recalled the bill and an effort was made to reconsider its enactment. It required unanimous consent to do this, and it was not possible to secure it. Consequently, the senate held the bill and the governor sent in a message recommending the passage of such a measure as he could approve. This message was referred to the committee on liquor law, bill is the one which has passed both ployment. branches of the legislature and just been signed by the governor. It is acple of the commonwealth represented at the state house.

In fact the temperance people have governor for his action in the matter, as the measure which he sidetracked ous to them.

Business Methods Best

It appears that business methods rather than bysteria are adaptable even to dealing with the victims of misfortune. When the news of the San Francisco horror reached Boston there was instant sympathy manifested with the sufferers in a material way by the contribution of cash and supplies for immediate necessities.

Lieutenant Governor Draper was one of the leading men on the relief committee and Mayor Fitzgerald was another. Mr. Draper is a conservative business man and believes that business should be done in a business way. The volatile mayor is not built on that plan. An idea comes to him, and he turries to carry it out without stopping to reason out the whys and wherefores or the advisability thereof.

During the first days after the San Francisco quake there were loud and insistent calls for blankets for the homeless people of the Golden Gate. Great quantities of blankets were forwarded The following parcel of land with the build- the following morning, as his informaings thereon, situated in that part of said tion was to the effect that San Franceived from San Francisco that the blanket market was heavily overstocked out there, and that about half of those on hand were to be returned. Since then there has been a general quaintance.

ecognition of the value of common sense in every department of business.

The Supersensitive Mayor Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston seems to be very sensitive to newspaper criticism. Some time ago a Boston newspaper published the fact that it had cost $3572 to paint six rooms in city hall, including the mayor's two offices. The cost for painting the mayor's inner office was $1159. The newspaper in question called attention to the fact that it cost, at the state house, to paint the governor's private office, $197, the two rooms being of nearly the same di-

This and other criticism evidently stirred up the mayor quite seriously, and in his weekly newspaper he has made a personal attack upon that city hall reporter and the daily newspaper in question. This reporter has been covering city hall for nearly a decade and probably has a better knowledge of what is going on within its walls than any other man in it, regardless of whether he is a city official or a visitor. His articles on the conduct of affairs in the hall have been acknowledged the fact that they have touched a tender

For a man who is so free to criticise others, the mayor shows an extreme sensitiveness to adverse criticism that is hardly compatible with his position

There is likely to be an extremely interesting fight in the Ninth congressional district this fall. This is a solidly Democratic district. Congressman John A. Keliher is a candidate for renomination, and Mayor Fitzgerald is sworn to defeat him. The mayor in sists that Mr. Keliher is not a Demo crat and insinuates that he was friendly last fall to the candidacy of former Speaker Louis A. Frothingham for

The opposition of Mr. Fitzgerald to the renomination of Mr. Keliher will cut both ways. There are several thousand Democrats in Boston who were led to believe last fall that if Mr. Fitzgerald were elected they would be taken care of on the city payrolls. Every disappointed office-seeker will get out and hustle for Mr. Keliher, and it is a question if the opposition of the mayor will not be a decided benefit to the candidacy of the congressman.

Governor Guild Helped Kill It There has been quite a lively time for the last few days over the attempt in congress to pass a bill providing that the chains, anchors and some other naval supplies, now made in this navy yard, should hereafter be manufac tured by private contractors. The measure has been killed in con gress, but before that was accomplish ed Governor Guild had communicated with Senators Lodge and Crane and the members of the Massachusetts delegation in congress, asking them all to register the most emphatic protest against this change, as it would deprive which speedily reported a bill, and this a large number of mechanics of em-to the governor for his efforts. The Massachusetts house is just now investigating the charges of bribery made against it in connection with the defeat of the bucket shop bill. The committee on rules has entered upon this work, and may cut out District Attorney Moran, who started to bring the matter to the attention of the grand jury, and then dropped the matter for a month. The hearings before the rules committee are private, and so far but little has been developed.

Street Railway Agreement

Several of the locals of the street rail way unions on the Oll Colony system have already acted upon the agreement reached between the officials and the delegates and ratified the same.

It is understood that under the new agreement is granted an increase of wages, the sliding scale of payment be ing retained, and the periods of service for additional pay decreased. Pit men, those who repair cars, are given an increase of 5 percent and time and a half when compelled to work after midnight. The union is virtually recognized and the agreement specifies that there shall not be a strike or lockout and that all differences resulting to wages shall be arbitrated, the company and union to each name a man and they select a third. The decision of this board shall be final.

The agreement runs for two years, and, though going into effect June 1, is dated Oct. 1, and will expire Sept. 30,

Wages of carmen hereafter will be as follows: First six months, 20 cents an hour; second six months, 21 cents; second, third and fourth years, 22 cents; fifth, sixth and seventh years, 23 cents; eight and ninth years, 24 cents; tenth year and thereafter, 25 cents.

No change is made in the hours, they remaining 10 out of 12.

Men working on snowplows are given an increase. The motorman will receive 30 cents an hour and the other men 25 cents, no matter what rate they receive for their regular work.

The agreement states that the com pany cannot compel employees to join the union, but guarantees no discrimination against union members. It also states that if a member refuses to pay tasteful to the company. This was as far as the company would go in regard to recognizing the union, but the men to recognizing the union, but the men

A BLOOD RED LAKE.

Peculiarity Manifested by a Sheet of Water In Switzerland.

Lake Morat, in Switzerland, has a queer habit of turning red about two or three times every ten years. It is a pretty lake, like most of the sheets of threatened boycott of American goods.' water in that picturesque country, and Its peculiar freak is attributed to a disposition to celebrate the slaughter of the Burgundians under Charles the Bold on June 21, 1476, but the French say that it blushes for the conduct of the Swiss, who in that battle gave the Burgundians no quarter.

It More Closely Resembles the Gondola Than Any Other Craft.

Crawford, the author, to whose skillful pen Constantinople is indebted for one of the most charming volumes ever issued in its praise, has a word to say about the Turkish boatmen and their vehicle, the kaik.

"Constantinople owes much," writes he, "to the matchless beauty of the three waters which run together beneath its walls, and much of their reputation again has become worldwide by the kaik. It is disputed and disputable whether the Turks copied the Venetian gondola or whether the Venetians imitated the Turkish kaik, but the resemblance between them is they have a common origin. Pennsylvania Railroad Stockholders Want Investigation of Details Surrounding Certain Large Contracts

Philadelphia, May 24.—Further revelations concerning stockholdings in soft coal mining companies by officials of the Pennsylvania railroad were made when the interstate commerce commission resumed its investigation into the alleged discrimination by railroads in the distribution of cars. Three high officials of the railroad, First Vice President Green, Third Vice President Rea. and William A. Patton, assistant to the president at Philadelphia, were the important witnesses of the day.

Mr. Patton was under examination for a long time and was an unwilling witness. The persistent questioning of Attorney Glasgow for the commissi however, brought out the fact that Pat ton had acquired stock, the par value of which is $307,000, in various coal companies, without cost to himself. He explained, however, that he had signed notes obligating himself for his share of the losses and declared his belief that it was proper for him to accept the stock under those conditions.

Vice President Rea read a statement to the commission in which he explained all of his stock transactions, stating that he did not believe he was debarred from such ownership because of his connection with the railroad company Rea said that most of his stock was ac juired through his associations with nd purchasing syndicates, which took p the coal properties for development

Vice President Green said that 20 or 30 years ago it was not considered improper for an official of the railroad to own coal company stock, but that conditions had changed and such holdings might not now be regarded in the same light as formerly. He informed the commission that the board of directors of the Pennsylvania railroad, acting upon the information that had been brought out at the hearings, had yesterday appointed a committee of five directors to make an investigation into the connection of its officials with coal companies. Green said he did not own any coal company stock.

Other witnesses testified to stock ownership and to discrimination in the distribution of cars.

Chairman Knapp, former Senator Cockrell and Judson C. Clements conducted the hearing. Last night Clements left for Cleveland, where he will join Commissioner Prouty to conduct the hearings in the oil investigation. As a result of the investigation minority stockholders of the Pennsylvania railroad are said to be considering plans to bring about a more therough probing through the state legislature. Tells His Story of an Attempt to Buy His Vote

WAS $50 IN IT FOR HIM

"Dark-Haired" Man Was Trying to Secure Fifty Votes Against Bucket Shop Bill In Bay State Legislature

Boston, May 24.-Representative Jacob H. Mock of Boston was before the bribery investigating committee at the state house for over two hours yesterday. He swore that the member of the house of representatives who tried to bribe him to vote against the antibucket shop bill told him he had a list of 50 men whom he intended to pay to vote against the bill. He gave the committee the name of the member who approached him with an offer of Representative Mock is serving his first year as a member of the lower branch, and he is a member of the committee on elections and the committee on taxation. He is strongly in favor of a wide-open investigation, and that i the reason he gives for telling the news papers his story before he gave it to the committee. In giving his story to the newspapers he said:

"I favor the greatest publicity of such evidence as I have. When I recall the forenoon of May 3 (the day that the motion to reconsider the rejection of the anti-bucket shop bill was defeated) and when I recall what happened to me in the corridor of the state house. I am unable to keep silent.

"I had left the chamber and was walking through the corridor. A grtain gentleman, the 'dark-haired' man of whom so much has been said, was standing in one of the entrances to the gallery of Memorial hall. He spoke to me. He said 'there is a man in you ward anxious to have the bucket shop bill licked. They are trying to get 50 votes. Can I put you down as one of the 50 against it?' Then he leaned over and whispered in my ear: 'There's $50 in it if you say so.' .

"Of course, I did not accept. I was so astonished that I walked away and left him standing there. It was the first time that anything like that has ever occurred to me, and I was astound

"And the man"-the reporter asked and was interrupted-

"Was a member of the house of representatives," was the earnest reply. "And you are going to tell your story to the committee?"

"I am. "And you are going to give that mem ber's name?

The representative paused for a moment and then added: "If they ask me for the name I will

Mock did not think that the "offer' was made in any spirit of flippancy or in jest. He believed it a real, serious offer of money from a member of the

When he emerged from the commitby the re porters. He refused to talk. The committee also declined to tell the reporters anything. Both they and Mock looked pretty serious. It is understood, notwithstanding the reticence of all the parties, that Mock repeated before the committee the story as published in the foregoing interview; also that he was asked the name of the representative to whom he had referred in that interview and that he gave a name-that of the "dark-haired" man There are obvious legal reasons why that name should not be printed. Representative Swig of Taunton, whose alleged statements and subse quent denial started the investigation. has been before the committee, but it was at a preliminary hearing. At that preliminary hearing, at which he was not under oath, Swig denied that he had made the statement originally attrib uted to him by a Boston newspaper, just as he had previously denied it when he rose to a question of persona privilege on the floor of the house. Swig has yet to testify under oath.

No Authorized Book of Forms Des Moines, May 24.-The debate over the proposed Presbyterian book of forms ended in the general assembly here in a compromise in which all words that might indicate that the book is authorized were stricken from the resolutions and the text and title pages of the book. The assembly virtually thus rescinded the action of the three pre ceding assemblies in which progressive steps were taken for an authorized book of forms. Naval Officers Must Explain

Weston Does Ninety-Two Miles

Under Twenty-Four Hours New York, May 24.-Edward P. Weston, the old-time pedestrian, now nits thereof, and shall pay to such Inspector | in 23 hours and 30 minutes, a distance of 92 miles, thus beating his own record made a quarter of a century ago. Weston was the winner of the Ashley belt, and one of the most noted pedestrians of his day. He left the city hall in Philadelphia at 12:05 yesterday hed |-morning.

Weston had for three days been under the care and examination of Drs. Smith, Taylor and Lee of New York. His tour was really in the interests of science, although the old man did it for sport and a consideration. The surgeons, in order to be positive of their results, weighed and measured every atom of food eaten by Weston for two days before he began his walk.

Repeatedly Weston has been the subject of scientifies investigation to determine the condition of metabolism during prolonged and severe muscular work, and he was accompanied by the physicians in an automobile, who carefully studied him throughout his long

It is believed by some physicians that muscular fatigue is due to the accumulation of certain acids in the muscles, and experiments have been made with the object of finding some antidote. In 1870 Dr. Flint made a study of Weston's condition, and his results will be closely compared with those obtained on the present trip. Weson's most famous feat was walking from Portland, Me., to Chicago, covering from 70 to 80 miles daily.

A Call Down For Taft Washington, May 24.-Former Chief Engineer Wallace of the isthmian canal has addressed a letter to Chairman Millard of the committee on interoceanic canals, in reply to Secretary Taft's recent testimony before the committee, in which he charges Taft with having abused his official position in order to make a second assault upon him and to place in a public record statements "calculated and apparently intended to affect my reputation for veracity, such as he would not make to me as one man to another, face to face." The Secrecy Causes Surprise

All were surprised at the federal building, says the Herald, that the government had disposed of so important a case as the Fisher-Betts case, on which one of the defendants was given a sentence of seven years' imprisonment, by placing the indictments on file.

No small part of the surprise was due to the fact that the government had kept the filing of the indictments a secret. The matter was attended to personally by Melvin O. Adams, just before he retired from the position of United States attorney. Mr. Adams says that it probably "just happened" that nothing was said about the case at the time it was disposed of.

The official statement of the reason for placing the case on file is set forth in the typewritten motion filed by Mr. Adams at the time action was taken on them. The document says in part:

"Since the former trial of these indictments the case of the government has been weakened by the disappearance of certain material witnesses. In addition to this, the co-defendant, Fisher, who testified in behalf of the government at the former trial, is no longer in this district, and his whereabouts are at least most uncertain.

"In view of the situation in a case where the indictments were found in October, 1901, and where the alleged offences were committed a considerable period prior to that time, it would seem that the public would be best subserved by placing the indictments on file."

Quincy and New York Are Leading

It will probably be some days yet before the returns are all in from the vote taken May 15, by the branches of the granite cutters union throughout the country on the location of the headquarters of the Union for the next five years. The indications now are that there will have to be another ballot.

There were seven places in the field after the headquarters, namely: Quincy Mass.; Boston, Mass.; New York, N. adorned his estate with an imported Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Milford, Mass.; and Washington, D. C. A majority vote is necessary to debetween the two places having the largest vote. The present indications tonstall of Braintree was held this af- are that the second vote will be between NAVAL DISCIPLINE.

Punishments That Are Meted Out to British Sailors.

For infraction of regulations some curious punishments are meted out in the English navy. It is an everyday occurrence, says London Tit-Bits, to see half a dozen sailors lined up on deck facing the paint work, holding their hammocks on their shoulders. At first the hammock isn't heavy, but after an hour or so it drags on one's shoulders like lead. Besides, it is not at all entertaining to stare fixedly at a square foot of painted woodwork for an hour or more at a time.

Another punishment that Jack despises is bailing with a spoon. He is placed upon the deck, with two large wooden buckets, one filled with water and the other empty. With a spoon he must dip all the water from one bucket and transfer it to the other, being, meanwhile, the butt of his comrades' jests and jeers.

Sometimes a delinquent is made to walk slowly backward and forward Monohan, c, along the deck, nursing in his arms a six inch projectile, weighing a little over 100 pounds. Once a sailor, who laughed at the stammering speech of his commander, was made to stand up- Beaching, 2b on the forebridge, in full view of the Hunt, If, ship's crew, and laugh for an hour and Spitting upon the deck of a man-ofwar is strictly prohibited. Cuspidors are placed at intervals along the deck, and these must be used. Upon some ships, when a sailor is caught spitting Kay, If, upon the deck, a small tub is strapped McKenzie, p. to his chest, and he is made to wear it. Any one who chooses may use this walking receptacle. The offender thus punished rarely repeats his offense.

A POTTERY TOWN.

Chingtechen Is Unlike Any Other Place In China.

at least 900 years the town Chingtechen, in China, has been devoted to the making of pottery. Everything in Chingtechen belongs to the porcelain and earthenware industry. The houses are for the most part built of fragments either of old kilns or of the fire clay covers in which the porce lain is stacked during firing. The river bank is for miles covered with deep stratum of broken chinaware and chips of fire clay, and the greater part of the town and several square miles of the surfounding country are built over or composed of a similar deposit. Chingtechen is unlike anything else in China. The forms, the color, the materials used in the buildings, the atmosphere, are reminiscent of the poore parts of a civilized industrial center There are 104 large pottery kilns in the town. The greater part are in use only for a short season in the summer. During this busy season the population of Chingtechen rises to about 400,000 souls, but of this total nearly half are laborers drawn from a wide area of country, who come for the season, live in rows of barracklike sheds and do not bring their familles with them. Visitors to Chingtechen pass along street after street where every shop is occupied by men, women and children, all engaged in the designing, molding, painting or distributing of pottery. The river bank is crowded for three niles by junks either landing material and fuel or shipping the finished prod-

Maund and Maunder.

Neither maund, a basket, nor maunder, to whine or grumble, is obsolete Both are still in common use in South Notts and Leicestershire, at any rate. is nearly square in shape and has two lids opening from the middle part, where the handle is, and it is called the "butter mawn" (maund). Maunder is usually heard in such sentences as 'What are you maundering at?" A Northumbrian will say, "He's a maunlering old fool," when the man of whom he is speaking strings words together in a senseless sort of way somewhat akin to maudling.-London Notes

The Color of the Ermine. It is a popular idea that the ermine sheds its brown summer coat and that on the approach of winter a covering of snowy white fur takes its place. This was a natural conclusion, as a possibility of a change in the color of the fur had not occurred to scientists. Experiments, however, have been made, and the brown coated ermine has been placed in a very low temperature. Almost immediately a change was visible in the color of the fur, and without shedding the creature became snowy white.

Smiles.

There are many kinds of smiles, each having a distinct character. Some announce goodness and sweetness; others betray sarcasm, bitterness and pride; some soften the countenance by their languishing tenderness; others brighten by their spiritual vivacity .-Lavater.

Threats.

I consider it a mark of great prudence in a man to abstain from threats or any contemptuous expressions, for neither of these weaken the enemy, but threats make him more cautious and the other excites his hatred and a desire to revenge himself .- Machiavelli,

Too Sweet. Mrs. Beach-Here is a letter from Charles. Mr. Beach-Read it. Mrs. Beach (reading)-My dearest, darlingest mother. Mr. Beach-Great heavens! The scoundrel needs more money.

He Was the Limit. Gladys-Yes, she is going to take him for better or worse. Don't you think she is foolish? Dolly-No; he couldn't be worse!-New York Press.

Mt. Wollaston Cemetery Never More Attractive

ful spots in Quincy, than Mt. Wollaston emetery. It is indeed a beautiful spot, and never more so than at this season of the year. For a number of years the cemetery has been under the care of James Nicol, who has proven a most efficient official. The cemetery has improved wonderfully under his management and his selection as superntendent was a wise one.

Just at the present time he and his orps of assistants are bending every ffort to get everything in readiness for the cemetery, although there are scores of visitors every day.

The cemetery certainly never looked better than it does today. Nature has done much to make the place beautiful, but that of itself would not be sufficient. For several years it has been the policy of the managers to place the lots, as far as possible upon what is known as the lawn plan. It is impossible to do this all at once. Every year, however, more lots are being placed under this plan and so marked is the improvement that orders for this work are constantly being received, and it will not be many years before all of the lots have been placed on this plan.

The only drawback to the cemetery t the present time is the ground bebefore another year.

The cemetery is suffering for rain and good long shower would do a great mount of good. While the lots are watered by a lawn hose no amount of water applied this way will do the good bat a few hours rain would.

During the past year a number of new monuments have been erected. These FRANK FESSENDEN CRANE, Auctioneen are largely on the Greenleaf street side. ne of the largest is that erected to the memory of the late James Nightingale. This memorial is sarcophagus in shape and is cut of white Westerly granite. Another large memorial is that on the oblong base and die, and is cut in die monument of the sarcophagus design in Quincy granite.

placed on the Dr. C. S. French lot. On the lot of Charles L. Coe there is another handsome memorial. This has a polished die and second base.

A simple but striking memorial is that erected to the memory of Friend Crane. It is a rough boulder. Upon the face there is a finished panel apon which the name Friend Crane has been By CHARLES H. BURGESS, Auctioneen carved in raised letters.

Near by are memorials on the Daniel F. Tinney lot, the John Hector lot, Philip & Halvosa, John C. Hall and Charles E. Jones. Near the centre of the cemetery are the memorials of William Packard, the Levi Crane and on the Craig lot.

Besides these there are a large number of small markers that have been placed at the head of graves. It is probable that there will be other monuments set before Memorial Day.

Fire Alarms Were Numerous

Two bell and two still alarms was Tuesday's fire department record. The first alarm was a still and came at noon phone, and driving to the house extinguished the fire himself with a few shovel fulls of earth. No loss.

The centrel station apparatus was called out on a still alarm at 8.40 Thursday morning for a chimney fire at 40 Union street.

At 2.27 P. M., an alarm was sounded from Box 39. This was for a fire in an outbuilding of William Smith off Penn street. The building joined the charcoal sheds of the Quincy Charcoal company, but was extinguished before the fire had communicated with the charcoal. The fire was probably caused by some smoker. Loss $10.

The alarm from Box 41 at 8.23 in the evening was the most serious of the day, and but for the prompt and efficient work of the department would have been disastrous. The fire was in a shed attached to the house of Arthur P. Wentworth at 65 Granite street, in the part occupied by Mrs. Beatrice Potterfield. It was caused by an oil stove taking fire. When the department arrived a brisk blaze was in progress, and it looked serious. Systematic work on the part of the firemen, however, checked the blaze and confined it to the shed where it started. The loss will not exceed $150.

Gov. Guild has made a good selection for police commissioner of Boston in Stephen O'Meara, the former editor and manager of the Boston Journal. He is well acquainted with the city and public affairs. He is in the prime of life, and has been successful in the newspaper field. It is a difficult position to fill, to please a Republican State administration and a Democratic city govern ment. Could Mr. O'Meara be independent and have the support of the newspapers, Boston would have an im proved police department.

The Disease Has Its Dangers-Should Be Taken in Time.

Rheumatism has long been regarded as a rouble which, while it might be painful, was not necessarily dangerous. Very few persons t was thought, ever died from Rheumatism it was thought, ever died from Rheumatism Recent investigation among scientists has proved, however, the utter fallacy of such a belief. Three-fourths to seven-eights of the sudden deaths, heart failures, etc., are due primarily to neglected rheumatism. The Rheumatic Acid Poison is allowed to stay in the system until suddenly one day it grips the muscles of the heart and all is over. the muscles of the heart and all is over.

Rheumatism is curable if the proper treatment is used. Liniments, plasters and all local applications may relieve the pain for a short time, but no one ever heard of their permanently curing a case of rheumatism. The only way to cure Rheumatism is the Uric-O way. Neutralize the Rheumatism is the Uric-O does. No matter what is the kind of character of the Rheumatism, it is all caused by the same Rheumatism, it is all caused by the same Rheumatic poison. The governor has called a special meeting of the council and will ask his advisory board for authority to request the supreme court of the commonwealth for an opinion on the question of law suggested by Vahey. As admitted by Vahey, the practice for many years has been for governors to refer to the executive council only such petitions as they saw fit. [Copyright, 1906, by C. J. Hirt.] On shipboard from Australia to London I became friendly with George Brisbane, a consumptive, going home to die. He told me that his partner had "jumped" him and robbed him of a fortune. A London lawyer had written him offering a small sum in settlement. On the strength of this offer, backed to do. A day later Brisbane was dead.

I decided to call on the lawyer who had written the letter as the first move. The man was a shyster lawyer. who was moving about when a place got too hot for him, and I had to get a private detective to locate him. This took a week. When I got at the lawyer at last I judged him to be a rascal. He was very offensive at the start, but when I brought up the New Zealand matter he calmed down and was ready to talk about a settlement. He claimed that his client was in Paris, and another week was wasted. The name of Brisbane's defaulting partner was Saunders, and when at last he showed up by appointment I knew the two for a pretty pair of rascals.

We had it red hot for half an hour, and then he cooled down and we got to talking business. He soon became as humble as he had been boisterous, and it was agreed that the three of us should have a further talk that evening at the lawyer's house. It was the lawyer who suggested the evening meeting, as he would have a case out of town next day and wanted to get my affair in shape as soon as possible. I was to call at 307 Beacon street, in the east end of London. As the distance from my hotel was all of five miles, I was invited to take the underground. which ran within half a block of the

While I didn't like the looks of the two men, I apprehended nothing further from them than an attempt to 'sharp" me. It was to be expected that they would beat the figures down as low as possible and bluff to the last, but I felt perfectly safe from anything like personal assault. I took the underground and was caught in an accident by which I was detained twenty minutes. I reached Beacon street to find it street of mean terraces. It was a dark and rainy night, the street ill lighted, and all the people living on the first block seemed to be snug within

I hurried along to the number wanted and got it from counting ahead from 295. It was a two story brick house, but showed no light at any window. There were six steps to go up, and I was about to ring the bell when I found the door ajar. I pushed it wide open and looked into the hall, but Office at C. F. Pettengill's, 1391 Hancock all was dark. I called out, but received Residence. 78 Cleverly Court, Quincy Point no answer. I heard some one coming down the street at a slow pace, and as the figure of a policeman loomed up I

"I'm new to this beat, and I can't tell you offhand," he replied, "but we'll

"Are you running away from your landlord, that you have to hire another house by night? "What do you mean?"

"Why, it's to lease. Don't you see the sign in the window?" Sure enough there was a sign. I had out the number down in my notebook, but it was an empty house I had been told to call at. I was puzzling over it when the officer asked:

takers along here."

"Who did you want to find?" "A lawyer named Jacobs. He said he lived here." "I don't know Jacobs," he said, "but he was a liar when he told you what he did. If you have any dealings with a man by that name look out for yourself. Hello, some one has left the door open. That's like most of the care-

He pulled the door to and we de scended the steps together, and I went back to the hotel feeling that I had been done. I could do nothing until the next morning, and then I had reasons for deciding to do nothing. The morning papers contained an account of a murder at 307 Beacon street. It seemed that about an hour after I left the officer the door blew open again, and when he went to close it he flashed his lantern in the hall and found a dead man. The victim had been struck with a bludgeon and his skull crushed, and he had died almost immediately. I was brought into the case as having talked with the officer and made inquiries after Jacobs, but no good description was given of me, while it had been ascertained that Jacobs had fled.

The case was called a great mystery by the police, and no arrests were made in it. I knew how it was, however. Some one had called to make an inquiry about the time I was expected, and Saunders, who was stationed in the hall with a bludgeon, had struck him down, thinking it was me. The man must have been a stranger to London, as the body was not identified. I simply had nothing to say, did no more hunting after Jacobs and after a few weeks the case was heard of no more. The papers were sent to Brisbane's mother, but I never heard that she did anything with them. M. QUAD.

To this Towne replied that if he had been content to swallow the prescription given him by the Republican party he would still be in the Republican ranks with 10,000 Republican majority at his back.

"When he came into office he had prominence that no elective magistrate the history of the world has had. It gave him a chance to recognize that the vote of the people was in the nature of a plebescite, as a vote of public confidence, substituting him in that sense as a direct popular representative instead of the ordinary representative legislative body. In that attitude he could and did choose his allies to carry out ideas of legislation that he enter-

"What is one of the results? Henceforth our fight is against the Republican party and its iniquity and Roosevelt is out of the way. Panhandle Jack, the famous fox terrier known to thousands of employees of the Pennsylvania railroad, is soon going to travel from Chicago around the world, says a special dispatch from Chicago to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Officials of the road are arranging the trip and say their Jack will be the first dog to circle the globe alone. They believe Jack will not be lost, but will take as good care of himself as a person and get home safe and sound.

At the latter port a steamer plying between there and Calcutta will be taken, and Jack will soon find himself in the metropolis of India. Across India to Bombay by rail Hancock will be the next step, and there the tramp dog will be placed aboard a steamer that will carry him through the Red sea and by way of the Suez anal to Port Said.

France will be visited by rail. The plan is to have Jack placed aboard a steamer at Bordeaux, France, and then proceed to England, sailing from Liverpool to New York city, and from the latter point to Richmond.

"The first six miles I made in just 30 minutes, and then I began running in earnest, making ten miles in 56 minutes. Then Blake was seized with a cramp. Shortly after I gained the lead all the other runners were out of my sight.

ORIGIN OF SLANG PHRASE.

Michigan Professor Claims Dickens Originated "Twenty-three."

That Charles Dickens, the great English novelist, is responsible for the ori gin of the prevalent slang phrase, "23," dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer. The latest theory is advanced by Professor Newton Scott, head of the department of rhetoric in the University of Michigan. In writing of the phrase Professor

Scott says:

"It is quite possible that the expression was drawn from a sentence in the closing chapter of Dickens' 'A Tale of Two Cities.' The last scene depicts the National champion, defeated Miss. Mary execution of Sidney Carton, the hero. B. Adams of Wollaston, in an uphill As the line of those condemned to die contest by 1 up, having been down from advances slowly toward the guillotine the second to the 15th hole inclusive, the women count the victims. Messages For Thirty Miles. Officers assigned to the bureau of equipment of the United States navy have under observation a "pocket wireless telegraph" device which, they believe, when worked out, will be capable of accurate service over an arc of thirty miles, while weighing not more than two pounds, says a Washington correspondent of the New York

The apparatus as now planned includes a collapsible balloon of thin rubber or similar material capable of each eye by the most approved method without being inflated into an obloid three feet across its greater diameter. The hydrogen gas will be produced by a patent compact cartridge, which is light

At the ground will be a "detector" not larger than the bowl of a corncob pipe. The sender will be of the same size, and the whole apparatus can be packed in the case of a 4 by 5 inch snapshot camera.

Bed and Kitchen In an Auto.

Of all the automobiles ever turned out by French manufacturers the one lately made for Captain Lars Andersen of Boston seems to be entitled to the prize for originality, says a special Paris cable dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald. It is a huge machine fitted up for long tours, and in point of speed equals any of the present day touring cars. The Andersen car is fitted out with reversible furniture. There is a combination bed and bureau that is certainly a work of art, and then there is a cook stove and dining table arrangement that can be hauled out at a moment's notice. The whole machine, in fact, is a kind of miniature hotel on wheels, with accommodations for eating, sleeping, working or idling, according to the fancy of the owner or his guests.

Chief Litchfield Summoned Home In a Hurry Last Evening

Chief Engineer A. L. Litchfield passed his fiftieth birthday yesterday. The day as a whole had been uneventful. There had been no fire alarms, and the rain of the night before was a pretty sure indication that there would be no grass fires in the evening. The group of three bell alarms had been rung and answered, and there was nothing in view. That is to say nothing as far as the Chief knew. There was a little undercurrent moving, however, of which he was made aware later. It was a little after 8 o'clock when the telephone bell in the Central fire station rang sharply. Was it for a fire? No. The words that came through the receiver were that the chief was wanted at home im-The efficiency of Supt. Gleason and mediately and he was to bring Capt. Costa with him.

The Swell From Pleasure Craft Magnificent Race--Cascadilla Wins In School Contest

Boston, May 26.-In a magnificent race, which was fought desperately inch by inch from start to finish, the Cornell 'varsity eight-oared crew defeated the Harvard 'varsity eight on the Charles river by three lengths.

The event, which was the concluding feature of an interesting regatta, was termed by rowing experts as a splendid exhibition of ideal racing by two carefully trained and finely balanced sets of oarsmen, taking into consideration the adverse conditions of wind and water and a bad swell left by pleasure boats which the police had failed to clear from the course. Cornell's official time over the course of 17-8 miles was 10:41 3-5, while Harvard crossed the finish in 10:52 flat.

The big event of the day was witnessed by several thousand people, who assembled at points of vantage on Harlor, Ferguson, Bresnahan and Bower vard bridge, under which the oarsmen rowed, on the Boston sea wall, and at a large grand stand and the Union Boat club, where the 'varsity race finished.

The course was down stream with the tide and against the wind. The crews were given a flying start and both eights caught the water at practically the same moment. Both Harvard and Cornell showed skill in getting away, pulling a slow quarter-stroke, then a half and then a three-quarter until the | danz and Braun. broad full stroke was reached, steadily and powerfully. Then Cornell hit a stroke of 36 at once, while Harvard followed with 35.

The crews held even until the quarter mile, but Cornell forged slightly in the lead until she was a full halflength to the good. At this time both shells were moving easily, without the slightest hang, and both boats were well spaced. At the half, when Cornell was rowing 30 and Harvard two strokes faster to the minute, the Ithacans had increased their lead to one to feel the rough water, while the swell bother the oarsmen badly. Harvard, the siege. being nearer the middle of the river. got a little the worse of the choppy water and the wake left by the pleasure boats. Nevertheless, the Cambridge oarsmen pulled a strong, distance-killing stroke. There was a snap at the beginning of the stroke, while the pull was steady and sure. For her part, Cornell exhibited a slow, steady stroke, which, with the eight oarsmen working in perfect harmony, caused the Cornell shell fairly to bound through the water.

The Cornell method proved itself a posed of. thing of value, for at the three-quarter mile the Ithacans were 11-4 lengths ahead of Harvard. Cornell did this with her stroke of 30, when Harvard was 34. Grad increased and at the mile flag Cornell led by a length and a half. After this Cornell began to spurt. The stroke was pushed up to 34, and so it was held to the very finish.

Coxswain Blagden of Harvard took his cue from his Cornell competitor and increased the Crimson's stroke to 36. The Harvard eight responded manfully and after leaving the 11/2 mile station, where the Ithacans led by 21/2 lengths, strive as hard as she could Cornell could not increase her lead by half : boat length. Enthusiastic cheers went | period the total production of bituup from all sides as the two shells minous coal was 119.361,514 tons. flashed down to the finish line and there was a great demonstration as the Cornell oarsmen speeded past the white flag, the victor in a thrilling race and after a desperate finish by three lengths of their shell. The Harvard men were given an ovation as they rowed by the finish flag, still in good form, and apparently ready for another

Coach Courtney declared that he that the sultan has issued orders that would not approve of Cornell coming to Boston next year because it seemed authorities to exterminate the Greek impossible to obtain a clear river course | bands operating in Macedonia. free from pleasure craft. The swell from these boats, he said, which seemed only a short distance ahead of the shells, bothered both crews practically all the time and made the race an unfair test of the oarsmen's capability. Harvard, he added, had the worst of the conditions.

The 'varshy race was preceded by an eight-oared race between eights Commencement day, June 21, according from the Cascadilla preparatory school to an announcement made at the colat Ithaca, N. BERTIE'S INDECISION

Martha's eyes were troubled as she hung up the receiver.

"Just like Bertie," she mused, taking up her coat, cap and goggles and going slowly up the stairs. "Exactly spend our last afternoon sailing; at finished." noontime he sent a messenger to say he had changed his mind and would come in his automobile; now he telephones that we will go on our wheels to the redwoods."

"Unstable as water, but handsome as expression, that it came. a king-ought to be," was her thought a few minutes later. They were walking down the garden path to the bicycles waiting at the gate.

"Here's a flower for you," he said gayly, stooping to pick a pelargonium. "Fitting symbol of you is this Martha Washington. Not a bit high toned, but smiling alike on the rich and the poor; delicately colored, but sturdy for all that, my Martha.'

She responded absently to his chatter. She was glad he did not seem to expect much, of her in the way of conversation.

"I suppose you have been wondering why I changed my mind so often."

They had walked up hills and wheeled down them and over the level places and along the cool shady path to the redwoods. They were sitting where a streamlet leaped forward to kiss the feet of the ferns; where the redwoods gave out a soothing fragrance. A few steps away was garish sunshine, but here shade and coolness and quiet. Martha's troubled heart heredity and fortunlightened, and she smiled winsomely into Bertie's face.

"Why?" she queried.

"Because I am going to ask you give her time to regain her control. something, and I wanted to choose the best place for it. This is the best of all, isn't it, beloved? I want you to know that I care anything about seeing New York, anyway."

Seventeenth Century Panegyries.

George II. inquired why Milton did not write his "Paradise Lost" in prose. One sympathizes more with Stephen Duck, the peasant poet, who read the great epic over "twice or thrice with a dictionary before he could understand the language." We find ourselves somewhat at a loss to understand the language in which were couched the fulsome panegyrics of the late seventeenth century. Dr. Hill selects two which it would be hard to surpass. The first is Dryden's to Roscommon:

I met James J. When I asked him for the route of and said he hadn't selected it, but believed that there is plenty of room for another track through the wheatfields on the Canadian side of the border. He has great faith in the future of Canada. He said that within the next few years there would be practically a single wheatfield 500 miles square up yonder, yielding an average of twenty bushels to the acre, and another road will then be needed to carry the crops to market. He will haul it not only to Duluth but will turn over a part of his freight to the Grand Trunk at Winnipeg. The Canadian roads are not able to handle the crop now. Quincy is particularly fortunate in its historical setting and has much to attract the tourist who is interested in colonial history. Not only is Quincy the home of two Presidents, a sufficient attraction in itself, but in the homes of house, is contrasted two distinct types of colonial life.

The Charitable Society

The regular monthly meeting of the Quincy Charitable society, was held at the residence of Mrs. Thomas A. Addison, Quincy Point, Monday May 21, at three o'clock. The President was in the chair, and nine members present. Regular business transaction, and new work of extraordinary interest presented. This is the last of a series of profitable sessions held this season, the annual meeting coming in November.

The Quincy Charitable society is one of the oldest organizations of the kind the state, having among its management, during the past and present, people who have worked diligently for the success of its aims, each year, increasing in usefulness, and prosperity. The past year has been one of unusual interest, it being the first year of work, as a body incorporated.

FORTUNE FOR EX-SLAVE.

Noted Kentucky Turfman Bequeathed Farm to Negro Housekeeper.

Aunt Margaret Pryor, Major B. G. Thomas' faithful negro housekeeper, who was his slave until freed by the civil war, has inherited his famous breeding farm, Hira Villa, and all thoroughbred horses left on it at the death of the veteran turfman. The will was probated the other day.

It bequeathes to Aunt Margaret all the property, personal and real, but a codicil dated last December gives to William Howe, a cousin, and to William Howe's daughter and to a daughter and two granddaughters of James school champion in this locality having Howard, deceased, all of Bannockburn, defeated Adams academy, Braintree S. To Edward Frahigh, Thayer academy and Weymouth zier, his friend, he leaves his turf library and his Texas land, and to John Clay, his colored jockey and trainer, and his two sons, $3,000; also to the colored servants $500.

Aunt Margaret gets all that is left after the funeral expenses and debts are paid. Her holdings also include the city residence in which Major Thomas entertained most of the distinguished New York turfmen who came to Kentucky. On the farm are twelve year ling thoroughbred colts and fillies and the brood mares Grace Lee and Siss old. He sold all of his marketable horses last fall.

Pleasure Oil King Takes In Planning New Home Benefits Him.

The work of excavating for a new $500,000 house which John D. Rockefeller intends to build on Kykuit, the highest point on his large estate at Pocantico Hills, N. Y., began the other morning, says a special from Tarrytown, N. Y., to the New York Times.

The mansion will be about 130 feet long and eighty feet wide. It will be surrounded by an inclosed veranda, planned to catch the sun all day, on which Mr. Rockefeller can sit on pleasant days and enjoy sun baths, of which he is very fond.

Mr. Rockefeller has been so busy this spring planning his new house that he has not played any golf at his Tarrytown home. Every detail has been arranged by him. The building will be absolutely fire and water proof. It will be six stories high on the north side and about three stories on the colonial style. On the sixth story will be an observatory

Mr. Rockefeller enjoys the work of planning his home. To a friend one day recently he said:

"I feel better now than I have ever felt in my life. I can travel about my estate with ease and comfort. I now feel like a rich man.'

A Lodge For Cats.

Princess Victoria of Sleswick-Holstein, King Edward's niece, is a great lover of cats, and for her twenty-six pets, many of them champions, she has had a model "cattery" constructed at Cumberland lodge, Windsor park, says a special cable dispatch from London to the New York American. After the princess' own design, Seymour Lodge, as she has named it, is built like a two storied house, with two windows on each floor, the dormitory above, which is reached by a ladder. There is a bed and bedstead for each cat, and these in cold weather are warmed with hot water bottles.

Last of the Blue Flannel Shirt.

The passing of the blue flannel shirt of Uncle Sam's army is foreordained, says the Washington Star. The old familiar garment which has been a source of great comfort to the soldier boys for many years is shortly to give a golf bandicap, and other sports, in way to a shirt of conventional olive drab or khaki shade of the regulation field service uniform now applied also to leggings, hats, gloves, tentage, buttons and insignia and even to scabbards. The reason for the change is that the blue skirt makes a contrast to the uniform, which is an objectionable feature from a military standpoint.

The board of education would not pay his salary, but he continued the work, and for several weeks has opened the school, rung the bell and waited for pupils who came not.

The speaker's voice trembled, and he spoke the last few words with some thing akin to a sob. The two friends sat silent for some time. The commencement procession was forming on the campus, and young men in cap and gown were streaming from the buildings. They were unheeded by the two graduates of thirty years agone.

The two men temporarily abandoned their attempt to arrest Leavitt and returned to New York. They returned here yesterday, however, accompanied by two additional deputies. Leavitt learned of their arrival in town and he once more resorted to his launch to escape the officers. The latter, determined to capture the man if possible, put out in a rowboat and gave chase. According to the officers their progress was interrupted by Leavitt, who drew a revolver and fired a shot which struck the side of the rowboat. Leavitt has the reputation of being a crack shot with a revolver and his pursuers decided that it would be better to avoid the risk of injury. They therefore re-

In the meantime Leavitt sent a message to Sheriff Athorne of York county, calling upon him to protect him from men who, he asserted, were bent upon kidnapping him. The sheriff went out to consult Leavitt, who had anchored his craft to a buoy, and he returned last night and reported that Leavitt had threatened to shoot to kill the first man who attempted to apprehend him. His boat is well stocked and he intends to remain on board indefinitely, or put out to sea if the New York officers decide to pursue him again.

Last evening E. P. Spinney, Leavitt's attorney, arrived in haste and went out to the launch to consult with his client. After a short time he returned to the shore. Leavitt still remained on board his launch, which was moored in the middle of the harbor, and he was said the Hen and Chickens lightship. Big Auto War Now Likely Nomination of Hemery as Driver In French Grand Prix Race Angers Officials of American Association --- He Is Under Suspension Here.

Auguste Hemery, the French automobile driver who was placed under suspension for one year for insubordination at the Ormond-Daytona beach speed carnival in January, has been selected by a well known company as one of its three drivers in the French Grand Prix race, to take place on June

Hemery's term of suspension will not expire until the end of January next. and there is considerable anxiety in American Automobile association circles as to whether or not the Automobile Club of France will permit the recalcitrant driver to take part in the big contest.

The American officials are indignant at his nomination for the race. If he is allowed to go in it there will probably be a severance of relations between the two bodies

Either that or the A. A. A. must face nternal dissension, because the managers of the Florida East Coast association, one of its most important affiliations, have declared unequivocally. that Hemery's punishment must go to the limit set. Hemery's offense, they declare, was aggravated, the more so because it was totally uncalled for. The Florida association conducts the Ormond speed carnival under sanction from the A. A. A., and representatives of the parent body have supervised the racing during the past two years.

There has been no opportunity to judge of the probable attitude of the French racing authorities in such a case as this for the reason that Hemery is the first driver to place himself under the ban of the A. A. A. The A. A. A. was prepared to uphold the suspension visited on Hemery for unbecoming conduct and language in the last Florio cup event in Italy. Had he failed of restoration to good standing he would not have been allowed to compete in the Vanderbilt cup event. It would appear only consistent, therefore, that the European governing bodies should respect the rulings made on this side.

Three makers have already entered for the Grand Prix race. Each firm will start three cars, and M. Darracq, in addition to Hemery, has selected Wagner and Henriot, Heath, winner of the first Vanderbilt race, will drive a car, as also will Teste and Tart. Baras, Lebrun and Barillier are three other drivers already nominated. Baras is an old racing man. Lebrun and Barillier are practical mechanics of the class that produced Demogeot and other successful new drivers. The rules for the Grand Prix have been finally made up, and all that remains is to get government permission to use the Sarthe circuit on June 26 and 27. This would probably have been arranged but for the collapse of the Rouvier cabinet, which necessitated taking up negotiations with the new Sarrien ministry. The previous minister of the interior was in favor of the race, and it is expected that no obstacles will be placed in the way. Each manufacturer will have the right to enter a maximum of three cars. The entrance fee has been placed at $1,000 for each car. The driver may be changed on any car for the second day and the mechanic as often as desired along the route. Any car failing to cover the first day's route within four hours of the first car to finish must be withdrawn. The order of starting on the first day will be decided by draw, and the cars will be ment away at intervals of one minute.

THE CHAMELEON.

t Has Two Complete and Independent Nervous Systems. There are few instances of double birth in which two individuals are in- of patrons of the varieties, heads a capital proseparably joined together, but among animals it is a common occurrence. A Barry will be remembered hereabouts from her 69, Alex Ross won the Massachusetts case in point is the chameleon, long famous for its power of changing color.

> ently of those in the other. Notwithstanding the strictly symmetrical construction of the animal as to its two halves, they move quite independently of one another and convey separate of perception. The consequence is that when the animal is agitated its movements resemble those of two animals, or, rather, perhaps, two halves of animals glued together. Each half wishes to go its own way, and there is no concordance of action. The chameleon, therefore, is the only four legged vertebrate that is unable to swim. It becomes so frightened when dropped into water that all faculty of concentration is lost, and the creature tumbles about as if in a state of intoxication.

The chameleon, moreover, may be fast asleep on one side and wide awake on the other. Cautiously approached at night with a candle so as not to awaken the whole animal at once, the eye turned toward the light will open and begin to move and the corresponding side to change color, whereas the other side will remain for a longer or shorter time in a torpid, motionless and unchanged state with its eye fast shut .-Exchange.

DIET DELUSIONS.

They Come Down to Us From the Old Barbarous Tribes.

Some diet delusions are of most modern date, while others are of most respectable antiquity. Among the latter is that very ancient survival, the notion that particular foods are "good" for particular things or effects.

This is an almost direct descendant of the notion, held with greater or less unanimity by nearly all savage and barbarous tribes, that the flesh or viscera of birds and animals possessing produce the same qualities in those who eat them.

Thus Nero used to banquet on nightingales' tongues in the hope of improving his voice, and the savage cut out and devoured the heart of the bear, the liver of the buffalo, etc., believing that the strength and courage of these animals would thereby be transferred to himself.

It is probable that the most grewsome of ancestral rites-cannibalismwas largely due to the same belief, al- Ice cream and cake was served, after though, of course, in Neanderthal days primitive man would have no more hesitancy about eating his enemy after he had killed him than he would in devouring a bear or a deer.

In fact, the early converts of the missionaries in the South Sea islands time been cannibal.-McClure's Maga- Nelson.

Magyar Music.

Of Magyar art music seems to have gained the widest admiration, and it is certain that musical executants of the first order, and in the case of Liszt of preaching service at 7.30. Preaching by Mr. unique grandeur, have justified part of the expectations with which musical Magyar music can be likened to noth ng more aptly than to the exclusively Hungarian river Theiss. Capricious and majestic, teeming with life and silting up for miles, surrounded by charming floriture of water lilies and alder trees and suddenly again by polsonous marshes and swamps, such is the Theiss, such is Hungarian musicstirring, bewildering, unspeakably saddening, inexpressibly exhilarating. It is the music of rhapsodic souls, of intoxication, of the battlefield, of wild war dances after the victory. But, like the great river, it cannot be regulated. -Nineteenth Century.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

During the final week of the dramatic seaso at the Castle Square Theatre, Dion Boucicault's porting comedy "The Jilt," will be revived for the first time in seven years. It is Boucicault's aim in this play to show in dramatic and striking fashion the deep rooted British craze for racing and the race track, and he has made this idea into a powerful plot that is filled with emotion and humor. Every character in the play lives in a high fever of excitement until the race has been run and won by Phyllis. "The Jilt" is the work of Boucicalt's riper years and it has in it all the qualities of genius that made "The Shaughraun," "The Colleen Bawn," and "London Assurrance" so deservedly popular. The cast at the Castle Square will be headed by Howell Hansel and Lillian Kemble.

EMPIRE |THEATRE.

The manager of the Empire Theatre has cured for its first production at popular prices, the comedy by Henry Arthur Jones, "Mrs. Dane's Defence." An adjournment was then made to the hall of the Yacht clubhouse, where the guests were entertained with violin solos by Master Robert Gunderson, who although but ten years of age is a complete master of the violin. There were also piano solos by Miss Norteman.

The Quincy jurymen at the present term of the Norfolk Superior civil court were suprised to learn today of the critical illness of Judge Maynard. Lost Children In Vacant House

The police were notified Saturday night that two children had been lost; Edward, the 9 year old son of John F. Desmond of 21 Quincy avenue, and James, the 10 year old son of Richard J. Gray of 38 Summer street. The boys were not missed until supper time. A search was immediately instituted and the police were notified to look out for them. The boys' parents searched all night, but were unable to locate them. Early Sunday morning, Willie Holt, a playmate of the missing boys, found them in a vacant house of John Newcomb, near the home of the Desmond boy. It seems that the boys had crawled in through a broken window to investigate, and had fallen asleep. They slept soundly all night.

> St. Petersburg. May 28 .- With breathless anxiety society is awaiting the government's response to the bold action of the lower house of parliament which, in censuring the ministry and demanding its retirement, was like a deliberate slap in the face and a direct challenge which the government, though inclined to prefer its usual policy of temporization and compronise, can hardly avoid meeting.

Parliament has burned the bridge and virtually has taken the step which the French states general did when it transformed itself into a national con vention. By flaunting the fundamenta iaws and practically declaring that i proposes to exercise full parliamentary rights with a responsible ministry it has become in the eyes of the law a revolutionary body and from that position there seems no retreat.

The "No Good" Cat

Once there was a "no good" cat, just a plain, thin, dirty looking cat who spent most of his time asleep in the coal bin in the day time and dodging the bootjacks and coal that were thrown at him at night as he sat and sang on the back fence.

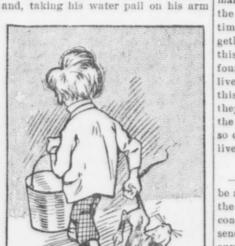

He didn't belong to any one in particular, but he usually slept in Mr. Slipper Slopper's coal bin. So the neighold of Milton were the guests of Mr. bors all came to Mr. Slipper Slopper and said his cat was "stealing their theatricals. Games in the school league will be chickens!" "You're no good," said his master,

Mr. Slipper Slopper when a boy had never learned to swim.

"It's all up with me," he moaned. But the "no good" cat made for home. As he came alone Mrs. Slipper Slopper

If your umbrella is at home, The wise ones keep explaining, It is a most unfailing sign That it will soon be raining. But don't you let them fill your head With such outlandish matter;

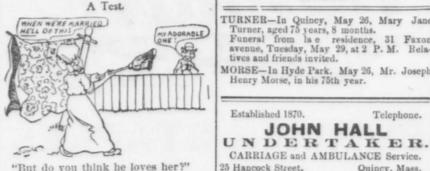

Your shower stick may be miles away And not a drop will patter. It seems so strange that any one Should hold to such a theory, For, if you have a grain of sense, It's bound to make you weary. Investigate, and you will see

It will not hold together, For no umbrella can unmake Or make a bit of weather. And yet you hear some men declare It is a sign unfailing, For if it doesn't rain they know

For sure it will be hailing, Whereas if they had brought along Their battered old umbrella They know the sunshine would Enough to melt a fellow.

It's just as silly as can be To think the great world causes That make the sunshine and the rain For an umbrella pauses. Leave forty thousand of them home

Amounted to $300,000, but Canfield Accepted $130,000

LAWYER GOT $5000 FEE

United States Senator and Others of Social Prominence Were Evidently Frequenters of the Noted Gambling Resort

New York, May 29 .- In the trial of the suit brought by John Delahunty, a lawyer, against Richard S. Canfield for $59,500 for legal services growing out of the raid upon the latter's gambling house here in 1902, Delahunty testified regarding the settlement of three notes for $100,000 each in the possession of Canfield. The name of the maker of these notes was not divulged, he being only described by the witness as "a young man under 21 years of age."

Delahunty said that after prolonged negotiations a compromise was reached and that 1 . had finally received $130, 000 for the notes. Taking this amount in cash to David Bucklin, Canfield's manager, he asked for some money for making the collection. Bucklin had at first suggested that the witness await Canfield's return from Europe, but finally said: "Well, John, I guess I will give you $5000."

"And then," continued Delahunty "he tore off five $1000 bills."

A cablegram from Canfield, dated Feb. 20, 1903, was read saying that "the senator" must pay in full. Delahunty stated, in reply to a question of his counsel, that the individual referred to was a United States senator, but the name was not revealed, objection to further questions on this line being sus-

Mr. Delahunty also testified that Canfield had told him that his annual ncome was $500,000. He said that Canfield kept $1,000,000 worth of securities and other papers in his strong box. Regarding some of these papers, Bucklin had once told the witness: "There are letters there which mean ocial ruin to certain people."

Manager Bucklin's attempts to escape arrest about the time that Canfield was in Europe were mentioned by Dela hunty, who said that the manager west the Y. R. Boston, May 29 .- District Attorney Moran last night addressed a letter to Speaker Cole of the house of representatives, criticizing him for his alleged statements concerning the bribery investigation. The district attorney

"Your statement that the district attorney and the grand jury had failed to find any ground for an indictment is not true. "If you had said that the grand. jury had returned no indictment to court you might have been within the lines of truth, but when you state that the grand jury failed to find any ground for an indictment, meaning thereby that there was no evidence sufficient to justify an indictment, you are stating that which is false."

SHIFT IN MINISTRY

Czar Can Make No Progress With Fresent Cabinet

THE AGRARIAN PROGRAM

Much More Liberal Than Was Anticipated, but Will Not Be Accepted by Representatives of the People

St. Petersburg, May 29.—Rumors of a shift in the ministry are everywhere current. It is persistently reported here and at Moscow that former Finance Minister Shipoff has received an urgent summons to Peterhof to confer with Emperor Nicholas, presumably with regard to the formation of a new cabinet, although he has frequently expressed his unwillingness to take over the premiership. The situation is so plainly impossible that a shift is not at all improbable. It is also rumored that Prince Urusoff has been summoned to an audience of the czar. In the meanwhile the present ministry, among whom there is no Daniel to read the handwriting on the wall in the attitude of the lower house of parliament, is calmly going ahead with ts agrarian program, which it hopes to submit to the lower house within a fortnight and, contrary to expectation, to provide for the distribution of millions of acres of crown lands in European Russia. All this seems to be labor lost, as in the present temper of parliament, which has taken the bit, in its teeth, no proposition from the government, however liberal, is apt to receive the slightest consideration

The government's policy, it is authoritatively announced, is founded on the expectation that enough land can be obtained by the division of the crown lands, the clearing of a portion of the imperial estates, and the voluntary sales of private estates to meet the land hunger of the peasants without the necessity of forced expropria-

Outlining these plans, Minister of Agriculture Stichinsky said last eveng that the government already had at disposal 25,000,000 acres, composed of 10,000,000 acres of crown arable land situated largely in the Volga re gion, 6,250,000 acres of clearable for ests and 8,750,000 acres of private estates, the owners of which have announced their readiness to sell. With out doubt thousands of other land ownwhich stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, ers will be only too anxious to dispose will be most gratefully received. of their holdings at reasonable prices. These lands will be sold to peasants on time through the peasants' bank, the payments not commencing for several years.

> The program, in addition to colonization of Siberian and Central Asia, contemplates the improvement of the agricultural methods of the peasantry, which are primitive and unproductive in the extreme, and for bringing the peasants, whose gregariousness leads to their gathering in villages and even in towns of a population as high as 30, > been flooded with telegrams from So cial Democratic organizations, de manding that the house adopt an offengive program, transfer itself into a constituent assembly, seize the reins of power and address a manifesto to the troops, calling upon them to transfer their allegiance from the czar to the people's representatives.

> Fighting the Eight-Hour Bill Washington, May 29.-Another hearing in opposition to the eight-hour bill was given by the house committee on labor. Daniel Davenport of Bridgeport, Conn., representing government contractors, and W. B. Cowles of Cleveland, representing manufacturers of electrical apparatus, were the speakers. President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who was present, maintains that the hearings are simply a device to prevent action at this session of congress.

A Nurses Home.

The people of Quincy who are interested in building a nurses home in connection with our Hospital will be interested in the dedicatory exercises soon to take place in South Framingham, Mass., when the new nurses home there will be formally presented to the Framingham Hospital. It is the gift of the Day Brothers, of R. L. Day & Co., Boston. The land on which the building is located adjoins the Hospital grounds and is connected with William D. Nagle vs. Charles Granville the Hospital by a long corridor. It is of brick, of most attractive architecture, conveniently and comfortably arranged in every particular. Besides the accommodations for the forty nurses there are receptions rooms and library for their personal use. The cost of the building and furnishings will be more than fifty thousand dollars. The land was given by Miss Merriam, who has given also a charming house and

pressive tribute to the nation's dead in old Virginia. The president delivered a patriotic oration in the grounds of the naval hospital at Portsmouth and directly afterward unveiled a handsome marble shaft erected by the Army and Navy union in the cemetery adjoining the hospital grounds to the memory of its fallen comrades. In his speech at the naval hospital the president said

"Exactly as there is no other body of men to whom in the past we have owed so much as to the veterans of the Civi war, so there is no other body of men among all of our citizens of today who as a whole deserve quite as well of the country as the officers and enlisted men of the army and navy of the United

"The first duty of a leader, civil or nilitary, is to lead; and he must lead well. Nevertheless it remains true that no leader can accomplish very much unless he has the right kind of men to

"Unless the enlisted man has the right stuff in him it stands to reason that no officer can get it out of him, because i s not there to get out.

"So in civil life. In the last analysis it is the man behind the ballot who ounts most in civil life, just as it is the man behind the gun who counts

"So again in our republic as a whole it is just as true in peace now as it was 45 years ago in war that it is the character of the average man that must be the determining factor in achieving national success or going down to na tional disaster.

"Leadership is necessary in order that we may get really good results out of average individual the leadership by itself can avail but little.

"The average voter needs to learn and to keep steadily in mind the fact that if in the last resort the real power is his, so in the last resort the real re sponsibility is his. He cannot cast off on anyone else the responsibility for our governmental shortcomings.

"The alertness, the instant response to the demand made upon them, the mixture of self-reliant initiative with orderly obedience and coherence of action, the high personal valor and the steady endurance and strength shown by the soldiers and sailors of the regular army and navy in coping with this disaster, were as great as if shown in ime of battle.

"Such a record should make every true American proud of the army and navy and should make every true American resolute to see that through our national authorities at Washington we make such provision by law for the maintenance, the support and the training of the army and navy that they shall ever stand in the forefront of their respective professions."

Trolley Crew's Poor Memory Said to Have Caused Smashup Hopkinton, Mass., May 31.-Two trolley cars came together in a head-on collision a mile east of this place and nearly a score of passengers were injured, most of the injuries, however, being confined to severe bruises and cuts. Mrs. Jennie Elliott, 70 years old, was the most seriously hurt, receiving a fracture of the skull and severe nervous shock. She was taken to a

Story of Assassination Plot

London, May 31 .- A plot to assassinate King Alfonse on his wedding day has been discovered in London, according to an unconvincing story published by The Evening Standard. Fifty anarchists who are said to be concerned in the conspiracy are alleged to be on their way to Madrid with the intention of carrying out the attempt as the king is leaving the church. The plan is said to have been hatched in Spain and London, but it is added that the police got wind of it and will take all the precautions necessary to protect the king. The project, it is asserted, included a revolution after the assassination, with the view of overthrowing the monarchy. The Evening Standard further asserts that Spanish officers are implicated in the plot. The Guatemalan Revolution

Mexico City, May 31.-News from General Toledo, the former war minister of Guatemala, who is advancing from Salvador into Guatemala with 2000 troops, is satisfactory to the revolutionists, who announce a glorious victory over the Guatemalans. It is reported that Ocos was stormed last light by new forces with an American officer in charge.

Japan May Get Cotton From Korea Tokio, May 31 .- The members of the house of representatives who have been visiting Korea to study the cotton prospects report that they think the crop ought to be worth $40,000,000 annually. Japan now imports yearly $56,000,000 worth of cotton, which probably will be largely replaced by Korean cotton should the estimate be forrect.

Hole Punched In Bottom of War Engine Which Cost Five and a Quarter Millions--Has Been In Commission but Short Time

London, May 31 .- It is feared that the British navy will lose one of its best vessels, the first-class battleship Montagu, which struck on the rocks at Lundy Island during a dense fog, and, according to latest reports, is not likely

Naval experts are of the opinion that to attempt to refloat the Montagu under present conditions will mean her disappearance in 30 fathoms of water, as she is fixed precariously on a ledge and in danger of overturning. If possible, an attempt will be made to patch up the vessel before any effort is undertaken to float her off.

The Montagu struck on a granite cone, southwest of Lundy island, known as Shutter point, at 2:10 yesterday morning. She has a bad hole in her bottom, in the fore part of her starboard side. Several of her compartments are full of water and the engine room, boiler rooms and stokeholes are flooded. The battleship lies listed heavily to starboard with water above her torpedo nets and still gaining. She has lost both propellers and her wireless apparatus and besides has several holes in her plates.

The battleship Duncan and a num ber of tugs and other vessels are on their way to Shutter point from various places to assist the Montagu.

Penzance in preparation for the forthcoming maneuvers and apparently missed her course in a fog. She appears to be firmly fixed on the rocks pears to be firmly fixed on the rocks and if a storm springs up her position will be very perilous.

Little is as yet known as to what happened when the vessel struck. All the members of the crew were saved, & but several of the men had limbs broken or were otherwise injured. It is reported that something in the nature of a panic took place when the Mon-

Planning Bureaucratic War

St. Petersburg, May 31 .- A campaign of unceasing attacks on the ministry, by means of a daily bombardsubject of bureaucratic abuses, has been mapped out by the Constitutional Democratic central committee. The condemnation to death of Warsaw terrorists for the attempted murder of a policeman and the trial by court martial of 36 more political prisoners at Riga, who are in jeopardy of execution, has precipitated another outburst of fury against the government.

Killed by Automobile Crash

New York, May 31 .- Reuben J. Taylor, superintendent of the Continental Fire Insurance company, was killed by the fall of his automobile over a 35foot embankment on Riverdale avenue. Taylor, who was accompanied by his wife, attempted to drive up a steep hill, when the car began to back. Mrs. Taylor jumped and escaped unhurt. Her husband was found unconscious beneath the car and was taken to a hospital, where he died.

Bombs For Hated Governor

Borjom, May 31.-Two bombs were thrown at General Alikhanoff, governor general of Kutais, seriously wounding Alikhanoff, a member of his staff and several Cossacks. The remainder of the Cossacks immediately fired indiscriminately into the crowd, killing many persons. In addition the Cossacks burned to the ground buildings in the vicinity into which the people had fled. Alikhanoff is the most hated man in the Caucasus.

Objection to Tobacco User

Richmond, Ind., May 31.-Because Rev. John A. Burnett uses tobacco, the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church, by a decisive vote, rejected the resolution of the committee on nominations that he be made general secretary of the Young People's society. The name of Rev. W. W. Lawrence was substituted.

MICHALL DAVITT DEAD

Remarkable Man In the Latter-

Day History of Ireland Dublin, May 31 .- A notable career closed last might, when, after a long and painful illness from neurosis, Michael Davitt died peacefully and painlessly at 12 o'clock. Mrs. Davitt, who had been in constant attendance on her husband until a few days ago, when she herself was taken ill, lies prostrate in the same hospital, too weak to leave the room. She has not yet been informed of her husband's death. Michael Davitt, known for years as the "father of the Irish Land league." was of the peasant class himself, born of poor parents. He was only a mere boy when his parents were evicted from their small holding, and the bitterness of that event sank into his soul.

The family then removed to Lancashire, Eng., where young Davitt went to work in a mill. In 1866 Davitt oined the Irish revolutionary movement and four years later he was tried for treason andd felony.

He got a 15-year sentence and saw much of the misery of the English prison system. He lost his arm working on some prison machinery. When he was released as a ticket-of-leave man he started the famous Land league agitation which later was carried to success by Parnell and the Irish parliamentary party. In 1881 he was reimprisoned on his ticket-of-leave and compelled to serve 15 months more. Later he served four months more in prison. Davitt resigned his seat in the British parliament as a protest against r 7 43 abc the war against the Boers.

Mr. DeGraw, the fourth assistant thority from Postmaster General Corwhich, it is believed, will materially aid in solving the problem and thereby benefit the general public and relieve the department. The plan contemplates inclosing with each letter forwarded to addressee or returned to writer from the division of dead letters a card containing a model form of brief instructions in connection with the writing of addresses.

The card bears the suggestion that ink be used in writing addresses, that the name of the addressee as well as the street number, postoffice and state be written plainly and that the writer's name and address, with a return request, be placed in the upper left hand corner of letters, etc.

Mr. DeGraw believes that if these suggestions are followed there will be a marked reduction in the number of pieces of mail matter that fail of delivery.
